"The children eventually find out that's not true and begin to think the world is phony," she said. "Recently, I have seen too much of a tendency toward suicide in adolescents. And they say it is because the world is not what they want or that everything is phony.

"We have to let adolescents know that adults aren't all marvelous and strong," she said.

Konopka told her audience that they have to be especially sensitive to the fact that adolescents go through enormous changes. "If I, in one day, would move from total despair to total exhilaration, someone would question my emotional balance," she said. "But it's normal for adolescent and sometimes frightening to adults.

"There are things happening to their bodies that are totally new to them," she said. "Anyone of us who experiences a totally new situation comparable to that is bound to show fear, anxiety and insecurity."

And, she said, adults have to be willing to take chances in order to convey respect to young people successfully. "We've been telling parents as well as young people that they're not supposed to make mistakes. So they don't learn. You learn from mistakes, but we act as if we must never make mistakes."

Konopka spoke before the Midwest conference of the Child Welfare League of America at the Radisson hotel in Minneapolis.

Minnesota Food Product Drive To Be Continued

Extension of Minnesota's successful food and agricultural products sales promotion campaign in the domestic market has been approved for a 13th season by the Expo advisory committee to the Minnesota department of agriculture.

Expo sales pitches will be bidding for a bigger Minnesota share of some $12-billion that 18-million consumers annually spend for groceries in Maryland, Texas, Oklahoma, Alabama, Washington, and Hawaii.

M.C. Combs, state agricultural marketing director, said Minnesota has a tremendous potential for new and expanded markets for its food and fiber industry in the six major metropolitan markets added to the Expo schedule. He pointed out that only one per cent of the total grocery sales in these markets would represent $120-million in new income annually for Minnesota.

Minnesota Food Expos are financed by participating state farm commodity organizations, food processors, manufacturers, and distributors, with the state department of agriculture as co-sponsor and coordinator. The Department's marketing division actually reporesets a solicits trade leads for all Minnesota based agricultural products in each market.

Fiscal 1974 targets schedule for Minnesota Food Expos are: Dallas, Tx., September 11,; Baltimore, Md., October 10,; Tulsa, Okla., November 7, Birmingham, Ala., February 13; Seattle, Wash., March 13, 1975; and Honolulu, Ha., April 16, 1975.

The Expo advisory committee also tentatively scheduled fall 1975 Minnesota Food Expos for the Quad Cities (Moline, East Moline, and Rock Island, Ill. and Davenport, Ia.; Salt Lake City, Utah, and Tampa, Fla.

This Thursday, May 23, the final Minnesota Food Expo of the fiscal 1974 marketing campaign will be presented in Atlanta, Ga.

Loan Criteria From SBA Office Is Now Changed

An "energy crisis" procedure for determining eligibility of loan applicants as small business concerns has been adopted by the Small Business administration.

Under ordinary procedures a non-manufacturer, such as an automobile dealer or recreational vehicle dealer, could qualify for an SBA loan only if its receipts for its most recently completed fiscal year did not exceed a given amount, depending on the industry.

However, SBA recognizes that many concerns, whose receipts for the preceding fiscal year exceeded the applicable size standard, have suffered substantial loss of business because of a shortage of energy and materials.

Under the new rule, which became effective March 27, if a concern has completed at least three months of its current fiscal year and because of the energy crisis shows receipts for those months of at least 25 per cent lower than its receipts for the corresponding months of the preceding fiscal year, SBA will reduce the preceding fiscal year's receipts by the same percentage in determining the firm's size eligibility.

SBA adopted a comparable rule for use in computing a firm's average number of employees, which is the criterion used in measuring the size status of a manufacturing concern.

These new rules should permit SBA to grant financial assistance to many concerns which have been adversely affected by the energy crisis and which, under regular SBA rules, would be considered as other than small business.

Information about this and all other SBA programming is available at the Agency's office in Minneapolis at 12 South Sixth Street.

Humphrey Complains On Housing Policy

Senator Hubert H. Humphrey, chairman of the subcommittee on consumer economics of the joint economic Committee, said today that "the housing policy of the Nixon administration is a national disgrace."

"While the housing measures announced by the President on Friday are a step in the right direction," he said, "they will do virtually nothing to lower exhorbitant home loan interest rates, or assist American workers and their families in the face of soaring housing costs. In sum, they are totally inadequate.

"American home building is now in the grips of a serious depression, after a recession of well over a year, which could force a 20 per cent drop in housing starts during 1974.

"The growing weakness of the housing market will not only further aggravate the present economic situation, but it will directly affect the American consumer by pushing the price of housing to even higher levels."

The Minnesota Senator's remarks in the U. S. Senate were made in conjunction with the release of a study, entitled "The Housing Outlook for 1974," prepared for the subcommittee by the congressional research service.

"The administration's February forecast that 'Housing starts should reach bottom soon and begin to rise...' is clearly 'inoperative,'" he maintained.

"It is simply one more in a long line of nearsighted economic projections that have been made by this administration and quickly disproved by the hard facts."

Humphrey pointed out that in March the annual starts rate was down to 1.46 million, "an incredible 900,000 below the number of housing starts in 1972."

And he indicated that there are several factors that continue to undermine any economic revival in housing starts and sales.

"For one thing," he said, "there is an unusually large inventory of unsold new homes. At the end of February 1974, the number of new homes up for sale was 459,000. This is almost equal to what the total number of new homes sold throughout 1974 would be at the seasonally adjusted rate of new-home sales in February.

"The slowdown in new home sales also is due in large part to rising prices for homes. In February, the median price of a new one-family home was about $35,000, 18 per cent above the 1973 figures, and far out of the financial reach of most families.

"Most important, however, the slowdown in housing continues to be the result of a lack of mortgage funds and rising mortgage interest rates.

"Soaring interest rates, scarce mortgage money and rapidly rising housing prices have combined to put home ownership beyond the reach of most Americans."

"As a result of these factors, it is likely that housing starts will total a mere 1.60 million units in 1974.

"The nation cannot afford such an underutilization of its housing industry resources, particularly while we are in recession.

"Nor can we fail to recognize the tremendous increase in housing requirements during the remainder of this decade."

Humphrey observed that "recent studies project a 33 per cent jump in new households established by 1980 and the need for 23 million new housing units by that time.

"Congress and the Administration must give urgent attention to developing some way of assuring that mortgage money at reasonalbe interest rates is available to our people," he maintained. "The approach outlined by the Administration last week is simply inadequate. While the solutions are not obvious, we can make progress if we give this problem the attention it deserves."

Humphrey outlined steps that the President could take immediately to boost the housing market:

Implement the unused contract authority for the Section 235 home ownership program which would support some 200,000 additional housing units;

Reactivate the section 202 loan program for housing for the elderly which could support the creation of an additional badly needed 25,000 to 30,000 units with authorized funds;

Reallocate authorized rural housing loan funds, so that the Farmers' Home Administration could utilize more of the funds to provide new housing."

Environment Is Study Offering At Bemidji SC

Environmental studies have become a major offering of Bemidji state college, as Minnesota's higher education coordinating commission approved degrees at the bachelor and graduate level in environmental studies.

The new programs do not require additional staff, but some new courses will be necessary, as well as variations in courses that are already in the curriculum. Addition of bachelor and master degree programs in environmental studies means that BSC now offers a program for virtually anyone wishing to work in the field.

A two-year associate of science degree in environmental technology had already been instituted at the college and students may now choose to take that series, or to go on for a bachelor's degree that will put them at a professional level in environmental employment.

Further information is available from Dr. Charles Fuchsman, Sattgast Hall, BSC, Bemidji, Mn. 56601.

Current Housing Seminar Topic At Crookston

A series of seminars on current housing legislation are being offered throughout the state under the joint sponsorship of the state planning agency, the Minnesota housing finance agency, league of Minnesota municipalities, regional development commissions and the metropolitan council.

Agricultural resource center building at the University of Minnesota technical Crookston will be the site for the seminar being held in Crookston on Thursday from 7 to 10 p.m. The public is invited without charge.

Major emphasis of the program will be on the housing rehabilitation program proposed by Governor Wendell Anderson to the legislature during the 1974 session. As part of this legislation, the Minnesota housing finance agency was provided with a $100 million bond fund for use in making home rehabilitation loans. James Dlugosch, director of the Minnesota housing finance agency, stated that the series of seminars are being held to inform citizens, local units of government, lending institutions and others about the operation of the program, eligibility requirements and application procedures.

According to Dlugosch, the 1974 legislative session added a variety of other tools that will aid in the revitalization of communities and neighborhoods. These will be explained by participating agency representatives and other fatulty including James Solem, director of the office of local and urban affairs, Minnesota state planning agency; Philip Cohen of the league of Minnesota municipalities; Bruce Beneke, Ramsey county legal aid society; Kermit Mahan, director of the Austin housing and redevelopment authority; and Martin Meldahl, rehabilitation director of the Duluth housing and redevelopment authority.

Local units of governments will be especially interested in amendments to the hazardous building act and the state housing and redevelopment act, Dlugosch said, which permit local officials to take action on acquisition and rehabilitation of dilapidated housing.

Dlugosch will also outline the procedures for participating in a $300 million bond fund program for financing apartment development and home mortgages. This program which is in its second year of operation was increased by $350 million during the 1974 legislative session. Loan money for apartment development will be available directly from the housing finance agency and loans for home purchases will be available through local lending institutions by early August.

For further information, contact James Dlugosch, Minnesota Housing Finance Agnecy, Hanover Building, St. Paul, Minnesota 55101 (Phone: 612-296-0959).

Thought For The Day

Trust is the ability to place confidence in another person. It means that we believe that he or she can do what the task involves.

People can totally disturb one another by not allowing or showing that confidence which is so desperately needed. If we continually tell persons we don't trust them, they can even come to the place where they do not trust themselves.

Parents impart distrust to their children rather than the necessary support needed. Employers are continually on the backs of employees so that they will remain "busy". Persons in organizations give tasks to another and then do it themselves, just in case it doesn't get done.

Without trust in one another there can never be the satisfying confidence that comes from ture cooperation. Do you dare to trust? It can make all the difference in the world.

Rev. James R. Swanson
St. Hilaire ALC Parish

Memorial Day

As a nation primarily at peace at the present time, we tend to soon forget the sacrifices made by our country's military personnel to help us remain a free nation and to permit us this peace. Memorial day is a chance for us to do a little remembering.

Memorial services are being planned at a number of locations around the area, including Thief River Falls. Some are being held on days other than the official Memorial day on Monday and we find no fault with this practice. The observance and the memory are more important than the day of observance.

We thank our veterans organizations, service clubs, schools and others who participate in the various memorial programs and exercises and the speakers who are called upon to bring the memorial addresses. And we urge those who can to attend the services, both as a tribute to our service personnel and a display of support for our country.

City Election

No sooner is the school district election a matter of history than voters in the city of Thief River Falls must turn their attention to the city election to be held on Tuesday. Polls will be open from noon to 8 p.m. at Northrop school, Masonic hall, city auditorium, Knox school and Franklin school.

Like the school election, the city election is difficult to predict because of the number of candidates seeking election. five candidates are competing for the one alderman-at-large position and three have filed for the fourth ward seat on the council.

Also like the school board contest, campaigning has been vigorous by nearly all of the candidates involved. This interest in local government is great to see in our community and we commend the city candidates—just as we commended the school district candidates—for their willingness to serve.

A large turn-out of voters would be appreciated by all of the candidates we are sure, and it would seem that citizens of Thief River Falls owe that much to people offering their services. Special legislation was secured to give residents the right to vote on replacement of two aldermen killed in an airplane crash, rather than have their vacancies filled by appointment. City voters should now prove themselves worthy of that legislative act.

Continuing past election practice, we are going to predict the outcome as we see it. And we again state that our predictions are made only for fun and for comparative purposes and do not constitute an endorsement for any candidate or opposition to anyy candidate.

Our guess is that the race for alderman-at-large will be between O.E. Engelstad and Mrs. Lovanell Kraemer. Engelstad, a former alderman, has been making extensive personal contact and, as a life-long resident of the community, is already well known. Mrs. Kraemer, although a resident for more than five years, brought impressive leadership credentials with her and has evidenced a sincere interest in Thief River Falls. We think enough people will agree that there is a place for a woman on the council and predict a narrow victory for Mrs. Kraemer.

Fourth ward is a large ward and the three candidates there could be bunched quite closely. John Steidl was an unsuccessful candidate in an earlier fourth ward race but has the benefit of that experience and exposure. Jerry Wedul and Bill Penning are new to the city political arena. We'll flip a three-headed coin and predict Penning as the victor with Wedul a close second.

And we invite anyone interested to compare predictions—as long as it is done before the election. We've heard all of the post election "I could have told you. . ." comments that we want to hear.

Be sure to vote for the candidates of your choice on Tuesday.

Guide For Parents

Following comments were published recently in the Minneapolis Tribune:

For a century or more, parents have been bombarded with advice about how to bring up their children. Doctors, nurses, teachers and divines have purveyed their admonitory wares, and in recent decades they have been joined by psychologists and psychoanalysts.

But were we to collect all that good advice and inspect it, what should we find? Little more, I'm afraid, than a cacophony of contradiction. To every thesis there would be antithesis.

Pity, therefore, the poor parent. The more conscientious he or, more commonly she is in seeking advice, the more confused, the more anxious and the more anxious the less happiness and enjoyment she will get.

That's very sad, because caring for children means a lot of hard work,. and the only payment parents will ever receive is the enjoyment of their children's company and pride in seeing them turn out well. Anxiety and foreboding make a poor beginning.

How come, we may ask, is there so little agreement among the experts? As one of those experts, let me offer my own inevitably one-sided opinion.

We differ, I believe, on how we picture the raw human nature that emerges into the world when a baby is born.

Some of us believe that here is a creature who, with love and sensitive care, is capable of growing into a companionable person; who will acquire the social customs of his family by the examples he observes whose native egotism will be balanced by a no less native altruism; who, in fact, given love, support and a good example, will grow up no worse and perhaps a little better than the rest of us.

Others believe the raw material is much less promising. "The perfectly normal infant," we are told, "is almost completely egocentric, greedy, dirty, violent in temper, destructive in habit, profoundly sexual in purpose, aggrandizing in attitude, without conscience or moral feeling, whose attitude to society is opportunist, inconsiderate, domineering and sadistic."

Only vigilance and a stern regime, it is plain, can turn that woefully ill-designed recruit into anything resembling a tolerable citizen. For parents that means a long, uphill struggle to socialize an inherently antisocial animal.

Psychologists and psychoanalysts, I'm afraid, are still to be found on each side of that great divide.

During the last decade or two, we who are cautious optimists have made much progress in that debate. For example, from an array of studies, mostly American, we now have solid evidence about what sorts of environments facilitate the development of self-reliance and socially cooperative young adults and also what sorts of environments make for anxious, unhappy and alienated ones.

Believe it or not, self-reliant, cooperative human beings are found to grow in stable and trusting homes in which both parents are actively supportive and encouraging. In which discipline is by guidance and example and not be precept or punishment, homes from which the children are encouraged to go forth and to which they are always welcome to return.

Conversely, disturbed and difficult children come from disturbed and difficult homes in which care has been insensitive and discipline inappropriate, in which they have been in some degree neglected or rejected or subjected to punitive threats, often of abandonment.

In a great many cases, inept treatment of children stems from parents who themselves had difficult childhoods that have left them handicapped in their ability to care for their children. But in other cases trouble springs from faulty information or simple selfishness.

To parents who are willing and able to provide their offspring with a stable home base with all the patience and hard work that entails, those findings are reassuring.

But why, oh why, they will ask, has it required a major research effort to reach a conclusion that to them will seem blindingly obvious?

Borrowed Nonsense

The speaker of the evening was primping in the mirror before leaving to give his humorous talk on "POLITICS-...and a few other frustrations."

"I wonder how many great men there are in the world?" he mused.

"One less than you think," said his wife.

"You're a cheat!" shouted the defense lawyer at his opponent.

"You're a liar!" charged the other lawyer.

The judge banged his gavel.

"Let's proceed with the case," he said dryly, "now that the attorneys have been identified."

NEARLY 70,000 fourth graders will be planting a tree provided by the Minnesota forest industries under a program jointly offered by the Minnesota departments of natural resources and education and the forest industries committee. Norway pine and white spruce seedlings were offered to every elementary school in Minnesota this year under the expanded program. As a result, nearly 600 schools are participating in the seedling project. The seedling program was originally developed in 1968 and to date nearly 200,000 trees have been distributed. Seedlings are individually packaged by the sheltered workshop of Grand Rapids and by the Ski club of Cloquet.

Minn. Fifth In Total And Per Capita Income

There was a nationwide increase of 10¼ per cent in personal income, bringing the 1973 per capita personal income to $4,918 from $4,492 in 1972. In terms of an increase in per capita income, Minnesota ranked fifth among the states with an increase of 14.5 per cent. The 1973 per capita income for Minnesota was $4,921 compared with $4,298 in 1972. Total personal income in Minnesota was $19,175,000,000 in 1973.

The four states with a larger increase were North Dakota 29.6 per cent; South Dakota 17.2 per cent; Idaho 16.5 per cent and Kansas 14.6 per cent. Farm income accounts for much of this increase.

Personal income consists of private and government wage and salary payments in cash and in kind, other labor income, farm and nonfarm proprietors' income, interest, net rents, dividends, and transfer payments, less personal contributions for social insurance. It is measured before the deduction of personal income or other personal taxes and is reported in current dollars.

Additional data will be published by the Bureau of Economic Analysis in the April 1974 "Survey of Current Business." The Minneapolis District Office at 110 South Forth Street, will have copies of this issue available for $2.25. An annual subscription to the monthly magazine is $34.45.

The Bureau of Economic Analysis is an agency of the Social and Economic Statistics Administration of the U. S. Department of Commerce.

Toll-Free Number Set Up By Minn. Tourism Division

Tourism Division of the department of economic development will be offering visitors to Minnesota a new and more convenient tourism information service this year, commissioner James R. Heltzer announced at a St. Paul news conference recently.

In the past, vacationers received Minnesota tourism information from the tourist information center either by writing or calling collect. This year with the installation of a toll-free telephone system, 1-(800)-652-9006, that service will be made more accessible to Minnesota vacationers.

Visitors can receive information on things to see, do, and enjoy in Minnesota throughout the year by simply dialing the toll-free number. In addition to information on Minnesota's tourism activities, the system is also designed to provide reports on gasoline and service station availability throughout the state.

Heltzer commented that he does not "anticipate any severe shortage of gasoline during the coming summer months; however, we feel that it is important that vacationers know where gasoline is readily available. This system is designed to accomplish that and make vacation planning much more convenient and reliable."

Heltzer also pointed out that the Department felt it was extremely important and necessary to make the gasoline availability plan operational even though the voluntary Sunday ban had been lifted by the federal government. "Reports have recently indicated that stations have on their own reduced hours of operation or close on weekdays. Most recent counts with the Minnesota automobile associaton have indicated that only 30 per cent of the stations are voluntarily remaining open on Sundays. Therefore, we feel that our plan will help to appreciably alleviate the potential for nonavailability of gasoline in key tourism areas."

Heltzer said his Department had received grants of $99,640 from the upper great lakes regional commission and a $12,000 grant from the Minnesota resources commission to install and promote a similar system for the nine adjacent states of Illinois, Idwa, Kansas, Michigan, Missouri, Nebraska, North Dakota, South Dakota and Wisconsin.

Funds to operate the instate of Minnesota phase of the system came from an $8,060 grant from the Minnesota Legislative Advisory commision. In announcing the system, Heltzer said he was naming Henry R. Todd, Jr. as supervisor-coordinator of the program and that Todd would report to tourism director, Lisa Lebedoff. Todd has been a member of the Tourism staff since September, 1973.

Inventors Meet Offers Means To Display Talent

What does Minnesota have in common with the likes of Benjamin Franklin, Thomas Jefferson, Eli Whitney, Robert Fulton, Cyrus McCormick, Charles Goodyear, Samuel Morse, George W. Carver, Alexander G. Bell, Thomas Edison, the Wright Brothers and lesser known, more recent names like Charles Townes, key physicist in the development of the laser or Ernest O. Lawrence, conceiver of the cyclotron? Invelons.

Not that Minnesota has the most inventions or the most famous inventors like those names mentioned, but Minnesota does have the most successful, longest running inventor's exhibition in the United States and possibly the world—the Minnesota Inventors Congress. It is the only congress that annually brings inventors from many states and an occasional foreign country to display their devices and receive counsel from patent attorneys, the small business administration, the U.S. department of commerce and the Minnesota department of economic development.

In spite of today's giant industries and corporate teams developing new products, the individual, independent inventor still plays an important role in developing new concepts, improving products, and raising our standard of living. This is evidenced by the many new products and hundreds of jobs that the MIC has helped to bring about.

Of course, to the public MIC is mostly about inventions; but to the MIC directors, it is the inventors themselves that are of key importance and often fascinating people. Inventors come from all walks of life, educational backgrounds, and socio-economic levels. Some are very limited in education, but have good insight into how things work and how they can make them work better.

Often this group needs help in safeguarding their product, telling about their ideas and obtaining financing. Even the best educated, however, get taken in by invention marketing "companies" that smoothly promise much, take the inventor's money, and deliver little if anything of value. That is one of MIC's growing concerns—how to protect the inventor from what many call the biggest swindle around and one of the most difficult to catch doing things illegally.

Many inventors seem to have several things in common. A questioning, thoughtful approach, or sudden insights; an interest in developing a working model and overcoming the difficulties involved by perseverance, perseverance, perseverance.

As Thomas Alva Edison, most prolific of all American inventors with 1,093 patents, once said: "There is no substitute for hardwork. Genius is 99 per cent perspiration and 1 per cent inspiration." Of all the qualities "our" inventors seem to have, it's that one—the old American willingness to work hard and to try again, and again and again to make that inspiration a workable reality.

Each of the past 16 years of MIC has seen a broad range of devices brought here to Redwood Falls for competition: devices as simple as a newly designed door stop that really works; devices as up-to-date as special stick-em tapes for grocery stores to hang those big ads in their windows without leaving a gummy substance behind when removed; devices as sophisticated as an improved rotary engine design with far more potential than the well-known wankel; devices as well-known as the Ro-Lite camper trailers; devices as convenient as a snowmobile suit with a "drop seat." All categories as represented from big outdoors machinery to small household items.

The past few years have been several "pollution solution" inventions, and the MIC expects and encourages a surge of energy saving devices to start showing up this year. The market is fertile, the need is obvious, and industry should be eager to get in early on the possibilities.

May 20 To 26 Week To Honor World Trade

Governor Wendell R. Anderson recently signed a proclamation designating the week of May 20-26 as World Trade week. Activities during this week will focus attention on the importance of international trade to Minnesota's economy.

The week's events will center on an annual conference on international business to be held on May 23, World Trade Day, at the Sheraton-Ritz hotel in Minneapolis.

International trade is considered to play a significant role in Minnesota business. Approximately 800 Minnesota companies are presently involved in export activity, and the state's rapidly growing export sales are estimated by the Minnesota department of economic development to have reached nearly $1.5 billion in 1973.

The conference will feature presentations and workshops on a number of topics in the field of international business: export-import work, international finance and shipping, legal developments in foreign trade, foreign investment and world tourism. The conference is designed for Minnesota businessmen in both agriculture and industry.

Dr. Bruce K. MacLaury, president of the ninth federal reserve bank and chairman of World Trade day, said in announcing the conference, "The citizens of this state are obviously aware of the importance of foreign markets for the agricultural products that are produced here. They also know that the Twin Cities area is headquarters for a number of our nation's largest multinational corporations.

"What is perhaps less well-known is the growing importance of foreign trade to many of our smaller industries in the state. Our rising exports not only mean jobs and income, but wider realization of the interdependence of the world in which we live."

Further information and registration materials can be obtained from the Minnesota department of economic development, a cosponsor of World Trade day, by contacting the World Trade Desk, Department of Economic Development, 480 Cedar Street, St. Paul, Mn. 55101, (612) 296-5012.

Better Hearing, Speech Month Is Proclaimed

Governor Wendell Anderson has proclaimed May to be better hearing and speech month in Minnesota. In order to improve the public's awareness of speech and hearing disorders, the observance has become an annual event in many states around the country.

Professionals working in the field estimate that the majority of people with speech or hearing problems are never identified or treated.

"There are probably three basic reasons why this occurs," said Richard Helgeson, president of the Minnesota Speech and Hearing association. "First, people need to be aware of some of the possible symptoms of speech and hearing disorders. If they do have a concern, many do not know whom to contact. Most unfortunately, there is a lot of misinformation about the possibility of treatment for certain speech and hearing disorders. If people know they can be helped, we are hoping that they will be more aggressive in finding out where to go.

A person who specializes in speech, language and voice problems is called a speech pathologist. The non-medical hearing specialist is an audiologist. These professionals hold positions in hospitals, school systems, community clinics or have private practices.

Speech pathologists have developed guidelines to help patients or their relatives spot potential problems. Parents may want to have a child evaluated at age two if the child has a known cleft palate or very nasal voice quality. Two-year olds who have never babbled or used any sounds and three-year olds who use few words or who do not put words together into sentences should be seen.

A parent should also be concerned about a three-year old whose speech is difficult to understand. A four-year old with any of these problems, or one who does not have communication skills adequate for school, should be evaluated. Five-year olds with hoarse or unusual voices may require treatment. Adults, too, may have speech and language problems, often but not always associated with medical problems such as strokes or brain surgery, cleft palate, cerebral palsy, central nervous system disease and removal of the larynx.

Audiologists encourage all parents to monitor their child for signals that might indicate hearing loss. Very young infants should be startled by loud sounds and look or turn toward noise. An eight to 12-month-old baby should respond to quiet sounds like a whisper or rattle. The two-year old toddler should name some common objects and be able to repeat simple words after the parent. A child who does not seem to be learning to talk may have a hearing loss. Children who turn the television up very loudly or do not respond appropriately when they are spoken to should be evaluated.

Adults who have worked for a time around loud noise or find they have trouble hearing conversation or other sounds should have their hearing checked. Almost all hearing problems can be helped, and if the problem is very minor, a person can sometimes be given advice to avoid further loss of hearing.

To find out where there are speech pathologists and audiologists in their community, people can contact the Community Information and Referral Service in Minneapolis at 339-1431, St. Paul at 291-1431, Duluth at 727-8538, or write the Minnesota Speech and Hearing Association 319 Fifteenth Avenue S.E., Minneapolis, Minnesota 55455.

Supply Of Gas Up Considerably In Past Week

Gasoline supplies increased considerably this past week in the state, according to the Minnesota state automobile association (AAA) and the auto clubs of Minneapolis and St. Paul.

In its weekly survey of gasoline stations around the state, the motoring organization found that more than 20 per cent of the stations surveyed said their supplies had improved over the week before.

Also, none of the stations surveyed reported that its gasoline supplies were poorer than the week before. This is the first time since last fall that stations have not reported some declining allocations, the AAA said.

The average prices for gas inched up a little more this past week, the survey found. The average price for regular gas was 55.1 cents per gallon, up from 54.9 cents the week before. The average price of premium was 58.8 cents, up from 58.5 cents the week before.

Hours of operation continue to improve, the AAA said. Nearly two-thirds of the stations surveyed reported hours past 7 p.m. on weekdays and Saturdays. And stations open for Sunday sales of gas reached 36 per cent this past week, the highest figure since the lifting of the ban on Sunday gas sales.

Limitations on sales has virtually disappeared. But average prices in St. Paul range fully two cents higher than in Minneapolis, the survey revealed. Hours of operation in Minneapolis, however, averaged the shortest of any area in the state.

The AAA noted that conservation of fuel is still necessary by all motorists if severe shortages are to be avoided this summer.

School Board Given New Salary Proposal

Salary proposal by the Thief River Falls school district teachers' negotiating team was presented to the board of education Thursday evening by Mrs. Clarice Gallher, chairman. The presenatation had been delayed by the team until after the school elections last Tuesday to avoid the possibility of it becoming an election issue.

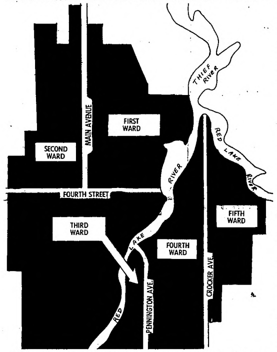
A tabulation of proposed salaries presented by the teachers shows a range from $9,400 for a teacher with BA degree and no experience to $17,100 for a teacher with MA degree plus 45 credits and 14 years of experience. Present minimum is $7,500 for a starting BA degree teacher with a maximum of $13,925 for a teacher with a master's degree and 30 credits. The new proposal also asks for initiation of a salary lane for teachers with a doctorate.

With the total negotiations package now presented to the board, the proposal is being computed by the superintendent's office to determine cost increase from the present contract. Initial estimate by the superintendent's office is that the request is in excess of 20 per cent—much the same as proposals being presented to other school districts throughout the state.

Formal negotiation on the first part of the negotiations package was begun with board chairman Curtis Charlson serving as negotiator for the board. Cost information of the total proposal will be available for the next negotiations meeting on Thursday when Wallace Sparby, vice chairman, will serve as negotiator for the board. Subsequent negotiating sessions have been scheduled for June 6 and June 18.

The salary proposal noted above is for base salary only and is exclusive of extra-curricular assignments or fringe benefits such as insurance.

Serving with Mrs. Gallher on the negotiating team are David Morken, Edith Etter, Peter Tri and Lovanell Kraemer with Gladys Paulson and Kenneth Johnson as alternates. A one-year contract is to be negotiated.



VOTERS in Thief River Falls will go to the polls tomorrow (Tuesday) to elect two councilmen to fill the vacancies created by the deaths of William Froiland and Arthur Rambeck. Polling places are: First ward, Northrop school; Second ward, Masonic hall; Third ward, city auditorium; Fourth ward, Knox school; and Fifth ward, Franklin school. Additions annexed to the city since the above map was drawn continue to follow the dividing lines established earlier and illustrated in the map. The area north of the Red Lake river and east of the Thief River are included in the first ward. Polls will be open from noon to 8 p.m. Candidates for alderman-at-large are Lovanell Kraemer, Ralph Foster, O. E. Engelstad, Clayton Restad and Oreal Halland. Fourth ward candidates include Jerry L. Wedul, John Steidl and William (Bill) Penning. The offices will expire December 31, 1977. Local liquor establishments will be closed during the election.

Late Seeding Is Reality In Area

According to prevailing weather conditions, northwestern Minnesota will have a late spring planting of crops. However, this does not necessarily mean poor crop yields, according to Terry Courneya, Pennington county extension agent, and Olaf C. Soine, soil scientist at the Northwest experiment station at Crookston. Unless weather clears immediately and the soil dries out rapidly, planting may be late for some crops.

According to the experiment station records, the average planting date for spring wheat during the past 35 years is April 28. The earliest seeding was April 8, 1938 and the latest was May 26, 1950.

In 1970, wheat was planted in the Pennington county varietal plots on June 27 and was successfully harvested in late September. However, later maturing varieties had not ripened. As an example, Era was still green but heads were well filled when frosted while the earlier maturing Bonanza was ripe. Era yielded 34 bushels per acre, weighed 55 pounds per bushel and contained many shrunken heads with some green kernels. Bonanza yielded 35 bushels per acre with a test weight of 59 pounds per bushel and had good color.

The date of emergence is even more important than the seeding date when projecting a harvest date. This average date for wheat is May 11. In 1940 wheat was seeded on April 13 and emerged seven days later. However, in 1944 wheat was needed April 15 and emerged 24 days later. Moisture and temperature are two factors effecting emergence.

The average maturity date for

To Receive Bids On Improvements For Area Road

Bids on a federal-aid county highway improvement in Red Lake and Polk counties will be received by county auditor David G. Kankel at the county courthouse in Red Lake Falls until 2 p.m., June 10, state highway commissioner Ray Lappegaard announced, recently acting as agent for the counties.

The contracts comprising the improvement call for the laying of aggregate base, plant-mixed bituminous surfacing and aggregate shoulders on six miles of CSAH 6 east of CSAH 5 at Oklee.

Lappegaard acts as the counties' agent because federal highway trust fund money, channeled through the Minnesota highway department, will help offset improvement costs on this federal-aid secondary route. There are about 163 miles of federal-aid secondary routes in Red Lake county and 658 miles in Polk county.

Youth Hiring Program Will Begin In June

Staffs of Inter-County Community council, Inc. of Oklee, Northwest Community Action agency of Badger and Tri-Valley Opportunity council, Inc. of Crookston, have met with the staffs of Minnesota department of employment and security offices of Crookston and Thief River Falls, to develop plans for the recruitment of youth for all summer youth employment programs available to youth in Region I of Minnesota this summer.

Word has been received that there will be federal funds available again this summer for a summer youth program (formerly called NYC) in addition to the Minnesota Governor's youth program. The group agreed to use the same application forms for all summer youth programs.

Tenative instructions received at this time are that youths ages 14-21 may apply at any of the community action offices, and the offices of Minnesota department of employment and security in Crookston or Thief River Falls.

Application blanks will also be available at all of the high schools in the area. Students who wish to apply should make application at once. Those students who have already made application this spring need not apply again. Tenative cnstructions will be made available as soon as received fromthe Department of Labor, Chicago, and the State of Minnesota Manpower Planning office, St. Paul.

TAKING A VOTE among the approximately 400 people attending a meeting of the Marshall county improvement association Friday evening was accomplished by a show of hands. As this photo was taken, approximately 150 of the people in attendance were voting to "go to court" in an attempt to force a referendum on moving the county seat from Warren to Newfolden. Opinion was expressed that "we'll have to do it sooner or later anyway, so we might as well do it now". In a previous vote on alternatives the group was asked for a show of hands in favor of re-petitioning the county board for a referendum. That vote count showed approximately 75 in favor.

County Seat Question Will Be Taken To District Court

by Marvin Lundin
Times Editor

Following presentation and discussion of alternatives at a meeting in Newfolden Friday evening, the Marshall county improvement association voted to initiate court action on its quest for a referendum vote on moving the Marshall county seat from Warren to Newfolden. Accumulation of a fund to provide money for court costs was begun with approximately $700 in cash and a number of pledges obtained in an impromptu collection following the meeting.

It was estimated that approximateely $3,000 will be needed to follow through with a writ of mandamus, asking the district court to determine whether or not petitioning for the referendum is valid. Deadline of one week from the Friday meeting was set for accumulation of the legal fund with the MCIA board to meet Monday, June 3, to assess the situation and determine further the course of action to be followed. Newfolden civic and commerce association has offered $1,000 to be used for legal fees.

Petitions containing 3,911 signatures—73 more than the 3,838 required by law—were presented to the Marshall county auditor by the MCIA board a week ago. County attorney Harold Myhre has since rendered the opinion that the petitions are not valid because notice of petitioning was not posted in three places two weeks before petitioning began. The opinion stands until challenged in the courts.

Robert Fincher, chairman of the improvement association opened the meeting with a review of action to date and a summary of the county attorney's position in the matter. He also read a letter he had received from Charles Cheney, Marshall county auditor, which stated the following:

"We could not file your petitions because it appears from the affidavits that the notice was defective. Under the circumstances, the auditor nor the county board has any jurisdiction over the proceedings and any action taken would be invalid. The provision requiring posting in three places if found in MSA 645.12."

Fincher said that the posting provision referred to is an attorney general's opinion handed down in 1928 and was not made in reference to petitioning for moving of a county seat but in regard to bringing a law suit.

The MCIA chairman said he believed the county attorney presented his opinion as a delaying tactic, hoping one of several things would happen: "(1) Delay as long as they can in a court of law, which might take months, while the new courthouse could be started in Warren while action is pending; (2) that the signers of the petitions would get tired of the whole thing and give up in disgust; or (3) we all run out of money."

Commenting on concern of the Warren Sheaf and courthouse committee for splitting the county and inflicting new wounds, Fincher said the MCIA is blameless.

"The blame is with a few of our

Mary Mae Carriere And Morris J. Miller Wed

St. Bernard's Catholic church was the scene of the recent wedding of Miss Mary Mae Carriere, daughter of Mrs. Virginia M. Carriere of Thief River Falls, and Morris J. Miller, son of Mr. and Mrs. Morris I. Miller, also of this city.

Rev. James Bernauer officiated at the double ring ceremony. Music for the ceremony was provided by guitarists Jeff Loven, a nephew of the groom, and Art Welter, a friend. For the processional, they played "The Wedding Song" and "Follow Me."

To correspond with the bride's chosen colors, blue carnations graced the altar and together with greens filled the pew vases.

The bride was escorted to the altar by her uncle, Peter Carriere of Farmington. She was attired in a white floor-length gown with long sheer sleeves featuring wide lace cuffs. Lace formed the fitted bodice styled with a V-neckline with the stand-up collar, and flowed down the skirt in two panels. Matching lace edged the bottom of the skirt. Her finger-tip veil edged with lace, was held by a lace covered half-hat trimmed with white flowers centered with pearls. She carried an arrangement of artificial white daisies with green and white bows.

Attending the bride as matron of honor was her oldest sister, Mrs. Richard Malvick of Lake Park. Mrs. Wayne Malwitz of Plummer, a friend of the bride, was bridesmatron. They wore identical long-sleeved, baby blue knit gowns fashioned with V-styled bodices. White daisy trim accented the front pleat. To complete their attire each carried a white basket filled with pink, blue and white daisies.

Mark Swanson of this city, a friend of the groom, was best man. Groomsman was Del Ray Loven of Minneapolis, a nephew of the groom. The ushers were Gene Miller of this city, a brother of the groom, and Dave Heck of Fargo, N.D., a cousin of the bride. All the men of the wedding party wore black tuxedos with white shirts and blue tipped carnations.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Carriere was attired in a medium blue floor length gown with white trim on the collar and bodice. The groom's mother wore a light blue floor-length gown with the long-sleeved bodice fashioned of coordinating light blue lace. Both wore identical corsages of white daisies.

The mother of the bride hosted a reception in the church parlors following the ceremony. Mr. and Mrs. Larry Carriere, cousins of the bride, registered the guests as Mr. and Mrs. Larry Geer, brother-in-law and sister of the groom, served the punch.

Centering the serving table was a two tiered wedding cake decorated with blue roses and topped with a Christogram in a cluster of roses. Mrs. Peter Carriere, aunt of the bride, and Mrs. Arnold Keim, sister of the groom, cut and served the cake. Pouring were sisters-in-law of the groom: Mrs. Richard Miller and Mrs. Edgar Miller.

Waitresses were Mary Lou Miller, Shirley Miller, Rosey Iverson, and Mrs. Richard Anderson. Mrs. Bob Wiley arranged the gifts and Mrs. Leon Iverson pinned the flowers.

For traveling on the wedding trip to the Bahamas Islands, the bride wore a baby-blue jacket with matching skirt and a white turtleneck blouse.

The couple is now at home in this city at Northland Manor, apartment 211. The bride is a graduate of Lincoln high school and is employed by Northland Manor. The groom also attended Lincoln high school and is a student at the Area Vocational technical institute in this city. Photo, Karl Poppenhagen.

KITCHEN KARNIVAL

Recipes from the Kitchen of First Graders at Goodridge Public School

This is directed to the young boys who were standing at the corner near Wilson's Sports Centre on Thursday evening. I do not know you but you will recognize yourself by the conversation. Because of propriety, it is not possible to quote your conversation word for word, but it went something like this: "Look at that big (a string of four letter words.) He thinks he's a big (another four letter word) just because he's graduating." Another one said, "Big deal!"

I looked at the young boy walking by who was the target of your abuse. He was typical of any 1974 high school graduate. He wore the popular blue jeans and a jacket identifying him as a Lincoln high student. His hair was worn long in the style of today.

You, the hecklers, were also typical. You too wore jackets, blue jeans and had long hair. There your similarity ended. Your clothes were filthy and your greasy straggly hair needed trimming and lots of soap and water. But there was a greater difference. The young boy walked straight and tall. You slouched.

You intimated that graduating from high school was no big deal. In order to graduate, that boy that you harassed got up in the morning, while you slept. He attended classes while you skipped or played hookey. He studied his lessons every day while you procrastinated by saying, "I'll catch up tomorrow." The awards worn on his jacket he wore with pride. They were the results of many hours of hard work. A person can't win honors on a track team by just signing up, nor can a person become a hockey star by guying a pair of skates and a stick. To be an asset in any extra curricular activity requires hours of practice. While you spent your evenings having "a ball" he spent his time working for his awards.

I'm sorry that you feel that graduation isn't important, that it isn't a 'big deal'. It is a very Big Deal. It is the first step in reaching one's goal in life. It is true that not every graduate reaches his goal, but from the experiences learned in extra curricular activities they have learned to accept defeat as well as victory. They already know that losing isn't the end. In their training they learned to rise above defeat. They have a goal, and if that goal is attained or not they have the satisfaction of knowing, "I did my best."

Will you be able to say the same thing?

Today's recipe are a continuation from the cook book compiled by the First graders at the Goodrige public school.

Three ways better

Better Boy

After years of research, plant breeders have developed Better Boy, a tomato that is three ways better: resistant to verticillium, fusarium, and nematodes (VFN), the three main causes of blight in tomato plants.

Since it's also an F, Hybrid, it gives you more fruit, tastier fruit, over a longer period of time. Try it and you'll never go back to ordinary tomatoes again.

It's planting time! Plant the hybrid—plant Better Boy.

Home Start Is Next Program Of ICC Council

"Having had the wide acceptance of the Head Start program in our communities, we see the opportunity to direct community awareness toward the many needs which exist in the life of the developing 4-year old child, states Roy A. Jorgenson, director of the Inter-county community council.

"There is an evident need for the Home Start program in the pre-school age group in our area, making the acceptance of this program of vital importance. In this respect our Home Start program is a pilot program; not only teaching the children in their homes but educating the community of this need, as well as exposing them to a means by which this need can be met."

Inter-County Community council is accepting applications for the Home Start program which will begin the first of September. Selection of children and location of the program center will be determined by the number of children in the area.

Applications will be recruited for three and one-half counties—Pennington, Red Lake, East Polk and Clearwater. This program will run 32 weeks and will include 16 home visits and 32 center base days. This program will also provide health and nutrition for the child, Jorgenson said.

Applications or futher information can be obtained from the Inter-County Community office at Oklee or Bgley upon request.

Interest Rate Increases On Federal Loans

Federal interest rate on Veterans administration-backed home loans has been increased from 8¼ to 8½ per cent.

John R. Good, loan guaranty officer, VA center, Fort Snelling, said recently that the new rate, established for FHA loans by the secretary for housing and urban development, would apply to VA loans as well.

The increase, effective April 15, was necessary because of higher interest rates across the country, Good said.

The new loan rate does not apply to VA mobile home loans, which differ from regular mortgage loans in that they are for shorter terms and lesser loan amounts, he said.

County Seat Question Will Go To Court

county officials," he said. "We did our work quickly and followed the rules. Now they want to make a fight out of it. Moving the courthouse is not the issue now. Our right to vote is."

He added that a number of county officials come up for election this fall and that "we should work very hard from now 'til election time to find good people who will represent us to run against these officials who have a total disregard for the people of this county."

Alternatives presented to the association were re-petitioning under a set of rules agreed to by the association, county commissioners, county attorney and county auditor and Marshall county courthouse committee; initiation of a court action to determine validity of the petitions in question; or give up the attempt to secure a referendum.

Voting by a show of hands indicated that about 75 were in favor of 43-petitioning; 150 favored taking court action; and no one wanted to give up the attempt.

Opinion expressed by the people speaking in favor of court action was that it will be necessary sooner or later to achieve the desired vote. Re-petitioning would likely be the most economical means to follow, it was stated, but another opinion on a technical point of law would place the question in the same situation it is at present.

With a legal action started, Fincher said, it should be possible to start an injunction preventing the county from beginning construction on "the new courthouse" (the county board terms the addition a law enforcement center).

Lindemoen reviewed the financial condition of the MCIA, showing the organization to be about $700 "in the red", primarily for legal fees. Suggested rate of contribution to the legal fund was $10 per couple and "more if you can". Donations may be sent to the MCIA in care of the Marshall County state bank or to Lindemoen as treasurer of the organization. Donors should include their name and address so that a refund can be made if insufficient funds to initiate the court action are obtained.

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:

Tired of standing at the Knox spring program? So am I. Mrs. Harger puts a tremendous amount of work into this program. So do your children.

I have two suggestions: (1) Hold it at the auditorium where there is seating capacity for everyone; (2) hold it two nights at Knox.

Please call the principal at Knox school and tell him your preference. Working together we may all have a place to sit next spring.

Late Seeding Situation Is County Reality

wheat has been August 7. The earliest was July 26 in 1952, 1955 and 1967. The latest was August 28 in 1950.

The average growing season (from emergence to maturity) for wheat is 85 days during the past 35 years. Wheat required 99 days to mature in 1938 and 1942. However, it took just 79 days in 1956.

Oats has required an average growing season of 79 days during the past 35 years when the average seeding date was May 1. This resulted in an average maturity date of July 20. Barley was slightly earlier with an average maturity date of July 16 for an average growing season of 76 days, also from an average seeding date of May 1.

Seeding of oats and barley has been attempted as late as June 27 in the Pennington county varietal demonstration plot. This was tried without success in 1970 when disease problems were particularly damaging to the late plantings.

Flax required a 93 day growing season with an average seeding date of May 12 and ripening August 23. The latest flax seeding was May 29 in 1950.

Seeding, emergence and maturity will vary with the type of grain, soil and climatological factors. However, average dates can be used as guidelines. For example, if seeding is delayed until June, serious consideration should be given to substitution of short season crops in place of wheat, barley or oats. Although flax has been planted rather late in this area, this crop does not mature as the growing season extends into late August and daily sunlight is shortened.

Marlin O. Johnson, area extension agent, reports that June wheat planting may still be a better risk than the available small grain alternatives. It may be the best income possibility through about June 12. He suggests fertilizing for a 35 to 50 bushel yield using an early variety such as Bonanza, 1809, Lark or Proctor on at least part of a farm's total wheat acreage.

Unemployment Rate For April Down .2 Per Cent

Minnesota's seasonally adjusted unemployment rate for April was 4.9 per cent, down 0.2 of a percentage point from March but up 0.6 of a percentage point from April of last year, commissioner Emmet J. Cushing of the Minnesota department of employment services reported recently.

The Minnesota rate for April was much the same as the national rate which was down 0.1 of a percentage point from March.

Number of persons unemployed in April was 102,900—down 3,300 or 3.1 per cent from March but up 16,400 or 19 per cent from April a year ago, Cushing said.

Nonagricultural wage and salary employment reached 1,470,200—up 18,900 or 1.3 per cent from March and 55,900 or 4.0 per cent more than in April a year ago.

Employment in manufacturing rose to 340,300, up 3,400 from March and 17,700 over April of last year. The gains came primarily in the nonelectrical and electrical machinery categories which showed increases of 6,100 and 4,400 respectively over April of last year and improvements of 1,300 and 600 respectively over March of 1974.

Nonmanufacturing employment advanced 15,600 or 1.4 per cent from March and gained 38,300 or 3.5 per cent from April of last year. The gains over March could be attributed mainly to seasonal increases. Over the year, the most significant upswings were in trade, up 18,800, and in service, up 12,200. All categories, except the automotive industry, posted gains.

The automotive category showed an April-to-April loss of 800 jobs as compared with an average increase of 900 jobs annually over the last five year. Although the precise effects cannot be determined, this downturn reflects the availability and price of gasoline, an ebbing demand for larger automobiles, and a labor-management dispute in the industry, Cushing said.

Average wage for production workers in manufacturing in April was $176.67 for working 39.7 hours at $4.45 an hour. The average wage was down $3.19 from April because of a reduction of 54 minutes in the workweek which more than offset a two-cent increase in the average hourly wage. Compared with April of 1973, the average weekly earnings were up $6.13 due to a 27-cent increase in the average hourly pay which more than offset a one hour and six minute decrease in the workweek.

Otter Tail To Hold Up Request For Rate Hike

Otter Tail Power company recently withdrew for further study and analysis its application to the North Dakota public service commission for electric rate increases which would have averaged approximately 4.8 per cent for Otter Tail customers.

In announcing the withdrawal of its request for rate relief, Robert M. Bigwood, executive vice president of the company, said, "We filed our application on April 23, based upon our financial results and our forecasts of revenues and earnings for 1974. In fairness to all parties concerned, we now wish to restudy the material going into our application for electric rate relief.

"We remain convinced that mushrooming costs will make a rate increase necessary so that the company can continue to attract capital necessary for system additions and improvements to provide good electric service. Thus we expect we will refile our application in its present or a modified form at a later date," Bigwood said.

Thought For The Day

I just bought a pocket calculator. It's a great invention, especially for people like me who can't add beyond ten because God didn't bless us with more fingers on our hands. I can balance my checkbook now, add my gorcery list while shopping and hopefully save money, and multiply, subtract, add or divide anything in a fraction of a second. The best part is, it will be correct. I've found help to a problem in my life.

Problems are something we all face every day. What are yours? Money? Family? Old age? Young age? To find answers to problems, you must look for them. God can give answers to the most serious problems in life. If you want God to help you, go to Him.

Attend church this Sunday. Maybe just sit and talk with a pastor. Who knows what answers and helps there may be just for you.

20/20 Short Sight

Somebody ought to sue the Minnesota Civil Liberties union for its sexist discrimination against males. Maybe it could be a counter-suit to the one being brought by MCLU against University of Minnesota participation in the time-honored Rhodes Scholarship program.

Established by the will of Cecil Rhodes and incorporated into British law by parliament, the Rhodes scholarship was required by provisions of the will to be for male recipients only. It would take an act of parliament to change that provision and allow females to qualify for Rhodes scholarships, and such would be contrary to the expressed will of the donor.

And because women are not eligible for the scholarships, the civil liberties union is bringing suit to enjoin the University of Minnesota from participating in the program. It seems to us that would most certainly be discrimination against men eligible for participation and would deprive them of their right to compete for selection.

In its crusade of aggravation to upset any tradition possible on the grounds of societal improvement, MCLU presents a perfect case of 20-20 short sight. Attempting to right one superficial wrong, it can impose a dozen serious wrongs on other people. One must sincerely doubt the pure motivation for social reform which the MCLU represents.

MCLU is a catchy alphabetical name for an organization. It might well stand for More Confused Liberals United.

We Need The Drummer

Lamenting the comparison of money spent for education versus the amount spent for defense, an editorial in the recent issue of the Minnesota Education association's "MEA Advocate" publication states:

Straightening out our national priorities can be our most effective defense. Strengthening education for our children and adults can, in the longer run, build a nation better able to cope and contribute in a peaceful world while at the same time most invulnerable to unfriendly forces.

"We must insist that multiple warheads and nuclear submarines not be given priority over instructional facilities and teaching materials. We must demand that teachers not be given lower status than the merchants of war. We must set our nation marching to a different drummer."

The MEA editorial presents the statistics that less than four cents of each dollar in the 1974 federal budget is earmarked for elementary and secondary education while about 60 cents of the federal tax dollar will go for war and defense.

Our intent in commenting on the MEA editorial is not to down grade the importance of formal education which we believe to be a necessary element in a free society. It is rather to point out several viewpoints which may be seen from a different angle than the somewhat restricted vision of the MEA position.

First, the statistics relate to the federal government which has not been—and many feel should not be—deeply involved in local educational programs. Much of the funding for operating public school districts comes through the state government and the rest through local taxes. Percentage of the total tax effort by individuals which goes into the coffers of education is much, much greater than the four per cent figure mentioned.

Second, the military expenditure includes large amounts expended for education. More and more the military is becoming an educational program as it provides formal education in marketable skills to people who are generally in relatively short term military service. The military budget includes money for manpower as well as materials of war and defense, and that includes training (education) of personnel. We should never be deluded into the belief that education is something which takes place only within the confines of structured public school programs.

Third, our entire way of life in the United States—including our education system—is dependent upon maintaining our freedom to follow that way of life. Our recognized enemies as a nation are also enemies of education for the masses. Should we be unable to adequately defend ourselves as a nation, it will fall and its institutions—including our system of education for all—will fall with it.

Important as education is, defense must be given first priority. Without it, we have nothing. As much as we need an educated populace to advance the freedoms of democracy, we need the drummer more.

Don't Follow The Boys

With the increasing controversies surrounding participation by girls in school athletic programs, perhaps we would do well to consider the words of Dr. Kent Winter, principal at Orono, who wrote the following position paper on girls' sports:

"They have strongly criticized the abuses that have occurred in boys athletics and have fought against these same things happening to girls," he says. "They have, in my opinion, been right...

"Boys athletics have developed over a period of about 50 years. The girls want theirs developed NOW! (author's emphasis).

"It became quickly apparent in the early years that boys sports needed to be controlled, not promoted. The people pushing girls athletics have placed their emphasis on promotion. The abuses that have occurred in boys athletics through promotion only are legendary. Controls and structure need to be developed first..."

Noting that backers of girls athletics are passing up an opportunity to develop a sound program, Winter asks some pointed questions.

"Do they really want equality which means they will have serious injury problems, excessive night games, watered-down awards, occasional critical publicity, long seasons, training and eligibility rules to enforce, an emphasis on team sports and not on carryover sports, the disappearance of most intramural programs, and a development of little league programs used as feeder programs and not as recreational programs for young kids?

"Very little thought has been given to guarding against some of these abuses developing in girls athletics.

"Why not have later afternoon games? As spectator interest continues to wane and the energy crisis deepends the boys may as well go to afternoon games.

"Is the competition between girls good in itself or is it only good if people are watching and cheering? Will a number of those watching and cheering be those girls who would previously have participated in intramural-extra-mural sports?

"Does a girl receive satisfaction from just competing or only if she receives publicity, a letter and a free meal in the spring? Do the girls intramural programs disappear because those girls who have an interest in sports are drawn to a more glamorous athletic program? What about the reserves who only sit on the bench because the team must win and only the best will play?

"Do women coaches and girl athletes themselves really want to start practicing on Aug. 15, play Saturday evenings, practice during Thanksgiving, Christmas and Easter vacation periods, and to go to summer athletic camps?"

Pointing to the pay scale for girls coaches, Winter suggests that if they want to put in comparable time their salaries should equal that paid coaches of boys teams.

"I will be their strongest supporter," says Winter.

"Some pressure groups have proposed that girls compete in any sport offered by the school on the same teams with boys, but that the reverse would not be true; that some sports would be for girls only. This position of using discrimination only as it fits a bias is too ludicrous for comment.

"In summary, my basic premise still holds. That athletic competition for girls is desirable and educationally sound, but let it develop on student need and interest and on a philosophy which guards against some of the abuses which have been inherent in the boys program. Controls and structure need to be established first.

"To borrow a line, 'Nothing is so unequal as everyone being equal'."

Borrowed Nonsense

"I believe my husband is the most generous man on earth," exclaimed the proud wife.

"How's that?"

"I gave him six of the loveliest ties for Christmas and he took them right down and gave them to the Salvation Army."

Fellow down the block says his wife has been missing for a week. "I don't know whether she's left me or has gone shopping."

To The Editor:

I would like to express my support for ADA's request that all local candidates make financial disclosures. It seems that the financial interests of a candidate could affect his votes on a wide range of issues. Therefore, if a candidate does not release this information we may be correct in questioning his motives on certain issues.

I hope that the general public begins to demand such disclosures. Until this becomes a reality I doubt that we can expect good, representative city government.

Sincerely,
Lee Schulz

Its been seven months since the Lincoln high school football team closed out its 1973 season, but Tony Dorn, a star on that Prowler squad, continues to receive football-related honors.

It was recently announced that Dorn, a 6-2, 210 pound defensive lineman, was picked to play for the north team in the first annual Shrine all-star football game to be played in the University of Minnesota's Memorial Stadium in Minneapolis Sat., July 27.

It was made public Friday that Dorn was named as a high school All-American selection by Scouting Systems of American, a prestigious, widely-followed national publication.

A letter addressed to Tony from Scouting Systems read as follows:

"Scouting Ssytems of American proudly announces your selection to the 1973-74 high school All-American football team.

Scouting Systems of American, in the past has conducted private surveys of over 10,000 high schools and studied various new media and sports publications in an effort to identify the country's top schoolboy talent.

We, at Scouting Systems of American, believe that effort and performance of such high calibre should not go unnoticed or unrewarded. Your name will, therefore, be installed in our "Football Annual 1974." This publication is circulated to college and university coaches throughout the nation.

We are also reserving a handsome All-America plaque in your honor. This plaque would add glamour and prestige to the best of trophy collections."

The letter was from J.M. Dooley, president of Scouting Systems of America.

Dorn, of course, has signed a national letter of intent to play hockey at the University of Minnesota beginning in the 1974-75 school year.

Lincoln high school athletic director Russ Smith is still trying to recruit curlers.

Smith appealed again Thursday for any boys and girls in grades nine through twelve interested in interscholastic curling beginning in the 1974-75 school year to contact him at his office at Lincoln.

If enough interest is shown the Prowlers will field a curling team next year.

Jim Strandemo and Paul Hanson, teammates on last year's talented Mahnomen school golf team that won the 1973 region eight tournament on the Thief River Falls country club course, have both led their college teams into national tournaments this spring.

Strandemo was the first place medalist finisher in last week's Minnesota state and region XIII junior college golf tournaments to help spark Northland community college of Thief River Falls to both tournament championships and a berth in the upcoming national junior college athletic association (MJCAA) golf tournament scheduled to be held on the Mirror Lakes country club near Ft. Myers, Florida, June 3-7.

Hanson turned in the best individual score for the Bemidji State College team last week to lead the Beavers to the district 13 national association of intercollegiate athletics (NAIA) golf championship. The title earned Bemidji the right to enter the NAIA national tournament at Aberdeen, South Dakota.

I'd rather go to Florida.

Detroit Lakes, despite suffereing a pair of 4-1 losses to Thief River Falls during the 1974 regular dual meet tennis season, has turned its spring tennis program around, according to Detroit Lakes sports editor Ralph Anderson.

Anderson pointed out in a recent article that Detroit Lakes bounced back from a 1-13 won-lost record in dual meets in 1973 to 8-9 this yaar and also finished second in the Mid-State Conference tournament, barely losing out to Little Falls(11-10) in the final standings.

"All of this was accomplished with a line-up consisting entirely of underclassmen, so it's safe to say that the sport appears to be on the upswing at Detroit Lakes senior high school," commented Anderson.

Ralph Skay Announces Retirement From Baseball

Ralph Skay, the man who began the Lincoln high school baseball program 22 years ago, will step down from his Prowler head coaching position at the end of the current season.

Skay, the only head baseball coach the Prowlers have had in the history of the sport at the school, publicly announced his decision Thursday, although he had earlier tendered his resignation to school officials and had informed his current squad members of his plans.

"I just feel that I've been coaching long enough," offered Skay who has been coaching baseball for the past 34 years. "34 years is a long, long time. Now I would like to fool around the yard and drink some coffee with my wife."

Skay has become an athletic institution in northwestern Minnesota since coming to Thief River Falls in 1952. His stay here has found the likeable man coaching football, basketball and baseball while also serving as athletic director. While at Lincoln Skay served as head football coach for four years, assistant football coach four years, head basketball coach one season and assistant basketball coach three years. He resigned from his athletic directorship in 1970 after 14 years at the job.

Baseball has been the center of Skay's life, though. His remarkable coaching record in the spring sport during his Thief River Falls tenure mounted to 277 wins against only 95 losses through the 1973 season for an enviable .744 winning percentage. Under Skay's guidance the Prowlers have had only one losing season over the past 22 years. Although his present squad carries only a 5-7 record, current tournament success could bring that mark to .500 or better before the year ends; a feat not improbable since the Prowlers have won 13 district 31 baseball titles with Skay as coach.

"We've worked hard on the baseball program in Thief River Falls and I feel we've done real well," said Skay. "I guess we haven't really won as much as we should have the last few years, but that's the way the ball bounces sometimes."

"I know I'll miss it tremendously next year; you can't coach for 34 years, call it quits and then just forget it. But my old bones just can't take it anymore. It's time they get a younger man in there," explained the veteran coach.

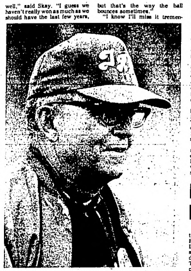
Skay admitted having thought of resigning previously. "I was going to step down last year, but Russ (current Thief River Falls athletic director Russ Smith) talked me into one more year. This time it's definite, though. I was planning it before, and then with the weather being the way its been all spring, it just kind of climaxed the whole thing."

Three state tournament trips highlighted Skay's Thief River Falls baseball coaching career. The Prowlers played in the state classic in 1955, 1959 and 1963. The 1955 edition won the state consolation championship.

"Those state tournaments are naturally the highlights of my career," noted Skay who did say, however, that last year's team was probably his best Prowler squad. "I would have to say that 1973 was my best balanced ball club. We had pitching, defense, offense and were well schooled in all the basic fundamentals of baseball." The 1973 season was spoiled, however, by three losses to rival Crookston, with the third coming in the district 31 championship game. "How we could have ever lost three game to Crookston I'll never know," questioned a still disappointed Skay, "And to think we were the only team to beat Bemidji, too."

Although his current team hasn't matched the success of most Skay-coached teams, he's quick to defend the squad. "This year's team had nothing to do with my resignation. They've all worked hard, but the weather's been hard on them too. I blame the weather for our seaon record."

"I would like to win the district tournament this year," said Skay. "And I do think we have the ability to do it if we put it all together. That, of coursse would be the best way to go out—a winner."



LONG TIME Lincoln high school baseball coach Ralph Skay announced recently that he will step down from the Prowler coaching post at the end of the current 1974 season, ending a 22 year reign in Thief River Falls.

LHS Netmen Surprise Pirates To Capture District 31 Crown

Coach Whitey Olson's Lincoln high school tennis team pulled off a major upset Thursday as the Prowler netmen outlasted Crookston and East Grand Forks to win the 1974 district 31 team tennis championship.

Defending champion Crookson was labeled a heavy favorite heading into the tournament staged on the East Grand Forks courts, but the upstart Prowlers posted a pair of identical 4-1 wins over both the Pirates and Green Wave to win the double-dual type meet. Crookston was a 4-1 winner over East Grand Forks in the day's other competition.

"I can't say anything else other than that all the kids played exceptionally well," explained an obviously happy Olson after the results were finalized. "We knew we had to play well to win, and we were fortunate enough to do so. We're real happy with the final outcome."

The day's key match-up of course, was the Thief River Falls-Crookston encounter. The strong Pirates earned a pair of dual meets 3-2 decisions over the Prowlers during the regular season, but Thursday's results were reversed.

As expected Crookston ace Brent Reichert claimed an accustomed number one singles win, beating Thief River Falls sophomore Bill LaValley 6-0, 6-0. But that was the only Crookston win over Thief River Falls.

The Prowlers won the other four matches as Tim Engelstad, switched from number one to number two singles before the match to avoid Reichert, defeated Mike Milkens 2-6, 6-4, 6-2 to reverse a loss at the hands of Wilkens a week earlier. In number three singles, Thief River Falls' Keith Breiland also turned the tables on an earlier Crookston nemisis by beating Pat Shanahan 7-5, 6-3.

Thief River Falls swept the two doubles encounters against Crookston to complete the stunning triumph. Brian Waale and Scott Engelstad whipped Chuck Olson and Guy Martin 6-1, 6-4 in number one doubles while Terry Sullivan and Gary Laidley posted a 6-4, 6-2 victory over Kevin Hendrickson and Jay Johnson in number two doubles.

The East Grand Forks-Thief River Falls competition followed the same pattern as the Thief River Falls-Crookston match. The lone Green Wave triumph came in the first singles when Randy Sundeen beat LaValley 6-2, 6-1.

The Prowler singles wins over East Grand Forks were posted by Tim Engelstad 6-0, 6-2 over Rory Lillefors in number two singles and by Breiland 6-1, 6-2 over Dale Lillefors in number three singles.

Waale and Scott Engelstad defeated Gaylen Perkuhn and Dave Miller 6-0, 6-1 in number one doubles while Sullivan and Laidley stopped Mitch Burke and Ron Seindler 2-6, 7-6, 6-3 in number two doubles.

Crookston won all but the second doubles match to beat East Grand Forks 4-1 in the day's final play.

Reichert whipped Sundeen 6-1, 6-1 in first singles; Wilkens beat Rory Lillefors 6-1, 6-1 in number two singles; and Shanahan knocked off Dale Lillefors 6-2, 6-1 in number three singles.

Crookston's Olson and Martin topped Perkuhn and Miller 6-4, 6-3 in number one doubles before East Grand Forks' Burke and Seindler scored the Green Wave points by beating Hendrickson and Johnson 5-7, 7-6, 6-0.

Twyla Mercil Of TRF Earns State Track Meet Berth

Twyla Mercil made sure Thief River Falls would be represented in the girl's state track meet for the second straight year Friday after the speedy Lincoln high school runner raced to a first place finish in the 100 yard dash during the 1974 girl's region eight track meet at Bagley.

Mercil covered the 100 yard race in 12.1 seconds, just one-tenth of a second off the Lincoln high school record of 12.0 set by Kathy Rolsland, last year's Thief River Falls in the state meet.

The second annual girl's state track meet will be held Saturday in the Twin Cities.

Bagley won Friday's region eight team championship. Thief River Falls finished in an eighth place tie with Roseau.

Adding Thief River Falls points to Mercil's first place total were Kris Gibson and Lori Finstad. Gibson placed fourth in the 110 yard hurdle events in 17.3 and Finstad turned in a fourth place effort in the 880 in 2:40.

The Grain Belt squad ripped Pro Oil 27-0 while Warehouse Foods edged 9-7 in eight innings.

Next league action is scheduled Tuesday, with the line-up including Hamms-Pizza Hut vs. Jaycees on field A at 6:20; Professional Building vs. Lillevold Construction on field B at 6:20; and Arctic Raiders vs. Country Kitchen on field A at 7:45.

Grain Belt 27
Pro Oil 0

Winning pitcher Mike Anderson tossed a two-hit shut-out while teammates Roger Reiersen and Brian Peterson supplied the offensive punch to lead Grain Belt to a convincing 27-0 romp over Pro Oil.

Grain Belt pounded out 30 base hits off losing pitcher Beaver Nordhagen. Peterson collected five hits, a total that included a home run and three triples. Reierson also picked up five hits, with one being a home run.

Warehouse Foods 9
Kat Haus. 0

Warehouse Foods pushed two runs across the plate in the top of the eight inning to slip by Kat Haus 9-7 in Friday's other game.

Final game statistics were as close as the score with Kat Haus owning a slim 17-16 edge in base hits while both teams committed four errors.

Eliason picked up the pitching victory while Delmore took the loss.

Individual District Tennis Meet Held

Two singles and two doubles teams advanced through Friday's district 31 individual tennis tournament to qualify for this week's region eight tennis tournament scheduled to be held Friday at Bemidji.

Friday's individual region qualifiers joined Thief River Falls, winner of Thursday's district team tournament, in the region event. The entire Thief River Falls squad will appear in the region meet.

Crookston ace Brent Reichert won the district 31 individual singles title and Pirate teammates Pat Shanahan and Mike Wilkens combined to win the doubles title on the East Grand Forks courts.

Second place individuals also move into region play, however, allowing Crookston's Chuck Olson to advance in singles and Thief River Falls' Tim Engelstad and Keith Breiland to advance in doubles play.

Reichert won the singles crown by beating Olson 6-2, 6-2 in the championship match. Reichert had earlier received a first round bye and then defeated Brian Waale of Thief River Falls 6-1, 6-1 in semifinal play. Waale moved into the top bracket's semifinals by outsting Ron Schinder of East Grand Forks 6-4, 6-7, 6-4.

In the bottom bracket of the singles, Olson beat Thief River Falls' Scott Engelstad 6-0, 6-2 and then added a 6-2, 6-2 win over Randy Sundeen of East Grand Forks who had received a first round bye.

Sundeen beat Waale 7-5, 2-6, 6-4 for third.

In doubles play, Tim Engelstad and Breiland whipped Roy Dale Lillefors 6-3, 6-0 before losing to Shanahan and Wilkens 6-3, 2-6, 7-6. The Crookston team received a first round bye.

TRFAHA To Meet Wednesday Night

Thief River Falls amateur hockey association (TRFAHA) will meet Wednesday at 8:30 p.m. in the basement meeting room of the Thief River Falls city auditorium.

The meeting, scheduled to be the last one until fall, will center around discussion about the TRFAHA's agreement with school district 564, concessions agreements and the number of games that should be scheduled.

LHS Golfers Take District Trophy

Onkka Jury

Thief River Falls golfers turned in the day's six best scores Friday as coach Jack Boyer's Lincoln high school linksmen successfully defended their district 31 championship on the Thief River Falls country club course.

The Prowlers finished the day's activity with a first place 230 team stroke total, well ahead of second place Crookston at 253. Red Lake Falls placed third with a 255, followed by East Grand Forks 277, Warren 286 and Oslo 362.

Boyer expressed confidence going into the meet, but later admitted, "I was a little worried about Red Lake Falls. They have three very good golfers, but I guess they didn't come through. We did, and we won it. We're real happy with it, of course."

Prowler senior Mike Onkka and sophomore teammate Mike Jury turned in the chilly day's best scores by tying for the coveted medalist honor with 76's. Onkka shot rounds of 37-39 while Jury carded a 40-36. Onkka took home the medal, however, by recording a par during a play-off while Jury bogied the hole.

"I was really pleased with Onkka's golfing, and kind of surprised too," noted Boyer. "He's one of those up and down golfers, but he sure came through for us today."

Prowler sophomore Steve Onkka finished third during the meet with a 78, followed by seniors Mike Froehle and Dick Skay with 79's and senior Bruce Rested 81. Onkka shot rounds of 37-40, Froehle 37-42, Skay 39-40 and Rested 40-41.

The entire six man Prowler squad will advance into Friday's region eight golf meet at Walker.

Also entering the region meet from district 31 will be Ira Cota of Red Lake Falls, Len Gumila of Crookston and Jay Eire of Crookston. Gumila and Eire qualified for the region meet with 82's while Cota fired an 83.

A total of 36 golfers took part in the district meet.

LINCOLN HIGH SCHOOL golfer Mike Froehle chips up onto the green on number one during Friday's district 31 golf meet conducted on the Thief River Falls country club golf course. Thief River Falls successfully defended its district title by a comfortable 23 stroke margin over second place Crookston. Froehle shot a 79.

Establish Rules For Wild River System In State

Rules and regulations for the designation, managment and use of Minnesota's wild, scenic and recreational rivers have been approved by commissioner of natural resources Robert Herbst, it was announced today.

No rivers or streams have yet been designated for inclusion in the state system. The upper St. Croix, however, has been designated as a scenic river under a federal program.

The rules and regulations signed by Herbst set fourth the criteria which will be used to judge whether a river or stream is eligible for inclusion in the system.

The rules spell out how such rivers and adjacent lands are to be managed. Local units of government are required to pass and enforce ordinances "to further the purpose of the Minnesota wild and scenic rivers act".

Before a river or stream may be included in the system, the department must prepare a managment plan and public hearings are required for the purpose of reviewing and explaining the land use controls and other regulations that will be in effect.

Herbst said such hearings will allow local government officials and citizens an opportunity to hear and discuss proposed regulations controlling use of the river and its adjacent lands.

TRF Wins District Baseball Opener 12-0

Senior righthander Jeff Langlie pitched a sharp one-hit shut-out effort and Prowler teammates back his pitching with an ample supply of offense Friday to give Thief River Falls a one-sided 12-0 win over Alvarado in the opening game of the 1974 district 31 baseball tournament being played at Red Lake Falls.

Langlie gave up only a third inning single to the Indians' Brian Kollin while striking out 10 and walking only two in the 10-run rule five-inning game.

Thief River Falls, meanwhile, rapped out 12 base hits to go along with five costly Alvarado errors to move into the district's semifinals.

Three consecutive first inning singles by Duane Gonsorowski, Chris Biegner and Randy Dallmann were all accompanied by Alvarado errors to give Thief River Falls an early 2-0 lead.

Duane Dicken's hard hit single to left in the third drove in two runs, with Dicken later scoring on a bouncing single over second by Jeff Tunberg for a 5-0 ball game.

Thief River Falls wrapped up the contest in the fifth inning by pushing seven runs across the plate on four base hits, three walks and two errors. A long two-run triple to deep right by Randy Dallmann was the inning's big blow, although a single up the middle by Jeff Lindquist also produced two runs. Tunberg picked up another RBI on a perfectly executed hit-and-run play.

Lindquist, Gonsorowski, Biegner, Dicken and Tunberg all picked up two base hits to lead the Prowler 12 hit attack off losing lefthander Randy Hanson.

Thief River Falls played errorless ball, needing only to handle five put-outs behind Langlie's strike-outs.

US-USSR Snow Goose Project Now Underway

A cooperative research project with the Soviet Union has begun with the live-trapping and marking in the United States of 24 lesser snow geese which summer in Russian Siberia and winter in California's Sacramento valley, Lynn A. Greenwalt, director of interior's fish and wildlife service, announced recently.

Distinctively-marked birds were released at Tule Lake and Salton Sea National Wildlife refuges in California, and Soviet wildlife scientists are awaiting their arrival on nesting grounds in Siberia. The 24 marked geese are wearing extra wide, bright green neck collars to make it easy for the Soviets to spot them among the 200,000 geese that will nest on Wrangel Island in the Soviet Union this summer and later will migrate across Alaska to their wintering grounds.

Greenwalt said, "The project is part of the US-USSR agreement on environmental protection signed last fall in Washington. Soviet scientists expressed concern then over declining populations of lesser snow geese in their country. Soviet bird banding experts are interested in sharing results of American and Soviet bird banding programs and migratory behavior analysis.

U.S. data is computer processed by the U.S. fish and wildlife service bird banding laboratory at the Patuxent wildlife research center in Laurel, Md., and Soviet scientists are investigating using a similar method so that data on the many species of birds found in both countries can be exchanged. Exchange visits of ornithologists are scheduled this summer. Mutural benefits abound for scientists of both countries."

The lesser snow goose is abundant on the North American continent. Those migrating from the Soviet Union blend with those coming into the Sacramento Valley of California from the Northwest Territories of Canada by the hundreds of thousands each fall.

The next phase of the project, slated for late summer, will be the marking of at least 800 lesser snow geese by Soviet biologists before the fall migration begins. Two hundred birds in family groups will be dyed pink for rapid, easy spotting. Another 200 carrying Soviet leg bands will be identified further with prominent neck collars similar to those used in the recent marking and release. The remaining 400 will be marked only with standard Soviet leg bands.

"This project provides a unique opportunity to establish a precedent for international scientific cooperation in the wildlife field," Greenwalt said. "It also offers excellent possibilities for closer cooperation among American scientists, sportsmen, and conservationists. All can help track these birds in this pioneer effort next fall, and observers should report any sightings to local game officials.

"One of the immediate objectives of the project is determining the exact wintering areas of the lesser snow geese from Siberia. Then, we want to observe and study the interaction of these geese with similar populations that summer in Canada. Migratory bird behavior is one field of wildlife study that still perplexes scientists as there remain many unanswered questions.

"We expect that this project initiated by the fish and wildlife service and the one scheduled for implementation by Soviet wildlife specialists will shed additional light on this complex subject."

TRF, Crookston Win District 31 Baseball Openers

Thief River Falls and Crookston were first round winners Friday as the 1974 district 31 baseball tournament opened at Red Lake Falls.

The Prowlers blanked Alvarado 12-0 in the tournament's first game, followed by a 9-1 Crookston win over Fisher in the double-header nightcap.

Originally scheduled to start Thursday, the district event was moved back one day because of rain. Thursday's games were scheduled to be played Saturday with Warren facing Oslo and Red Lake Falls taking on Goodridge.

The tournament semifinal games will be played tonight (Monday) with Thief River Falls playing the Red Lake Falls-Goodridge winner at 6 p.m. while Crookston faces the Warren-Oslo winner at 8.

The 1974 district 31 baseball championship game will be played Tuesday at 7:30 p.m.

THIEF RIVER FALLS pitcher Jeff Langlie delivered a pitch to an Alvarado batter during Friday's opening game in the district 31 baseball tournament being played in Red Lake Falls. Langlie, a senior righthander, hurled a one-hit shut-out effort to spark the Prowlers to a 12-0 win.

Minnesota Outdoors

by Stu and Dee Mann

Howl

Beck Koch of Minneapolis is the guest author whose interest in wolves created this inspiring column:

"Over the centuries wolves have been unjustly persecuted and maligned. When colonists first came to this country, wolves were found throughout North America. The first bounty was placed on the wolf's head in this country in 1630. Since then this valuable and magnificent creature has been reduced to less than one per cent of his former range in the United States. The last viable remnant population of these animals is found in Minnesota where the population is estimated to [illegible] between 500-1,000 wolves.

HOWL (Hel[illegible]r wolves live) is a non-profit corporation with a Minnesota board of directors. We formed since we felt that as Minnesotans' we had a moral obligation to seek protection for the last remaining numbers of these animals. Through education and legislative action we hope to change the attitude of antipathy for the wolf which still exists in this state.

Contrary to popular belief, there has never been a substantiated report of a wolf attacking a human being in North America. Yet many people still base their judgement of the wolf on such classic fairy tales as "Little Red Riding Hood," and "The Three Little Pigs." Howl hopes to dispell these myths and give the wolf a more accurate image.

Wolves are an integral part of nature's balance. By culling out those deer which are biologically inferior, they play a vital role in maintaining the healthy deer herds which Minnesotan's can boast of having. They help to prevent the spread of disease and large scale die-offs from starvation, which is so prevalent among deer which are not regulated by predators.

Wolves are extremely social animals. Like man, wolves are monogamous creatures who mate for life, and their packs are strict family units. In the spring when pups are born, it is very often an unrealted pack member who cares for the pups while the parents hunt.

Scientists are currently studying wolves in northeast Minnesota and on Isle Royale national park. They have discovered that wolves are capable of regulating their own population without the intervening hand of man. Their findings could be of great value to man, who is so desperately looking for answers to solving his own problems of overpopulation.

Finally, the wolf is of great value to man aesthetically. No other animal so perfectly exemplifies a true wilderness area as the timber wolf.

Time is running out for the wolf. We must begin to realize and understand what a valuable wilderness heritage we have in him."

DNR Will Make Fishing Census During Season

Department of natural resources informed anglers that they may be approached by DNR research workers studying angling results this season.

The creel census began May 4 on trout streams in southeastern Minnesota. Later in the season creel census clerks will be operating in the walleye lakes of central and north central Minnesota.

Some census work will also be done on bass and panfish lakes. Altogether, more than 100 lakes will be subject to creel census this summer.

A total of 40 trout streams, some located in the northeastern part of the state, will be checked.

Officials said that all DNR census clerks will carry identification. Last year, someone impersonating a DNR employee traveled about Mille Lacs lake taking fish from anglers, claiming they were needed "for research purposes".

State Law Rules On Récreational Vehicle Usage

Minnesota's 1974 legislature passed a new law regulating use of recreational vehicles such as trail bikes, other all-terrain vehicles and snowmobiles, the Minnesota department of natural resources noted recently.

It is now illegal within the seven county metro area for a person to operate such a machine on lands not owned by the operator unless the operator has the written or oral permission of the owner, occupant or lessee of such lands.

Posted notices saying such use is allowed will be considered as "written permission".

Outside of the metro area, no person may operate such a machine on any land not his own after being notifed—either orally or by written or posted notice by the landowner, occupant or lessee—not to do so.

Regulations on proper posting of lands and other details are also contained in the law.

A copy of the new law may be obtained from the department of natural resources, bureau of information and education, Centennial office building, St. Paul.

New Rule To Be Used At State Park Campground

Campers using Minnesota state parks will be required to spend the first night in the campsite they have rented, the department of natural resources announced recently.

Intent of the new rule is to control a practice that had developed whereby campers who wish to be sure of a weekend campsite drive to a state park in the middle of the week, rent a campsite for the balance of the week and the weekend and then return home, leaving the campsite vacant until the weekend.

Park managers report that they often must turn campers away because all the campsites have been rented, but many of the sites show no occupancy because the people who have rented them are not in the park.

This often raises the ire of the party who is denied a camp site and the park manager is sometimes accused of "saving campsites for his friends".

"It looks bad when you tell a family that all the campsites are taken when they can see that half of them are empty," said one park manager.

Officials expect the new rule will eliminate the problem.

They said that parks near population centers have been most affected and that parks far from major cities are not involved.

GOODRIDGE SENIOR Arden Hyland was the individual star in Friday's class B district 31 track meet held in Thief River Falls. Hyland won three events, including the 180 yard low hurdles pictured here in 23.0. He added wins in the mile and 440 while picking up a third in the long jump. Red Lake Falls won the meet's team title, though.

RLF Runners Win District 31 Title

A balanced Red Lake Falls squad held off defending champion Warren Friday to win the second annual class B district 31 track meet held on the Thief River Falls track.

Red Lake Falls finished the chilly afternoon's activity with 92 points, followed by Warren with 83, Climax 30 and Goodridge 22.

Fishing Limits Differ On Some Boundary Waters

Minnesota department of natural resources reported that Wisconsin has changed its fishing regulations regarding limits on Minnesota-Wisconsin boundary waters.

Wisconsin is now allowing a possession limit which is double the limit previously in effect on such waters. However, Minnesota DNR officials said they cannot go along with doubling the limits of fish that can be taken from the Minnesota side of the boundary waters.

Minnesota officials said that persons fishing with Minnesota licenses will be governed by the Minnesota limit, regardless of what part of the rivers they are fishing.

In addition, while Wisconsin license holders may still fish the Minnesota side of the boundary waters (Mississippi, St. Croix and St. Louis rivers), they will be required to abide by Minnesota limits while fishing the Minnesota portion of these waters.

Federal Wetland Funds Given For Wisconsin Use

Federal funds totaling $1,000,000 are being made available to acquire waterfowl nesting and breeding areas in Wisconsin, an important duck breeding state, director Lynn A. Greenwalt of the U.S. fish and wildlife service announced recently. This is part of a new program to broaden federal-state cooperation.

Money is available from the revenue generated by the sale of the migratory birdhunting stamp more popularly called the federal "duck stamp." Federal law requires that sportsmen purchase a duck stamp before they hunt waterfowl. Revenue from the sale of these stamps is used to acquire waterfowl habitat. Wisconsin consistently has ranked in the top three in the Mississippi Flyway in duck stamp sales.

This new approach to federal-state cooperation was suggested to the fish and wildlife service by Wisconsin and several other states in 1973. Wetlands preservation was a programe suited to cooperative efforts and was included as pilot program.

This acquisition effort will be a joint venture between the Wisconsin DNR and the fish and wildlife service. Representatives from both agencies will jointly select areas to be purchased. Wisconsin DNR personnel will complete the initial phases of acquisition. The fish and wildlife service will take title to these lands; however, the subsequent management of the areas will be on a cooperative basis under Federal criteria.

Federal and state officials will seek to identify and purchase brood rearing habitat and associated upland nesting cover in 22 top-priority counties. Wetlands will be selected on the basis of their importance to waterfowl production and susceptibility to drainage.

Lands acquired are normally open to hunting. Acquisition insures preservation of these important wetlands as viable waterflow production areas.

Marshall-Beltrami Wildlife Meeting Held At Grygla

Annual wildlife meeting of the Marshall-Beltrami soil and water conservation district was held on Tuesday, April 23, at the district office with wildlife personnel from federal and state agencies presenting information on past, present and future development.

Thad Fuller, assistant refuge manager from Agassiz national wildlife refuge, discussed some of the district's projects including the proposed wilderness area in the interior of the refuge; the plans to divide some of the present pools into smaller units to allow better management; and on-refuge cropping program and the pasture program.

Gerald Maertens, refuge manager at Thief Lake state refuge, talked about the food plots for waterfowl depredation prevention; planned control burn areas for habitat improvement; development plans for improved waterfowl nesting sites; and the status of the Haroldson or Moose river dam. He stated that there are "No specific plans for the Haroldson dam at present." Maertens also invited landowners who feel they would be affected by the impoundment to visit the refuge headquarters and look over the engineering plans for the project.

Larry Bernhoft, area game manager from Baudette, and Phil Watt, refuge manager at Norris camp told of some of the work they are doing in their respective areas.

LHS Girls Win District 31 Meet

Teresa Nygaard supplied two of the five Thief River Falls first place finishes Thursday to spark the Lincoln high school girls to a championship finish in the 1974 district 31 girls track meet held at Crookston.

Thief River Falls won the event by totaling 74 points, followed by Crookston with 63½, Warren 37, Red Lake Falls 24, East Grand Forks 19½, Goodridge 2 and Fisher 2.

Nygaard won the mile run in 6:21.1 and then added a 4-8 effort in the high jump for a second first place ribbon.

Other Thief River Falls individual first places were supplied by Twyla Mercil with a 12.2 clocking in the 100 yard dash; Lori Finstad, 2:40.7 in the 880; and Kris Gibson, 17.3 in the 110 yard hurdles.

Thief River Falls scored a bundle of points on six second places, including Joan Jury, 69.2 in the 440; Linda Larson, 84-8 discus; Michelle Gerardy, 2:42.6 in the 880; the 440 relay team of DeeAnn Hoganson, Marty Minor, Nygaard and Brenda Laidley in 57.7; the 880 relay team of Jodi Ranum, Beth Hamilton, Reta Rantanen and Jury in 2:02.9; and the 880 medley relay team of Ranum, Karla Kruschke, Polly Bulger and Marilyn Olson in 2:11.7.

Thief River Falls thirds included Hamilton, 100; Gibson, 220; Mercil, long jump; Hoganson, 60 yard hurdles; and Paula Delap, 880.

Larson and Olson supplied fourth place finishes in the shot put and 440 respectively while Laidley and Tammy Fraecher finished fifth in the 100 and long jump respectively.

Safety Tips For Cyclists Given By State Patrol

Great increase in the use of bicycles is causing new, serious traffic problems both in urban areas and on rural roads, Lt. Col. Gerald Kittridge, assistant Minnesota state patrol chief warned recently.

"May is the month when the bicycling season starts in earnest, and it is the month when bicycle accidents begin to happen in numbers. An accident between a bicycle and a motor vehicle nearly always results in painful injuries to the cyclist, and sometimes in death. Last year, 1,160 bicyclists were injured in such accidents on Minnesota roads, and 17 lost their lives."

He called upon motorists to use the greatest possible caution in traffic where bicyclists are present, to reduce speed, give cyclists as much of the roadway as possible, and be alert for sudden maneuvers by the cyclist.

For the bicyclist, General Kittridge offered these rules:

(1) Know and obey the laws and rules of the road. Most frequent violations are riding on the left side of the road; carrying passengers; and riding after dark without lights.

(2) Ride off the roadway wherever possible—on sidewalks outside business districts, and on off-roadway paths wherever they are provided.

(3) Make yourself and your bike as conspicuous as possible. Bright clothing, reflectorized tape, reflectors on moving parts, and flags are some of the effective devices. A six-foot pole with a fluorescent flag is available at bicycle dealers at between $2.50 and $4.

(4) Avoid horseplay on the road, and avoid sudden maneuvers. Ride in a straight line. Never change course without checking behind you. If traffic is heavy and builds up behind you, move off the joad from time to time to let it pass.

(5) When the sun is low, remember that you may be almost totally invisible to the driver facing into it.

(6) Remember that a driver making a right or left turn has to check in several directions quickly, that your bicycle is a small bit of the traffic, and that the driver might not see you. Be especially wary of turning vehicles.

Clow Is Elected President Of TRF Saddle Club

Gary Clow of Thief River Falls, breeder and showman of Appaloosa horses, was elected president of the Thief River Falls saddle club at the annual meeting held recently at the library meeting room. He succeeds Harold Halvorson who presided at the meeting.

Elected vice president was Bill Yonke of St. Hilaire, who raises quarter horses. Other officers elected were Shelly Langlie, secretary; Julie Owen, treasurer; and Peggy Clow, reporter.

Membership dues were again set at $5 per family, $3 per individual adult and $2 per student. They may be paid Sunday when horsemen are invited to participate in a trail ride beginning at 1 p.m. from the Pennington county fairgrounds. The club voted to join the Northwest Saddle Club association again this year.

DNR Reports New Peak For Timber Sales In State

Minnesota department of natural resources announced completion of the most successful series of timber auction sales in recent times.

DNR forestry officials said that during the past several weeks approximately 85,000 cords of state owned timber stumpage has been sold for $538,720.

The timber sales, held in the counties of Lake, Cook, St. Louis, Itasca, Koochiching and Cass, had been appraised at $255,200 by state foresters.

Officials said the demand for all types of wood and paper products has pushed stumpage rates (the price paid for standing timber) to record highs.

They said pine and spruce sold at the recent sales for double and triple the price of a few years ago.

In addition to the revenue deposited in the state treasury from the timber sales, said foresters, game habitat will be improved through the cutting of the mature timber which is of little value for wildlife.

They said a large portion of the timber to be harvested is aspen, and the new growth in these areas will provide excellent habitat for a number of years after the old trees are logged off.

The recent sales in Minnesota reflect the growing demand for available timber noted throughout the world, foresters observed.

Minnesota DNR commissioner Robert Herbst said the demand for state owned timber means that increased funds should be expended on forest management.

He noted that such expenditures, in view of present high timber prices, would seem to be a good investment for the state as well as assurance of proper logging practices and environmental protection.

In Loving Memoriam

Nine years have passed since that morning in May,
When God ended your suffering and called you away—
No more to hear your dear laughter ring....
Nor your sunny warm smile which was—everything!
Still....we do not question God's many ways
Tho we have lived through many lonely days—
Your beautiful memories, we'll always share
Kept deep in our hearts,
Till we meet you—up there!

In loving memory of our dearest son and brother, Monti; who passed away May 24, 1965. Sadly missed by his dad and mom, Bennie and DeLores Miramonte, Sisters: Dani Le, Monica and Anita and brothers. Vince and Paul. All memoriams for Monti are originals by Dolly and are not be reprinted without her permission. 1t43c

COUNTY BOARD PROCEEDINGS

May 27, 1974
OFFICIAL PROCEEDINGS
BOARD OF COMMISSIONERS
PENNINGTON COUNTY, MINNESOTA
May 7, 1974

Pursuant to adjournment the Board of County Commissioners met in the Commissioners' Room in the Courthouse at 10 a.m., May 7, 1974.

Members present: Hanson, Olson, Naplin, Stenberg and Tasa. All present.

The Chairman called the meeting to order and indicated that the Board should move to the Courtroom on the 3rd floor to accomodate a large group of landowners and to hear a petition of Joe Krbechek, Kenneth Sanders and others for a proposal that a proposal for a repair of Judicial Ditches 13, 18 and 30 be accomplished by a special project under the guidance of a group of landowners to be known as the Quad Special Project Group and the Soil Conservation Board of Pennington County.

There were 23 interested landowners and 12 other individuals present. Commissioner Hanson advised the Board that he had been advised by the County Attorney that because he had land in the effected area that he had a conflict of interest and that it would be inappropriate to participate in the meeting as a Board member.

Wallace Sparby of the ASC explained that the proposal was to repair the 20 miles of the 3 ditches and couple the repair with a special practice proposal to reslope, stabilize and seed and construct field control structures as needed. Funds to be asked for would be provided over a 2 year period and hopefully would provide payment of 75 per cent of the project costs.

Commissioner Stenberg asked if the proposers had a spokesman that cared to speak for the proposal. Mr. Dearle Henry spoke for the group and indicated the repair of the ditch could mean many dollars to the Farmers in the area.

Auditor Rodekuhr then presented a Petition that stated those persons signing were a part of Judicial Ditch 30 and that they were satisfied with the present drainage of the ditch. There were 17 original signers at the time the petition was filed with the Auditor on April 15 and 4 persons had asked that they be allowed to strike their names from the list. Two persons were present to express their opposition to the proposal. One party had signed the petition mentioned earlier.

Commissioner Naplin introduced the following resolution and moved its adoption:

WHEREAS, A group of Landowners having land drained by Judicial Ditches No. 13, 18 and 30 have formed a Quad Group known as the Quad Special Project Group of Pennington County, Minnesota, and

WHEREAS, Said Quad Special Project Group has requested the Pennington County Board approve a Special Project to be developed by the Pennington County Soil & Water Conservation District for repair of the main channels of Judicial Ditches 13 and 18 and the outlet to these two ditches known as Judicial Ditch No. 30, by resloping and seeding the channel slope, providing for a berm and a dike and installation of grade stabilization structures at designated points along said dike, and providing for financing, in part, by Ditch Maintenance Funds.

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED, That the Pennington County Board support the proposal of said Quad Group Special Project and requests the Pennington County Soil & Water Conservation District to submit said proposal to the Pennington County ASCS Committee for consideration for funding by the Minnesota State ASCS Committee, and

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED, That in the event the Special Project is not approved by the Minnesota State ASCS Committee the entire matter will be referred back to the Quad Group for their further consideration.

The foregoing resolution was duly seconded by Commissioner Olson and upon the call for a vote the Chairman declared the vote unanimously carried, Commissioner Hanson not voting because of conflict of interest.

The Board then returned to the Board room to continue the regular Board meeting.

Eric Hammershoy representing the Pennington County Historical Society appeared and asked for additional funds to assist the Historical Society in developing the Historical Village and other programs in line with previous discussions. In Loving Memoriam
Nine years have passed since
that morning in May,
When God ended your suffering
and called you away—
No more to hear your dear
laughter ring....
Nor your sunny warm smile
which was—everything!
Still....we do not question God's many ways
Tho we have lived through many lonely days—
Your beautiful memories, we'll always share
Kept deep in our hearts,
Till we meet you—up there!

In loving memory of our dearest son and brother, Monti; who passed away May 24, 1965. Sadly missed by his dad and mom, Bennie and DeLores Miramonte, Sisters: Dani Le, Monica and Anita and brothers, Vince and Paul. COUNTY BOARD PROCEEDINGS

OFFICIAL PROCEEDINGS
PENNINGTON COUNTY, MINNESOTA
May 7, 1974

Pursuant to adjournment the Board of County Commissioners met in the Commissioners' Room in the Courthouse at 10 a.m., May 7, 1974.

Members present: Hanson, Olson, Naplin, Stenberg and Tasa. All present.

The Chairman called the meeting to order and indicated that the Board should move to the Courtroom on the 3rd floor to accomodate a large group of landowners and to hear a petition of Joe Krbechek, Kenneth Sanders and others for a proposal that a proposal for a repair of Judicial Ditches 13, 18 and 30 be accomplished by a special project under the guidance of a group of landowners to be known as the Quad Special Project Group and the Soil Conservation Board of Pennington County.

There were 23 interested landowners and 12 other individuals present. Commissioner Hanson advised the Board that he had been advised by the County Attorney that because he had land in the affected area that he had a conflict of interest and that it would be inappropriate to participate in the meeting as a Board member.

Wallace Sparby of the ASC explained that the proposal was to repair the 20 miles of the 3 ditches and couple the repair with a special practice proposal to reslope, stabilize and seed and construct field control structures as needed. Funds to be asked for would be provided over a 2 year period and hopefully would provide payment of 75 per cent of the project costs.

Commissioner Stenberg asked if the proposers had a spokesman that cared to speak for the proposal. Mr. Dearle Henry spoke for the group and indicated the repair of the ditch could mean many dollars to the Farmers in the area.

Auditor Rodekuhr then presented a Petition that stated those persons signing were a part of Judicial Ditch 30 and that they were satisfied with the present drainage of the ditch. There were 17 original signers at the time the petition was filed with the Auditor on April 15 and 4 persons had asked that they be allowed to strike their names from the list. Two persons were present to express their opposition to the proposal. One party had signed the petition mentioned earlier.

Commissioner Naplin introduced the following resolution and moved its adoption:

WHEREAS, A group of Landowners having land drained by Judicial Ditches No. 13, 18 and 30 have formed a Quad Group known as the Quad Special Project Group of Pennington County, Minnesota, and

WHEREAS, Said Quad Special Project Group has requested the Pennington County Board approve a Special Project to be developed by the Pennington County Soil & Water Conservation District for repair of the main channels of Judicial Ditches 13 and 18 and the outlet to these two ditches known as Judicial Ditch No. 30, by resloping and seeding the channel slope, providing for a berm and a dike and installation of grade stabilization structures at designated points along said dike, and providing for financing, in part, by Ditch Maintenance Funds.

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED, That the Pennington County Board support the proposal of said Quad Group Special Project and requests the Pennington County Soil & Water Conservation District to submit said proposal to the Pennington County ASCS Committee for consideration for funding by the Minnesota State ASCS Committee, and

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED, That in the event the Special Project is not approved by the Minnesota State ASCS Committee the entire matter will be referred back to the Quad Group for their further consideration. The foregoing resolution was duly seconded by Commissioner Olson and upon the call for a vote the Chairman declared the vote unanimously carried. Commissioner Hanson not voting because of conflict of interest.

The Board then returned to the Board room to continue the regular Board meeting.

Eric Hammershoy representing the Pennington County Historical Society appeared and asked for additional funds to assist the Historical Society in developing the Historical Village and other programs in line with previous discussions. Moved by Tasa seconded by Naplin that the sum of $3,500.00 be appropriated and paid from the Revenue Fund to the Pennington County Historical Society. Recovery to be made from Revenue Sharing Funds. Motion declared unanimously carried.

Moved by Naplin seconded by Tasa that the sum of $1,000 be appropriated to the County Attorney Contingency Fund. Motion declared unanimously carried. (Funds to be expended under order of the Court)

Clarence Peterson speaking for the Faith Lutheran Church of Goodridge met and discussed the possibility of providing another site for the County Garage so the Church could build upon the site presently occupied by the County Garage. The matter was taken under advisement.

City Clerk, Gerald Wigness, along with Mayor Robert Carlson appeared and discussed a proposal by the League of Municipalities and the Association of Minnesota Counties for a Personnel survey and a job classification plan be undertaken by the City and County on a joint project. Federal funds are available to pay approximately 30 per cent of the project. Discussion was also held relative to a recount now being undertaken to test the census figures in a particular area of the City with the eventual possibility of asking for an official census by an official body. No action was taken—referred to June meeting.

A proposed Law Enforcement or Public Safety Building to be shared by the Pennington County Sheriff and the City of Thief River Falls Police was discussed along with Sheriff Richards. Moved by Hanson seconded by Tasa that the appointed Law Enforcement Committee be authorized and instructed to interview Architects and discuss finances at their earliest convenience and to report back to the Board at the June 11th meeting. Motion carried.

Impact Statement On Airport Plan Now Available

Federal Aviation administration (FAA) has announced that the final environmental impact statement concerning improvements to and expansion of the Thief River Falls public airport is available for public view until June 19 in the airport manager's office, the Thief River Falls city clerk's office and at the Minnesota department of aeronautics at St. Paul downtown airport.

Proposed airport project involves acquisition of 410 acres plus 243 acres in easements; widening and lengthening the present NW-SE runway; extending the parralel NW-SE taxiway and constructing connecting taxiways; installation of an instrument landing system (ILS), including high-intensity runway lights (HIRL) and medium approach lighting system with runway alignment indicator lighting system; abandonment of a portion of county state aid highway 17 and its relocation to the east; abandonment of a portion of county highway 75; erection of 16,000 feet of safety fencing; and miscellaneous drainage system improvements.

Proposed improvements will enhance public safety by providing additional runway length, a parallel taxiway to facilitate acess to and from the primary runway and a precision instrument landing system. These improvements will also make the airport more accessible to the air traveller by lowering the minimums of cloud cover and visibility under which it may be utilized by aircraft equipped for instrument operations.

North Central airlines, the air carrier presently serving Thief River Falls, is in the process of phasing out Convair 580 aircraft and replacing them with DC-9 aircraft; the additional runway length not only will permit use of DC-9's but also business jets owned by major corporations in the area.

Minnesota department of aeronautics, operator of the airport, has submitted a request to FAA for federal financial assistance under the airport development aid program, as authorized by the airport and airway development act of 1970, for development and expansion at Thief River Falls public airport. A thorough environmental impact study is one of the first steps in processing of federal grants under ADAP.

Fatal Accident Results In Plea To DWI Charge

Kurt Muzzy, 18, of Thief River Falls recently appeared in Pennington county district court and pleaded guilty of a charge of driving while under the influence (DWI). The charge resulted from a local traffic accident which killed a pedestrian, Patricia Johnson of Lake Bronson, on December 1, 1973.

The DWI charge, a misdemeanor, was a reduction from an earlier felony charge of criminal negligence. Muzzy had pleaded innocent to the criminal negligence charge.

Muzzy was sentenced to serve 90 days in jail and pay a $300 fine. However, the jail sentence was stayed for one year and a conviction for a traffic violation other than DWI would not be sufficient for revocation of the stay of Muzzy's sentence.

Motor Vehicles To Be Inspected By State Patrol

Motor vehicle inspection teams of the Minnesota state patrol have begun the task of inspecting 150,000 vehicles on Minnesota highways, and will get into full swing between mid-May and the first of June. They also are now completing the semi-annual inspections which are required for all school buses.

Eleven teams will be operating, one in each of the 11 State Patrol districts. They will establish inspection lanes adjacent to state trunk highways in various locations throughout their districts. Vehicles are summoned at random from the passing traffic and subjected to inspections. Vehicles that pass inspection are given safety stickers. Those with safety defects are given equipment tickets requiring correction of the defects. Arrests are made in case of flagrant violations. Trucks are also inspected at the State Patrol's weigh stations.

Points of inspection include glass, lights and signals, brakes, tires, exhaust systems, windshield washers and wipers.

Motorists who want to get their vehicles inspected can consult the nearest district patrol station for information on place and time.

State Asks For Cooperation In Speed Limit

"If the 55 mph speed limit is to be effective in Minnesota, it is necessary to have the full cooperation of the driving public," Minnesota department of public safety commissioner W.R. Hoaglund stated recently.

"No matter what law is put on the books and regardless of its importance, law enforcement alone cannot make it effective. Also required is voluntary compliance by the citizens of the state.

"When the speed limit was lowered to 55 mph on March 3, compliance and cooperation by drivers was very good. Lately, however, drivers are forgetting their good intentions and are driving over the limit.

"It is impossible for state patrol, county and city enforcement officers to cover every mile of street and highway in the state around the clock."

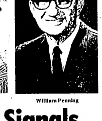
O.E. Engelstad



William Penning

In what must be considered a good turn-out of 1,474 voters, O.E. Engelstad and William Penning were elected to seats on the Thief River Falls city council Tuesday. The election was the first under special legislation permitting the council to hold a special election under certain conditions rather than appoint new aldermen.

Elected to complete an unexpired four-year term as alderman-at-large, Engelstad easily outdistanced his closest challenger, Clayton Restad, by gaining a lead over all candidates in all but the fifth ward.

Engelstad polled 482 votes while Restad collected 365—including a 132 to 83 margin over Engelstad in Restad's home fifth ward.

Penning shaded Jerry Wedul in a close race for the four-year fourth ward alderman post, gaining 172 votes to 144 for Wedul while John Steidl trailed with 83.

Mrs. Lovanell Kraemer finished third in the balloting for alderman-at-large, capturing 290 votes. Oreal Halland was fourth with 171 votes and Ralph Foster was a close fifth with 166.

The total of 1,474 votes cast included 258 in Ward I, 258 in Ward II, 218 in Ward III, 395 in Ward IV and 245 in Ward V. Totals given are net totals after deduction of 38 spoiled ballots.

Engelstad is a former member of the city council, having served six years in city government as well as many years on the city park and recreation board. Penning is a former Pennington county agent and is presently employed by the University of Minnesota in assisting people with farm management in northern Minnesota.

Vacancies on the council were created by the deaths of Arthur Rambeck, alderman-at-large, and William Froiland, fourth ward alderman, in an airplane crash near Winger on January 28 of this year. They had just begun their third terms on the council, having been elected in the fall of 1973. The crash—which also took the lives of Police chief Roy Pederson and pilot Marvin Housman—happened as the officials were enroute to Owatonna to inspect law enforcement facilities.

At the request of the city council, Rep. Andrew Skaar and Sen. Richard Fitzsimons introduced legislation in the Minnesota Legislature to permit the holding of a special election rather than filling the vacancies by appointment. Adoption of the legislation set the machinery in motion for the election held yesterday.

Report Shows 545,000 Vets In Minnesota

Veterans administration reported recently that an estimated 545,000 veteans live in Minnesota.

The largest number are World War II veterans who total 240,000, according to Leo A. Bodde, acting director, VA center, Fort Snelling.

141,000 Vietnam-era veterans are next largest, followed by 102,000 Korean conflict veterans, and 62,000 veterans who served between the Korean conflict and the Vietnam-era (Feb. 1, 1955-Aug. 4, 1964).

World War I veterans number 25,000. Bodde said there were approximately 24 Spanish-American War veterans in Minnesota, as of last March.

He said the largest veteran populations can be found in California, New York, Pennsyvania, Illinois and Texas. He said that "Veteran Population," a report issued semi-annually by the agency's Controller's office, shows that California with 3.24 million veterans, still leads the nation.

Other states in order of rank include New York with 2.51 million, Pennsylvania wth 1.75 million, Illinois with 1.56 million, followed closely by Texas with 1.55 million veterans. States with the fewest veterans are Alaska, 42,000; Wyoming, 50,000, and Vermont, 62,000.

The report, as of December 1973, shows there are 29.17 million living veterans in the nation, and that 13.86 million World War II veterans comprise the largest single group.

After them in number come 6.83 million Vietnam-era veterans, and 5.95 million Korean Conflict veterans. An estimated 3.1 million veterans served between the Korean Conflict and the Vietnam-era. World War I veterans total 1.13 million. As of last March, there were some 1,500 Spanish-American War veterans.

The average age of all veterans is 45.3 years, with the largest number, 4.77 million, clustered in the 50 to 54-year age group. Veterans 45 to 49 years old comprise the next largest group, 4.45 million, with 3.58 million veterans aged 25 to 29 years in the third largest group.

The smallest and oldest group, 52,000 veterans 85 years and older, includes the 1,500 Spanish-American war veterans who are an average 94.1 yers old.

The next smallest and youngest group includes 64,000 veterans under 20 years of age. Veterans in the 75 to 79 and 80 to 84 yers age groups number more than one million, according to the VA report.

National Guard's New Enlistment For Three Years

Two new shorter enlistment programs, designed to make volunteer National Guard service more attractive to Minnesotans, were announced recently by guard officials in St. Paul. High school seniors and other young men with no prior military service now may join the Minnesota National Guard with the option of serving three or four years. Previously, the shortest enlistment was for six years.

These new enlistment programs are known as the "3 by 3 Plan" (three years in the guard, three years in the inactive reserve) and the "4 by 2 Plan" (four years in the Guard, two years in the inactive reserve).

In making the announcement, Major General Chester J. Moeglein, Minnesota's adjutant general, said, "These new shorter enlistment programs enable a young man to try out military life without obligating six years at a decisive time in his life. At the end of the first three years he has the option of re-enlisting or completing the remainder of his service in an inactive reserve status."

General Moeglein added that "A new enlistee can earn approximately $3,000 during this three-year period."

"This extra money earned from National Guard service can go a long way in helping to defray educational costs or household expenses," he said.

Under both plans; the new enlistee receives approximately four months of active duty basic and advanced training at an active army post or air force base. He then returns to his home National Guard unit and attends one weekend training assembly per month and two weeks training camp each year. The remaining two or three years are then spent in an inactive reserve status which means that the man's name is retained on a standby list, but he does not attend weekend training sessions.

Veterans and former guardsmen or reservists of any military service still are eligible for the guard's "Try ONE" program which allows them to enlist for just one year at a time. Women with no prior military service may enlist for three years with no further inactive reserve obligation.

Anyone wishing more information is invited to contact the nearest army National Guard armory or Air National guard base.

Pet Hamsters Could Carry Viral Disease

Close association with any kind of pet animal, bird, amphibian, reptile or other living creature carries some risk of infection with whatever viruses, bacteria or parasites occur in or on that creature. According to state health commissioner Dr. Warren Lawson, this fact was illustrated by a recent outbreak of a mild for of meningitis linked to pet hamsters.

Official name of the sickness is lymphocytic choriomeningitis (LCM). This viral disease was reported in about a hundred persons nationally, with only one case reported in Minnesota. The outbreak appears to have peaked in December of 1973. LCM may begin with an influenza-like attack with fever, headache and muscular aches. These symptoms may go away completely or may return with classic meningitis symptoms like a stiff neck. Death from LCM is rare.

The outbreak was traced to infected hamsters supplied by the Aquarium Supply company, Harrison, N.J. This firm acquired all its hamsters from a Florida company which in turn received hamsters from about 15 breeders. Since hundreds of thousands of hamsters are raised and distributed nationwide yearly, and only one LCM case has been identified in Minnesota, the chances of potential disease are small in this state.

When it comes to animal-to-man diseases, the Minnesota department of health says that normal preventive measures are avoidance of bites, scratches and contamination with urine, feces, hair, poison and parasites. Thus adults should handle animals with care and children should be taught not to handle animals. (Of course, no one should get involved with wild animals such as skunks.) Washing of hands with soap and water after handling animals is recommended. Care should be taken not to breathe dust from cages or litter.

ADA Chapter To Ask Disclosure By Candidates

Northwest chapter of Americans for Democratic Action in a meeting Thursday night called for all candidates running for local elections to fully disclose their financial interests.

"In view of the new spirit of openness and candor called for by the American people we feel this to be in the best interests of local government," said Peter Solem, local ADA chairman.

"It is not our intention," Solem said, "to either pry into candidates' personal business or embarrass any candidate for office. However, we feel that the public has the right to know the financial interests of their elected officials. This we feel would insure that no conflict of interest would exist in our local government."

Bergland Offers Bill For More Grain Reserves

U. S. Representative Bob Bergland introduced last week legislation to establish permanent reserve stocks of wheat and feed grains and increase commodity target prices "to a level more accurately reflecting increased production costs."

"Purpose of the bill, introduced simultaneously in the U.S. Senate by Sen. Hubert Humphrey, is to "assure adequate supplies of food and provide stable prices for farmers, processors and housewives."

The Bergland-Humphrey measure would divert one-third of U.S production, during times of high production, to government stores for use when production falls below needs. To protect farmers, the government held commodities could not be sold until prices reach 135 per cent of the target prices.

Citing "soaring production costs which have made the target prices established by the 1773 farm bill obsolete" Bergland said it was necessary, in his bill, to increase target prices to about $3 per bushel for wheat and $2 for corn. Target prices for other feed grains would be increased proportionally. Loan rates for commodities covered by the legislation would be adjusted to two-thirds of the target price. The bill would also change the effective date of the so-called escalator clause—which automatically considers production costs when setting target prices—from 1976 to the 1976 crop.

To prevent recurrence of raids on U.S commodities, such as the sale of wheat to Russia in 1973, the bill would also, according to Bergland, establish minimum carryover stock levels. When these limits are reached, export licenses would be required. If a foreign country were to attempt to buy more than 120 per cent of their previous year's purchases, approval of the sale by the agriculture department would be required.

In his statement during the introduction of the bill, the 7th District Congressman said: "Our purpose is to protect both the consumer and the farmer while providing adequate food supplies at reasonable prices. We have asked," he continued, "the American farmer to increase his production at the risk of economic disaster. This legislation is little enough to assure a fair return for the farmers' own sacrifice," Bergland added.

In conclusion Bergland said: "The signs of future world food shortages and the realities of famines which now exist, are far stronger and more clear than the warnings preceding the shortage of petroleum products. I hope we will read these signs more clearly and recognize the urgent need for this legislation.

Army Offers New Delayed Entry Program

For graduating high school seniors who would like to prolong their summer vacations, the army has some good news. The army has extended its delayed entry program (DEP) from 180 days to 270 days.

Local army representative SSG John F. Smith said in order to qualify for the program an applicant must be a high school graduate or a senior scheduled to graduate who is enlisting for a specialty which requires a formal course of instruction.

"DEP is a pretty good deal," he added. "It allows an applicant to sign up today and take up to nine months before reporting for duty."

June 3, 1965, the two-man Gemini 4 was launched. During the flight, Edward White became the first American to "walk" in space.

No Redemption Offered For Cigarette Packs

You may be one of the thousands of Americans saving empty cigarette packs for some charitable purpose. You should know that the effort is in vain.

This advice comes from the Tobacco institute, an organization of cigarette manufacturers. The institute says the practice is growing, and all without apparent reasons.

Actress Joan Crawford has taken to the air in a series of radio announcements for the American Foundation for the Blind, to point out that the belief that cellophane bands from cigarette packs can be redeemed for guide dogs is a "cruel hoax" resulting in "heartbreak and anger."

Typically, word seems to spread in a community that some number of bands or packs will help provide such things as a dialysis machine for a kidney patient, open-heart surgery for a child or an iron lung for a polio victim.

In many cases newspapers have assigned reporters to track the source of these well-meaning efforts. Never has such a rumor been traced to its actual source.

"Such publicity is helpful," an institute spokesman said. "Yet the empty cigarette pack rumor still pops up as predictably as daisies in the spring—and all year long."

The Tobacco institute has a thick file of newspaper clippings showing how the empty-pack rumor has led to substantial and useless efforts in communities across the country. With nearly thirty billion packs of cigarettes being sold annually in the U.S., the potential is enormous.

Recently the New York Times reported that "millions" of empty packs had been "collected by hundreds of people, from employees in a Massachusetts corporation to sailors aboard the aircraft carrier Enterprise, to raise money for the two-year-old daughter of a garage mechanic in Crown Point, N.Y., who needs open-heart surgery."

In Rahway, N.J., a Knights of Columbus chapter spearheaded a drive in the belief that each empty pack would somehow be redeemable for one free minute for a child in an iron lung.

A Lakeland, Flor., couple gathered more than 100,000 packs to provide someone with kidney dialysis treatment. In North Carolina a drive was supposed to aid a diabetic child.

These and scores of similar reports had one thing in common: the potential beneficiaries of the drives did not exist.

"Cigarette companies," says the institute spokesman, "have for many years made sizable contributions to health research, education and other philanthropic causes, both nationally and in their own communities. But none of this involves redemption of empty packs."

What should a person do if someone asks him or her to help respond to one of these "drives"?

"Challenge the rumor," says the institute. "Ask to see an advertisement signed by a manufacturing company, for instance, in which such a redemption offer is made. There just won't be any. That's the way to stop these well-meant but futile efforts in their tracks."

Asks Farmers To Take Advantage Of '73 Farm Act

Cy Carpenter, president of Minnesota Farmers Union, recently reminded farmers who have been hit with excessive rainfall to take advantage of the disaster provision of the 1973 farm act if they are unable to plant their crops.

"One important provision in the farm bill that might be overlooked is the one making farmers eligible for payment in the amount of one third of the target price for the projected yield from their wheat and feed grain acres if they are unable to plant or harvest their crops," Carpenter declared.

"Time for planting is rapidly running out," the Farmers Union spokesman stated, "and every farmer should check with either his local ASCS office or his federal crop insurance agent if he cannot get his crops in.

"Farmers gamble with every crop" Carpenter said, "but with the present costs for fuel, fertilizer and other input items, the capitol invested is so high a farmer cannot afford the loss resulting from not being able to grow a crop. "That is why this provision was written into the bill and it would be tragic if some farmers fail to use this feature simply by overlooking it."

Conditions causing a farmer to be unable to plant must be certified by either the ASCS office or a federal crop agent before eligibility can be established. Farmers may still have some time to plant if weather improves drastically, but for those who cannot, action should be taken at once to verify their condition and application made for their payment. Further direction can be obtained at any ASCS office.

Call Before You Dig Is Telephone Company Plea

Backyard gardeners, do-it-yourself fence builders, farmers, people engaged in home improvement projects, contractors, excavators, road builders and well diggers are asked to keep in mind the number of telephone wires and cables that are now underground, according to D. L. Lindquist, Northwestern Bell telephone company manager.

Cutting of an underground cable could disrupt service for many, including emergency services, hospitals, schools and homes.

In the case of the telephone company signs indicate the general location of cables. However, anyone who plans to do any sort of digging should either contact the local telephone office or dial "Operator" and ask for Zenith 2345 beforehand.

"When we receive these calls, we immediately dispatch a technician to pinpoint the exact location of the buried facilities," Lindquist said. "Calling us can save expense for the digger as well as protecting the convenience of telephone users."

Guardsmen Will Train At Ripley June 15 To 29

Thousands of army national guardsmen and army reservists are traveling to Minnesota's Camp Ripley throughout May, June, and July, for their two weeks of annual training. To conserve fuel, many of the citizen-soldiers will be using commercial bus transportation rather than the traditional military convoys.

"The National Guard is required by federal law to perform a minimum of 15 days active duty training each year", stated major general Chester J. Moeglein, Minnesota's adjutant general. "We are very fortunate to have an excellent training camp in our own state. This enables us to train our guardsmen at a central location with proper training facilities and with a minimum transportation expense", he said.

About 9,000 men and women of the Minnesota army national guard's 47th Infantry (Viking) division will arrive at Camp Ripley on June 15 and depart on June 29. This will be the largest contingent to visit the state-owned camp, located seven miles north of Little Falls. The Viking troops represent all elements of the army national guard, including infantry, artillery, armor, communications, aviation and other support troops.

Governor's Day parade and review will be held on Sunday, June 23, on the Camp Ripley parade grounds. This colorful ceremony is open to the public.

Following the division "main camp" in June, Ripley will be occupied by several smaller guard units from Minnesota, Missouri and Louisiana during the first two weeks of July. Closing out the summer season will be the 820 member Cavalry squadron from July 13-27. The "Cav" is headquartered in Brainerd and has units in several Minnesota communities as well as in Iowa and Illinois.

Kick-off to the 1974 summer training season was the arrival of close to 400 men of an Army reserve engineer battalion on May 11. Overlapping with the reservists' two-week stint are 600 guardsmen from Minnesota's Armor Battalion and 200 from a Nebraska air ambulance company who arrived May 25.

Camp Ripley is owned and operated by the state of Minnesota. It is located seven miles north of Little Falls and contains 53,000 acres of training areas suitable for the training of all elements of an Infantry Division.

Prior to each training period, national guard and state highway department officials will publicize the routes of arriving and departing convoys for the convenience of civilian motorists.

Farm Leaders To Meet Governors At Conference

Leaders of the nation's major farm organizations will participate in a panel discussion on "The World Food Crisis" at the Midwestern Governors' conference in Minneapolis July 28-31, Bruce G. Schwartz, chairman of the Minnesota host committee, announced recently.

Schwartz said Tony DeChant, president of the National Farmers Union, and Orrin Lee Staley, president of the National Farmers Organization, have accepted invitations to speak at the conference. American Farm Bureau president, William J. Kuhfuss and agriculture secretary Earl Butz have been invited to join the panel.

Other participants will be agricultural scientist Norman E. Borlaug, 1970 Nobel peace prize winner; Minnesota Senator Hubert H. Humphrey, who will serve as moderator; and Dr. Lester R. Brown, a senior fellow in the overseas development council and an authority on international food production.

Political scientist and pollster Richard Scammon, co-author with Ben Wattenberg of "The Real Majority," will join Charles A. Lindbergh, world-renowned aviator turned conservationist, and New York Times journalist Harrison Salisbury on an "Issues of Man" seminar.

The four-day conference, to which 13 other governors have been invited to attend by Nebraska Gov. J. James Exon, program chairman; and Minnesota Gov. Wendell Anderson, conference host, also will feature a seminar on energy.

Scammon, born in Minneapolis and a graduate of the University of Minnesota, was director of the U.S. census bureau from 1961-65. Brown previously was with the U.S. department of agriculture as administrator of international development services.

Funding for the conference will come from a $40,000 state legislature appropriation supplemented by money raised from private sources by the committee headed by Schwartz. Headquarters for the four-day conference will be the IDS center.

Midwestern Governors' conference has 15 member states and is one of five regional governors' conferences conducted by the council of state governments.

State Asks For Comments About Highway Plan

Federal highway administration advised that comments from the public in reviewing Minnesota's action plan should be submitted by June 18, highway commissioner Ray Lappegaard announced.

Action Plan is a federal requirement concerning the highway planning process to assure consideration of social, economic and environmental values and that decisions in project development "are made in the best overall public interest."

As a part of the appraisal process copies of the document have been distributed throughout the state where interested citizens may review the proposed Action Plan in some 90 centers. These centers include the 16 district and maintenance area headquarters of the state highway department, the public libraries in many communities and the libraries in private and public colleges.

Because adoption of the Action Plan is essential as a requisite to approval of federally funded projects, the state's highway planning process must conform to guidelines for public participation and environmental considerations, " commissioner Lappegaard explained.

Written comments in review of the proposed Action Plan should be sent to Federal Highway Administration, Region V, 18209 Dixie Highway, Homewood, IL 60430; Federal Highway Administration, Minnesota Division, 490 Metro Square Bldg., St. Paul, MN 55101, or Action Plan, 510 State Hwy. Bldg., St. Paul, MN 55155.

Veterans Of Foreign Wars Celebrate 75th

Veterans of Foreign Wars of the United States is celebrating 75 years of service to the nation, its veterans, their dependents and survivors.

From a meeting of a dozen Spanish-American War veterans in the back room of a drug store in Columbus, Oh, in 1899 the V.F.W. has grown to 1.8 million men who have served the United States when this country needed them.

Those dozen men got together to see what could be done for the veterans of that era when all an ex-serviceman could look forward to was $15 in mustering out pay.

The V.F.W. founders also wanted to make sure that veterans of succeeding wars would not have to go through what they had experienced, public indifference to their plight once the shooting was over.

The GI bill embodied provisions that the V.F.W. sought after the war with Spain. The establishment of the Veterans administration was another V.F.W. approved action, as was insurance for servicemen. The VA hospital system is a tribute to V.F.W. thinking. Preventing it from being taken over by any other department and retaining it for the use of veterans only are two of the V.F.W.'s current goals.

In addition, the V.F.W. has acted as a watchdog over VA operations and in Washington has consistently pressed for larger VA budgets to enable that agency to carry out its mission of service to veterans.

V.F.W. acts as an ombudsman for veterans to see to it that they know what their rights are, what is available to them in benefits and very often goes to bat to get them compensation for their disabilities. Each year this amounts to approximately $500 million.

The V.F.W. claims to be the fastest growing veterans organization in the United States. The V.F.W. counts among its 1.8 million members more than 400,000 Vietnam veterans. To back this up it can point to the steady increase of from 50,000 to 100,000 members each year since 1962. In fact, there has been a steady rise in membership since a sharp decline in the immediate post-World War II days.

Although service to veterans is the V.F.W.'s first concern, it is by no means the whole story. Its members believe in their credo "Honor the Dead by Helping the Living." This means that they carry on a wide range of activities aimed at community improvement, patriotism, traffic safety and youth work—its Voice of Democracy broadcast scriptwriting contest each year alone attracts 500,000 young persons vying for college scholarships—fighting drug abuse and protecting the environment.

Principal difference between the V.F.W. and other veterans organizations is that the ones who belong to the V.F.W. all have served in the United States overseas in time of war or other hostilities rewarded with a campaign medal. Remarkably, only seven years of American history since 1898 have been free from some foreign involvement.

Men in the V.F.W., supported by their ladies auxiliary, know the blessings of peace, but are aware of the dangers inherent in weakened defenses. For that reason, the V.F.W. has always advocated maximum military strength to assure maximum security.

As another service to America, the V.F.W. for nearly 50 years has maintained its national home at Eaton Rapids, Mich., where more than 200 children of deceased veterans are reared in a wholesome, family-like atmosphere. The record made by its graduates alone sets the V.F.W. apart as a worthwhile service organization.

4 Men Arrested For Clearwater Co. Burglaries

Four young men were recently apprehended in Shevlin and charged with burglarizing the M and H store in Shevlin and the Bagley co-op elevator.

About 3:15 a.m. on May 16 John Garrett, son of L. Dean Garrett who owns the M and H store, received information that someone might be in the store. He arrived at the scene with a younger brother, Kim Garrett, in time to see a man inside the store as the burglar passed a front window. Running to the rear of the store, John Garrett saw three men leave the store's basement entrace. He followed the men to their parked car where he used a shotgun to capture them and a fourth man who joined them at their vehicle.

Responding to a call from Kim Garrett, Sheriff Kenneth Felt and Deputies Fritz LaRoque and Norval Anderson placed the four men in custody and transported them to the Beltrami county jail.

According to Sheriff Felt, evidence obtained following the Shevlin burglary indicated that the same four men burglarized the Bagley co-op elevator earlier the same morning.

Following their apprehension at Shevlin, James Reitke, 20, of Park Rapids, and Martin Engholm, 20; Jerald Enberg, 20; and Richard Carner, 21, all of Brainerd, are being held in lieu of bond at the Beltrami county jail.

Traffic Crashes Occur Mostly In Afternoon Hours

Hours between 4 and 5 p.m. is the worst time of the day for traffic accidents in Minnesota, but the hour of 1 to 2 a.m. is the most deadly, a study by the Minnesota department of public safety indicates. Records for both 1972 and 1973 agree on this pattern.

During the hour of 4 to 5 p.m., 9 per cent of all traffic crashes occurred in both years. Fatal accidents were similarly concentrated between 1 and 2 a.m.—8 per cent in both years.

The worst hour of the week for all accidents is the same hour on Friday—4 to 5 p.m. There were 1,859 crashes in 1973 during this time span, 2,121 during 1972.

The deadliest hour of the week in both years was Saturday from 1 to 2 a.m., with 23 fatal crashes at this time, fatal crashes totaled about five times the hourly average throughout the year.

Friday and Saturday were the worst days of the week. In 1973 175 fatal crashes on Saturday represented 20 per cent of the total, and in 1972, 179 occurred on the same day.

Wax On Wipers Dangerous In Bad Conditions

Windshield and winshield wipers should be cleaned of car-wax coatings immediately after each wash, the Minnesota department of public safety warned recently. Failure to do this could involve a driver in a dangerous predicament under some conditions.

"The wax, if left on the windshield, can be mixed with road dust and grime. In a rain-storm, this can become an impervious smear when the windshild wipers are turned on, causing dangerous loss of vision. This loss occurs without warning, since in good light the windshield appears clear. If it occurs on a high-speed freeway, or at night on a winding or otherwise difficult road, the loss of vision can be critical."

Most household window-cleaning preparations or household detergents mixed with alcohol are effective cleaning agents. The glass to be cleaned should be rubbed vigorously, and the cleaning agent should be rinsed-of when the cleaning is complete. Since the windshield wipers have also been coated with the wax, the blades should also be thoroughly cleaned.

Higher Interest Rates Placed On GI Loans

Higher interest rate was placed recently on homes purchased with GI loans since the alternative was unavailability of financing at lower rates, the Veterans Administration said recently.

Maximum allowable interest rate on mortgages has been increased from 8½ to 8¾ per cent, under a joint agreement by the VA and the Department of housing and urban development.

"Had the maximum interest rate remained at 8½ per cent during the current market situation, veterans would have found it difficult, if not impossible, to obtain VA-backed loans from private lenders," according to John R. Good, loan guaranty officer, VA Center, Fort Snelling.

"This is because the 8½ per cent interest rate was not competitive, and private lenders were reluctant to finance homes for veterans without payment of points."

He said that VA guarantees 60 per cent up to a maximum of $12,500, whichever is less, on home loans that private lenders make to eligible servicemen and veterans of World War II and later periods. Also eligible are service personnel separated from service because of service-connected disabilities, as well as widows of eligible veterans and spouses of service personnel missing in action or prisoners of war for more than 90 days.

Good said that the increase to 8¾ per cent on May 13 does not apply to mobile home loans for veterans.

Roepke Named State Trooper Of The Year

John Roepke, 725-E. 4th Avenue, Shakopee, was named as state trooper of the year recently, according to Lt. Col. Gerald R. Kittridge. He was selected from among 503 other troopers in the state patrol.

This is the second award of this nature the patrol has presented through a program initiated a year ago. Trooper of the year award is based on criteria listing eleven desireable qualifications, including job performance, appearance, dependability, judgement, initiative and tact.

The unber of officers competing for the award was narrowed to 11 with the selection of one man from each patrol district in the state. The final selection was made by a committee representing the Minnesota safety council and the Minnesota Motor Transport association.

Roepke joined the patrol in 1951 after working three years on the Shakopee police department. In addition to an excellent record in the routeine duties of a trooper, Roepke received a Red Cross merit award for life saving actions taken while on patrol duty in 1958.

Roepke has worked out of the Shakopee station, which is near his home town of Chaska, since he joined the patrol.

'73 Farm Prices Wiped Out By Skyrocket Costs

Agriculture commissioner Jon Wefald reported recently an estimated record gross receipts totaling $1,915,864,000 from sales of 10 of Minnesota's 1973 field crops but added "That much of the indicated gain in farm income has been wiped out by falling commodity prices and still skyrocketing production costs."

"Farmers are lucky they sold as much of their 1973 crops as they did before prices skidded back into the basement and threaten to again drop average family farm net income far behind the rest of the economy."

"At mid-April price averages," commissioner wefald exampled, "the 1973 crops that had been sold earlier, would have been worth over $105-million less."

He added that Minnesota farmers also used a record $794,115,650 worth of their crops for feed and seed during 1973, emphasizing that production cost item alone was 41.5 per cent higher than for 1972. The bulk of this was expended for farm-raised feed for livestock and poultry to produce consumer meat, dairy and poultry products.

Sharply increased agricultural production, along with the highest average prices Minnesota farmers experienced in 25 years or more, helped chalk up the record sales value estimates made by the state-federal crop and livestock reporting service.

Minnesota farmers increased production last year, compared to 1972, by 58.5 per cent on wheat, 73.9 per cent on flaxseed, 41 per cent on soybeans, 12.7 per cent on corn, 14.8 per cent on oats, 18.4 per cent on barley, 41.6 per cent on dry edible beans, and 5.4 per cent on wheat. Only production costs last year were 33.3 per cent for dry edible peas and 2 per cent for hay.

Estimated sales values, the percentage of increase for Minnesota 1973 field crops compared to 1972, and the value of crops used on the farms for feed and seed last year, are respectively:

Corn $693,036,000, up 91 per cent; $462,024,000 used for feed and seed, up 44 per cent.

Oats $73,828,000, up 107 per cent; $83,252,400 used for feed and seed, up 62 per cent.

Wheat $327,331,000, up 249 per cent; $20,102,500 used for feed and seed, up 210 per cent.

Barley $73,521,000, up 131 per cent; $12,973,100 used for feed and seed, up 150 per cent.

Rye $5,361,000, up 119 per cent; $466,200 used for feed and seed, up 119 per cent.

Flaxseed $22,908,000, up 338 per cent; $1,918,300 used for seed, up 196 per cent.

Soybeans $680,106,000 up 69 per cent; $24,399,650,000 used for feed and seed, up 18 per cent.

Hay $28,107,000, up 34 per cent; $188,082,000 used for feed, up 21 per cent.

Dry edible beans $11,248,000, up 241 per cent; $855,000 used for seed, up 441 per cent.

Dry edible peas $418,000, up 43 per cent; $43,500 used for seed, up 2 per cent.

Public Invited To Join FFA In Gauge Project

Members of youth groups and interested adults throughout Minnesota have been invited to join the Minnesota Future Farmers association (FFA) in operation rain-snow guage, which has measured precipitation throughout the state since 1970.

The invitation was made today by W. J. Kortesmaki, state executive secretary for FFA.

FFA is issuing the invitation to members of vocational youth groups, 4-H clubs, Boy Scouts, YMCA, YWCA, junior achievement and other youth groups. Interested adults also may participate.

The main requirement is that each participant send a precipitation report to the state climatologist at the University of Minnesota, St. Paul campus, by the 10th of each month.

Each year since 1971 over 2,000 members of the Future Farmers of America (FFA) in 270 high school chapters have served as amateur weather observers by recording and reporting precipitation.

The FFA's state-wide efforts in operation rain-snow guage has received support and technical advice from Earl Kuehnast, St. Paul, of the Minnesota department of natural resources and the bureau of civil defense; Joseph Strub, Minneapolis, meteorologist in charge, NOAA, national weather service forecast office, Twin Cities; and Dr. Donald G. Baker, professor, soil science department, University of Minnesota, St. Paul.

The 11" cylindrical all-weather snow-rain and wedge-type rain gauges are available from the nearest high school FFA chapter. The all-weather gauge is partly funded by the Upper Great Lakes Regional commission and is assembled and shipped by the Lake Region Rehabilitation industries at Fergus Falls, MN.

Further information on the 'precip' recording project and copies of the reporting forms are available from the state Vo-Ag-FFA offices, State Department of Education, Vocational-Technical Education, Capitol Square Building, St. Paul, Minnesota 55101

Requirements For Mirrors Being Studied

A safety standard specifying use and other requirements for rearview mirrors on certain vehicles has been proposed by the U.S. department of transportation. The Minnesota department of public safety reports that the proposed standard would apply to trucks, buses and motorcycles. It also would allow installation of truck-type mirror systems on multipurpose passenger vehicles.

Purpose of the new standard is to make uniform the regulations for rearward visibility, since individual states have varying requirments.

According to the proposal now under consideration, trucks, buses and multipurpose passenger vehicles with a gross weight of 10,000 pounds or less would have the option of either complying with passenger car mirror requirments or being equipped with outside mirrors on both sides of the vehicle. Those above 10,000 pounds gross weight would be required to have outside mirrors.

Motorcycles would be required to have a mirror with a reflective surface of not less than 12.5 square inches.

Minnesota law requires all motorcycles to be equipped with a mirror, and all other vehicles which are so loaded or constructed so that the driver does not have a view of the highway for a distance of at least 200 feet to the rear of the vehicle.

Humphrey Asks For Food Bill To Be Modified

"Recent crop estimates for 1974 suggest that we may have some modest excess supplies of crops available for food reserve purposes this fall," states Sen. Hubert Humphrey.

"If these projections prove accurate, and Congress fails to adopt the commodity reserve legislation that I have proposed, both farmers and consumers will be the losers.

"Farmers will be faced with low prices following the harvest, with the likelihood that foreign buyers will increase their purchases at these lower prices. This would deprive the U.S. of the opportunity of placing some of these stocks in reserves," Sen. Humphrey said.

"Should this happen, American farmers and consumers again would face the prospect of rapidly escalating prices in early 1975, just as happended in 1974.

"In view of the urgency of this situation, I introduced in the U.S. Senate this week a modified version of my national food reserve system bill, with the request that the senate agriculture and forestry committee act on my amendment within 30 days to assure the establishment of a reserve this year.

"There is no reason this cannot be done," he added, "Hearings already have been held on my original bill and my current proposals were considered at that time.

"The modified version of my reserve bill is designed to reduce financial risks confronted by America's farmers.

"Since the government has asked farmers to pull out the stops to increase production to meet world food shortage needs, there should be a sharing of that risk. My amendment will assure farmers a fair return on their labor and investments."

Sen. Humphrey said his amendment would:

(1) Raise the 1974 crop established (target) price for wheat from $2.05 per bushel to $3; for corn, from $1.38 per bushel to $2; and, for cotton, from 38 cents per pound to 50 cents, to take account of significant increases in production costs.

(2) Increase the 1974 minimum loan rate for wheat, corn and soybeans to two-thirds of the target price to give farmers greater security in marketing their crops;

(3) Limit the sale price of government-held stocks when these stocks are above reserve levels to not less than the target prices;

(4) Set loan rate levels at not less than 90 per cent of the established target price, when total carry-over stocks are estimated to be less than the total reserve levels in the bill;

(5) Provide for three-year commodity farm loans, handled in a manner to encourage farmers to sell their crops during periods of scarcity and to retain them during periods of abundance.

"But the main emphasis of my reserve legislation is simply to assure all consumers, urban and rural of an adequate supply of food and fiber at all times and at reasonable prices," Sen. Humphrey said.

"It is to provide a reserve to meet emergency conditions, both nationally and internationally, and to make the U.S. a reliable supplier to export nations."

Gov. Anderson, Atty. General Head Telethon

Governor Wendell Anderson and attorney general Warren Spannaus have been named co-chairmen of the Minnesota DFL telethon committee, according to DFL state chairman Hank Fischer.

This year's Democratic telethon is scheduled for June 29 and 30. DFL'ers hope to use live television and the telephone to garner modest size contributions from thousands of Minnesotans.

Governor Anderson said events such as the telethon are the key to future political fund raising. "our responsibility", he said, "is to see that every citizen knows the importance of supporting the political party of his choice with a modest contribution. "Minnesotans have a fine tradition of meeting this responsibility. We have never taken our politics for granted. Only a constant concern and a willingness to become involved have kept Minnesota politics as clean as they have historically been."

Americans Can Help When A Child Cries

by Roger Ose
Madagascar Missionary

She put her eight small children to bed on one big straw mat in the middle of their travellers palm hut. It was cold and the wind was blowing through the cracks in the walls, so they snuggled close together under two big blankets.

But the smallest ones cried and begged for more food. The mother comforted them and explained that they were out of food today. Tomorrow they would probably find some tasty wild plants down by the river to cook for dinner. Eventually the little ones cried themselves to sleep.

They knew, and the mother knew, that their beautiful corn and rice fields had dried up in the burning tropical sun. For more than a year the rains came, but it was too little too late. Consequently, the corn, rice and manioc harvest was very small. one year of severe drought is bad. But when it goes into the second year, families are forced to eat the precious seed grain that they will need to plant their crops. This story is repeated in six countries in Central Africa, where they are experiencing their second year of drought. Most children in these countries go to bed hungry every night.

The Malagasy see us foreigners living in big homes and having enough to eat. We bought extra sacks of rice during the short harvest season. We have enough money to buy cars, but they must walk 20 miles to a big town.

They get angry, and rightfully so. They are willing to believe the chinese Communists who tell them that Western nations have stolen the food and goods that rightfully belong to them. The Malagasy know that the French mining companies and sisal plantation owners are fabulously wealthy, but the nationals don't have enough food for their children. They hear on the radio that some nations waste food and natural resources.

I can understand their thinking. For example, an average American family throws away enough food in a day to keep a small Malagasy family alive. Americans drive big cars that use lots of gasoline. Americans could drive smaller cars, but they choose to drive big ones that waste precious fuel. Consequently, the Malagasy run out of petroleum because Americans waste what should have come here. I can see why they think that way. Here in Fort Dauphin we pay $1.40 a gallon for ethyl. We have a hard time getting kerosene at any price.

I believe Americans will be held accountable for their extravagance and waste. But you can help change that now. How? Use OUR precious natural resources sparingly. Try to understand how people from the third world, the underdeveloped nations, feel about your wastefulness.

Get to know a couple of foreign students. You have more than two thousand of them going to schools in the Minneapolis-St. Paul area. Most colleges in the Dakotas and northern Minnesota have several foreign students. Try to understand what are their dreams and hopes for their own countries. Listen carefully as they give their opinions about you, and your country. Remember, most of them come from countries where ignorance, disease and poverty has been the norm for centuries.

As you get to know them, be careful of a superior or condescending attitude. Don't give to them because they're so poor. That robs them of their dignity. Rather, help them like you would want somebody to help your son or daughter.

Encourage your congressman to continue foreign aid programs that help increase food production in the third world. The most effective foreign aid I've seen is when the U.S. gives 50 per cent of the cost of a dam or rice plantation canal, and the Malagasy government gives the other 50 per cent. That arrangement is a gift that can be accepted with dignity.

Encourage your children to serve overseas. Support your church missionaries. I've noticed that missionaries can accomplish more with far less money than government agencies. For example, the Malagasy tell us that they get better service and health care at our Lutheran hospitals than at their own government hospitals.

Be careful with OUR precious natural resources. Let your family discover ways you can save, and Share what you have. Put your ideas into acton. And tonight a small child somewhere far away will go to sleep with a full tummy because you shared.

Cargill, Inc. To Rebuild At Breckenridge

Cargill, Inc., announced recently that it will rebuild the firm's Breckenridge sunflower seed storage and handling facility destroyed by fire last March.

Kenneth Johnson, sunflower project manager, said that concrete foundations for 18 new steel storage bins will be poured as soon as weather permits.

"Our immediate objective is to be able to receive, clean, dry and store this year's crop," Johnson said. "The new construction will permit us to utilize the existing facilities saved from the fire which hold the production from about 60,000 acres of sunflowers, or about 30,000 tons of seed."

Johnson said that with new equipment Cargill will be able to clean and dry all of the seed before storage. He said the company will also install two unloading facilities for trucks—one a 67-foot dump for semi-trailers, the other a dump for smaller farm trucks; a new weighing system so that two trucks can be unloaded and weighed at simultaneously; and larger, faster conveying equipment of increase the volume of seed the company is able to handle at Breckenridge.

Johnson said that due to uncertainties in scheduling the delivers of equipment, Cargill has no firm plans for the reconstruction of its sunflower seed dehulling plant, which was also destroyed in the fire.

Price Inequities In Milk Sales To Be Resolved

Actions designed to eliminate competitive inequties in the minimum prices paid to farmers selling milk to dealers have been announced by the U.S. department of agriculture (USDA). Minnesota-North Dakota order is included in the area covered.

Effective August 1 the prices paid to farmers, the number of classes of milk and the products constituting a class will be standardized in 39 milk marketing areas in 20 states.

The marketing areas are in the central, southern and southwestern parts of the country.

The amendments are expected to result in slight, if any, changes in dairy product prices at the consumer level.

Amendments to the existing federal milk marketing orders will require identical minimal prices to prevail throughout the 39 marketing areas, three milk use classes in each of the areas instead of the current two in some and three in others, and identical diary products to be manufactured from the same class of milk in each area.

The amendments are made necessary by the technological advances in the marketing and transportation of mill, according to USDA. No longer confined to their own small localities, dealers sell milk in what is increasingly wider areas. But they are regulated by their local marketing order with provisions calling for perhaps lower prices and different classifications than those in other markets.

With dealers paying producers for milk according to the use to be made of it and with the lack of uniformity in prices and classifications, competitive inequities resulted, according to officials of USDA's agricultural marketing service (AMS).

The prices paid to producers will be based on the monthly Minnesota-Wisconsin (M-W) average of prices paid by processing plants in the two states for the manufacturing grades of milk.

Class I milk covers generally all milk for fluid (bottling) use, and the M-W price in effect two months prior to the current month, plus a differential for the specific marketing area, will apply. The amendments did not change Class I.

Class II milk would be used in ice cream and other frozen desserts, bulk milk sold to commercial food processors, milk used in cottage cheese and yogurt, and all fluid cream and cream products. The Class II price would be the M-W price for the current month plus 10 cents per hundred weight. The M-W price for March was $8.15 per cwt.

Class III milk would be used for butter, milk powder, hard cheeses and evaporated milk, and the price would be the M-W price for the current month.

To Award Nearly $10 Million In Anti-Crime Funds

Governor's commission on crime prevention and control will award nearly $10 million in federal anti-crime funds during a meeting scheduled for Friday at 9:30 a.m. in Stem hall at the St. Paul civic center, 143 West 4th Street, St. Paul.

Grants award meeting is preceded by a series of commission committee meetings during which approximately 200 grant applications received from local units of government and state agencies will be reviewed.

Each of the five committees will study the applications and make recommendations to the full commission regarding funding of individual applications.

Says Pesticides Necessary For Crop Production

"A viable agriculture and environment of the future that will be able to meet human nutritional needs must include the proper use of pesticides," a Minnesota department of agriculture official declared in Chicago Friday.

Dr. Rollin M. Dennistoun, administrator of the Minnesota agency, was one of a panel of experts who addressed the two-day Midwestern Environmental Protection conference sponsored by the Council of State Governments.

"Food supplies will have to be doubled in the next 30 years to achieve even a moderate advance in nutritional standards for a rapidly increasing world population," he emphasized.

Dr. Dennistourn rejected the indiscriminate use of pesticides of the past, and he insisted that pesticides are a necessary tool for food production, and must be closely regulated to insure proper use for the safety of both humans and the environment. He identified Minnesota among states that have exerted leadership in controlling and restricting hazardous pesticides.

He suggested there are more plus factors than environmental negatives to the proper use of pesticides. During the past decade pesticide use in malaria control cut the annual human death toll from 750,000 to 1,500 in India. In Ceylon a similar program dropped the death figure from 2.8-million in 1946 to only 110 in 1961.

Pesticides have contributed to the rich, sophisticated and cheap American diet of every increasing quantity and quality, despite the fact that the United States is losing one-million acres of the world's most productive farmland each year to roads, homes, industrial and recreational developments. Dr. Dennistoun said the diet now fattening 210-million Americans would feed 1.5-billion people on an average Chinese diet.

Projecting statistics from the 1968 Great Lakes states special survey on the effects of pesticides on agricultural production, Dr. Dennistoun said that banning of pesticides in the five states would reduce agricultural income $4.5-billion annually and cut consumer food and fiber supplies significantly.

"The loss of one-million acres of land each year from food production places some limit on how much we can afford to restrict the use of new and improved technology....To produce the amount of food now raised in this country by pre-pesticide standards would, by best estimates available, require 189-million additional acres of cropland and 674-million more acres of total farmland," Dr. Dennistoun warned.

1973 area high school graduates Kent Smith of Thief River Falls and Ken Spaeth of Mahnomen will apparently have an opportunity to see playing time as sophomores on the University of Nebraska football team when the 1974 college football season begins in September.

A 1974 Nebraska post-spring practice football appraisal sheet compiled by Nebraska sports information director Don Bryant offered an individual analysis for all 22 positions on the newest Cornhusker squad, with Smith and Spaeth both being mentioned as strong newcomers to the team.

Smith, a starter in the Nebraska freshman defensive secondary last fall, is among the candidates for a cornerback spot, according to Bryant whose cornerback position commentary read:

"Nebraska led the nation in pass defense in 1973, but three of the four starters are gone, including one cornerback, the monster and the safety, so rebuilding is in progress. Ardell Johnson, the fastest Husker at 4.3 (60) and a two year letterman, will man the left corner while Dave Butterfield and Chuck Jones are scrapping for the other. Butterfield is a red-shirt sophomore and Jones is a two year squad veteran. Jim Burrow, a 1973 squad man, and sophs Kent Smith and Kurt Stacey look like the best of the reserves."

Smith completed the Nebraska spring practice session as the number two man at one corner spot.

Spaeth played as a tight end on the Nebraska freshman team last fall. Bryant's look at the Cornhusker tight end spot read:

"Increased speed will make this an improved spot. Larry Mushinskie who lettered as a back-up man in 1973 and red-shirt Brad Jenkins had good springs, as did frosh team grad Ken Spaeth. All are able blockers, good receivers and have quality speed. This rates as a solid position."

Nebraska is expected to once again be among the nation's top football teams next fall, along with co-Big Eight Conference powers Oklahoma, Colorado and Missouri.

Nebraska opens its 1974 season by hosting Oregon September 14. Nebraska will play at home against the University of Minnesota October 5. The Cornhuskers will also play Wisconsin and Northwestern of the Big Ten, before facing the other seven Big Eight schools.

Sites for the 1974-75 district 31 athletic tournaments were announced recently by Lincoln high school athletic director Russ Smith.

Among the tournament sites will be two events scheduled to be held in Thief River Falls—the girl's volleyball and girl's basketball tournaments.

Crookston will host four events next year, including cross country, wrestling, sub district basketball and girl's track.

East Grand Forks will also host four tournaments, including girl's tennis (in the fall), golf, tennis and class B track.

Warren will host next year's district 31 baseball tournament and the University of North Dakota will again house the district 31 basketball tournament.

Former region eight high school hockey stars Alan Hangsleben of Warroad and Gary Sargent of Bemidji have been in newspaper headlines recently.

Hangsleben, a junior at the University of North Dakota in Grand Forks, gave up his final year of college eligibility and signed with the New England Whalers of the World Hockey Association Monday.

Sargent, a member of the Fargo-Moorhead Sugarkings of the Minnesota Junior Hockey League, was a first round draft choice of the Los Angeles Kings of the National Hockey League Tuesday.

Both former staters are defensemen.

Fast Pitch Play Starts Thursday

Thief River Falls fast pitch softball league hopes to open its delayed 1974 season schedule tomorrow (Thursday), it was announced Tuesday by league publicist Dick Bjerken.

Wet grounds have forced postponement of nearly two weeks of season play, with a total of 12 games being reshuffled because of the playing field conditions.

Tomorrow night's pairings will start with the originally scheduled season opening twin-bill with the Legion meeting Arctic Cat at 7 p.m. while Schmidts takes on the VFW in the nightcap under the new field lights at 8:45.

Friday night's schedule will pit Melvies against Thief River Falls Pepsi at 7 with Erskine meeting Falls Diesel at 8:45.

Prowlers Win District 31 Baseball Title

Thief River Falls overcame first inning jitters to beat Warren 15-5 Tuesday in the championship game of the 1974 district 31 baseball tournament played on the Red Lake Falls diamond.

The win gave Thief River Falls its first district baseball title since 1969, ending a four year Crookston championship reign. Veteran Prowler head coach Ralph Skay, who had earlier announced his planned retirement from the post at the end of the current season, picked up his 14th district 31 crown in his remarkable 22 year Thief River Falls tenure.

The Prowlers will now advance into next week's region eight tournament scheduled to be held Monday and Tuesday on the Red Lake Falls ball field.

Warren, a surprise 7-6 winner over heavily favored Crookston a night earlier, looked the part of the spoiler again in the first inning Tuesday as the upstart Ponies jumped out to a startling 3-0 first inning lead.

Two base hits, two Prowler errors and three walks by Thief River Falls righthander Jeff Langlie provided Warren with a big first inning. A routine throw back to the pitcher by Prowler catcher Greg Sorenson ended up in centerfield for the game's first run. A second tainted run scored on a successful double steal with Ponies on first and third when a relay throw from second to home landed against the backstop for another error. Kevin Hanson then ripped a hard-hit single to center for another run before the Prowlers got out of the inning.

Thief River Falls wasted little time taking the lead away from Warren, though, as the Prowlers scored four times in the second inning. Langlie smashed a ground rule double under the leftfield fence for the first Prowler run after a pair of walks and a fielder's choice. A sacrifice fly by Cliff Shumway made it 3-2. Another walk issued by Warren lefthander Bob Quanrud was promptly followed by a solid single to deep leftfield by Chris Biegner for two runs and a 4-3 Prowler lead.

The margin climbed to 6-3 in the top of the third when Sorenson was hit by a pitch and Jeff Tunberg reached base on an error. Jon Peterson lifted a single off the ground for one run and Shumway tagged relief pitcher Bob Nelson for an RBI single.

Warren cut the difference to 6-4 in the Pony half of the third as Quanrud lofted a long double to deep leftfield, moved to third on an infield out and scored on a base hit by Mike Peyton.

Two more Prowlers scored in the fourth for an 8-4 game. Duane Dicken reached base on an error and scored moments later on a triple to deep rightfield by Sorenson. A sacrifice fly by Duane Gonsorowski scored Sorenson.

The Prowler runs continued to cross the plate in pairs in the fifth when Jeff Lindquist, Biegner and Dicken stroked consecutive singles. Dicken's base hit over second base scored two runs for a 10-4 contest.

Thief River Falls wrapped up the game in the sixth by scoring five runs without the benefit on a base hit off new Warren pitchers Kelly Foerster and Jerry Potucek. Five walks, three wild pitches and three errors produced the five Prowler sixth inning runs.

Warren finished the game's scoring in the bottom of the seventh on four straight walks. Langlie walked the bases full before Skay brought in junior righthander Jeff Tunberg. Tunberg walked the first batter he faced to force in a run, but then struck out the next two Ponies and retired the final out on a ground ball back to the mound.

Thief River Falls totaled nine base hits in the game that were sandwiched around nine costly Waren errors and an equally damaging 11 walks. Warren picked up five hits off Langlie who won his second game of the tournament after blanking Alvarado 12-0 on a one-hitter to start the play-offs last week. Thief River Falls committed only the two first inning errors.

LHS Netmen Enter Region 8 Friday

Thief River Falls will be represented in both the team and individual competition this week when the 1974 region eight tennis tournament is held at Bemidji.

The region's team play will be held Thursday starting at 2 p.m. The region's individual competition will be held Friday beginning at 10 a.m. on the Bemidji courts.

Thursday's team pairings will find district 31 champion Thief River Falls facing district 30 winner Mahnomen at 2 o'clock while district 29 titlelist and defending region eight champion Bemidji receives a first round bye since district 32 doesn't send a representative to the region tennis meet.

Bemidji meets the Thief River Falls-Mahnomen winner in the finals at 4 p.m. The championship match winner will advance to the state meet.

Thief River Falls' district 31 champion and region eight lineup will include Bill LaValley in first singles; Tim Engelstad, second singles; Keith Breiland, third singles; Scott Engelstad and Brain Waale, first doubles; and Terry Sullivan and Gary Laidley, second doubles.

The Thief River Falls entry in Friday's individual competition will include Tim Engelstad and Breiland in doubles play. Other doubles teams will be entered from Crookston, Bemidji, Mahnomen and either Ada or Fertile. The winning doubles team will move on to the state tournament.

"I think Tim and Keith are capable of going through the region," said Prowler tennis coach Whitey Olson. "It's going to be tough in the team competition, but I think our doubles team has an excellent shot at it."

Thief River Falls defeated Mahnomen 4-1 and 3-2 during the regular season, but lost a pair of 5-0 matches to the strong Lumberjacks.

The Minnesota state tennis tournament will be held June 6-8 at the University of Minnesota courts in Minneapolis.

Prowlers Play Dist. 30 Champ In Region Opener

District 31 champion Thief River Falls will meet the district 30 winner in the first game of the 1974 region eight baseball tournament Monday at Red Lake Fals.

The Prowlers, a 15-5 winner over Warren in Tuesday night's district 31 championship game, will play the district 30 champion Monday at 6 p.m. in the region tournament opener. Defending champion Halstad is scheduled to play either Bagley or Ada in the district 30 championship game tonight (Wednesday).

The region tournament's other first round Monday game will match the district 29 and 32 champions. Defending state champion Bemidji is a near shoo-in for the district 29 spot. Roseau, Warroad, Karlstad and Strandquist were in the semifinals of the district 32 tournament.

The region eight championship game will be played Tuesday at Red Lake Falls.

NCC Golf Team Heads For Florida, NJCAA Tourney

Coach Al Adams' Northland community college golf team, winner of the recent NJCAA region XIII and MJCAA Minnesota state tornaments, will leave Thief River Falls by car tomorrow (Thursday) at 4 a.m. enroute to Florida to take part in the 1974 national junior college golf tournament.

The prestigious NJCAA tournament will be played June 4-7 on the 7,110 yard par 72 Mirror Lakes country club in Lehigh, Florida, a 12,000 resident community 12 miles east of Ft. Myers in the southwest part of the state.

Northland's national tournament team will include sophomores Jay Moum, Mark Metusalem and Lee Sorensen and freshmen Jim Strandemo and Dick Penning. Moum, Metusalem, Sorensen and Penning are all from Thief River Falls. Strandemo is from Mahnomen.

Edison community college of Lehigh will act as the host school for the 22 team NJCAA event that will feature 18 holes of play Tuesday through Friday, June 4-7. The Northland squad is expected to arrive in time to take advantage of practice rounds that will be allowed Sunday and Monday.

The national team titlist will be decided by the scores of the low four golfers for the 72 hole tournament. There will be a cut after 36 holes to the low 15 teams and any school within 15 shots of the leading team, and to the low 20 individuals or any individual within 15 shots of the leader.

Despite a banner spring season Northland isn't expected to seriously challenge for the NJCAA title. "Realistically, I don't think we have any chance of winning it," admitted Adams. "But if the kids all shoot well we have a chance to finish among the top six, I think—that's where we would like to finish. The top six teams get trophies."

"We would like to win of course," said Adams. "But teams from Texas, California and Florida have awful strong golf programs. They golf 10 and 11 months of the year. Their golf seasons last longer than our basketball season."

Adams pointed out that his team will have to shoot better than they've ever shot before just to finish among the top six. Miami Dade North won last year's NJCAA title with a four day accumulative score of 1,158 strokes at Roswell, New Mexico. The Miami school shot rounds of 285-289-292-292. Northland's state and region tournament rounds were 311-318. Adams was quick to point out, however, that Anoka's Bunker Hills course, the site of the region and state meets, was probably more difficult than they'll face at the national level. The weather was also a handicap at the state and region meets.

To place among the top six teams Northland will probably have to match last year's sixth place effort of South Plains College that included rounds of 302-303-293-296 for a 1,194 total.

"It's going to be tough to finish somewhere in that one through six finish, but I think we can be under 310 and be in contention," offered Adams.

Sorensen participated in last year's NJCAA tournament in New Mexico.

TRF Tops RLF 10-5 In District Semi's

Coach Ralph Skay's Lincoln high school ball club held a precarious 4-3 lead entering the final inning when Thief River Falls sent 10 batters to the plate, scoring six runs on three base hits, four Red Lake Falls errors and a pair of walks.

Thief River Falls erupted for six runs in the top of the seventh inning Monday to break open a tight ball game, powering the Prowlers to a 10-5 district 31 semifinal baseball tournament triumph over Red Lake Falls.

Jeff Lindquist started the Prowler seventh inning surge by lifting a single to left-centerfield. One out later Randy Dallmann walked and Lindquist promptly scored when Red Lake Falls catcher Tim Schmitz tossed the ball into leftfield on Lindquist's steal of third base. Duane Dicken then walked and Jeff Tunberg smashed a hard-hit single to centerfield for a pair of runs. An error put another runner on base and Greg Sorenson followed with his third base hit of the game, a hard poke to the opposite field corner for a double and one RBI. Tim Erickson made it 9-3 by lofting a high sacrifice fly to centerfield for a run. The final Prowler crossed the plate on the fourth Eagle error of the drawn-out inning.

A bases loaded wild pitch by Prowler righthander Joel Folger, along with an infield out accounted for two Red Lake Falls runs in the bottom of the seventh for the 10-5 final.

Thief River Falls scored the game's first run in the top of the first when Lindquist, Chris Biegner and Dallmann all singled to load the bases, with Lindquist scoring on Duane Dicken's ground ball to short.

Red Lake Falls tied the game in the Eagle half on the first on a single, fielder's choice, walk, wild pitch and a successful double-steal of second and home.

The Prowlers bunched five base hits together in the fifth inning for three runs to snap the 1-1 deadlock. Doubles by Lindquist and Biegner and a single by Dicken pushed Prowler teammates across the plate in the fifth.

Red Lake Falls fought back into contention in the sixth inning when the scrappy Eagles scored twice without the benefit of a base hit. A pair of back to back inning opening walks haunted Folger as both runners scored thanks to a pair of Prowler errors for a 4-3 ball game.

Despite the errors, the Prowler defense came up with a pair of sparkling plays to clip the Eagle rally as second baseman Dicken and centerfielder Cliff Shumway made consecutive eye-opening running catches of Red Lake Falls line-drives.

Folger struggled, but gave up only four base hits in the game. Five Prowler errors forced Folger to work extra hard for the win. Thief River Falls tagged losing pitcher John Baril for 13 hits in the game. Red Lake Falls also committed five errors in the ragged contest.

PROWLER ASSISTANT coach Charlie Cornell tossed his hands in the air in disgust as he argued with home plate umpire Harlan Stahlaker during Monday night's Thief River Falls-Red Lake Falls district 31 baseball tournament game in Red Lake Falls. Stahlaker won the argument, of course, as he called a Red Lake Falls runner safe in the game's first inning. Thief River Falls won the game 10-5.

Twyla Mercil Enters State Meet Saturday

Lincoln high school junior Twyla Mercil will compete in the 1974 Minnesota girl's state track meet scheduled to be held Saturday on the Richfield high school track in the Twin Cties.

Mercil will be entered in the 100 yard dash after winning the event in 12.1 seconds in last week's region eight meet at Bagley.

The state meet 100 yard dash prelims are scheduled to start at 9:30 a.m. The afternoon finals will begin at 2:25.

Mercil is the second Lincoln high school girl to compete in the girl's state track meet. Kathy Roisland was the Thief River Falls state entry a year ago, also in the 100.

The meet will be conducted on the Richfield school's new Chevron track. The new facility and a top field of performers promises a host of new state records.

A total of 282 girls representing 111 schools, will be competing in this meet. All of the competitors have qualified to the state meet through district and regional eliminations.

Moorhead high school is the defending state girls track champion. The Spuds will enter another strong team to defend their title against expected challenges from White Bear Lake and St. Cloud Apollo.

The meet will be the third annual girl's state meet, but the first to be sponsored by the Minnesota state high school league (MSHSL).

LINCOLN HIGH SCHOOL baseball captain Cliff Shumway flashed a big smile Tuesday night while accepting the 1974 district 31 championship trophy from Cal Melgaard of Warren, the district 31 school board representative. Thief River Falls defeated Warren 15-5 in the title game to advance into next week's region eight tournament that will be played Monday and Tuesday in Red Lake Falls.

Prowlers Enter Region 8 Track Meet On Friday

Crookston and Walker will be heavy favorites to win their respective class titles Friday when the 1974 region eight track meet is held at Walker.

The region meet prelims will start at 10 a.m. and will conclude about 11:30. The afternoon finals are scheduled to start at 1 p.m. and will continue until about 4.

Coach Marv Walter's Lincoln high school track squad will be among the six large schools competing in the class A portion of Saturday's meet, along with Crookston, Roseau, Park Rapids, Bagley and East Grand Forks. About 14 schools are expected to be entered in the small school class B division, headed by Walker.

"Crookston and Walker should be able to walk away from everyone else in the two classes," pointed out Walter who conceeds a team trophy to Crookston, but hopes to advance a number of his individual performers through the region meet to the upcoming state meet.

The top Thief River Falls region hopefuls include junior Jerry Sandahl in the 120 yard high and 180 yard low hurdles; senior Brian Phelps in the two mile run; and senior Tony Dorn in the shot put and discus. The top two place finishers in each event advance to the state meet scheduled to be held June 7-8 at St. Cloud.

Walter also hopes to advance one relay into the state. "I think Dorn, Sandahl and Phelps will all make it, and I hope we can get a relay team through," noted Walter. The Prowler mile medley unit of Sandahl, Jim Carlson, Jeff Houfek and either Joe Sorvig or Tom Barry will be the best Thief River Falls relay bet, according to where the powerful Crookston squads stacks its relay strength.

The rest of the Thief River Falls region meet entries include Jim Elleson and Greg McEwen in the 100; Barry and McEwen, 220; Tony Brosseau and either Mark Haroldson or Jeff Johnson, 440; Brad Brown and either Mike Burstad or Johnson, 880, Johnson and either Lonnie Olson or Dan Kezar, mile; Phelps and Dan Heieren, two mile; and Sandahl and Sorvig, in both the high and low hurdles.

The Prowler field event entries include Dorn and Kent Ehrenstrom, shot put and discus; Jim Carlson and Brad Swanson, high jump; Carlson and Greg Leach, long jump; and Mark Haroldson and Tim Benedict, pole vault.

Two other Prowler relay teams include Elleson, Barry, Houfeck and Carlson, 880, and Brosseau, Johnson, Jeff Hendrickson and Houfek, mile.

Bemidji Thinclads Beat Prowlers 85-47

Lincoln high school track team completed its 1974 regular season schedule Saturday by meeting Bemidji in a dual meet on the Bemidji State College track.

Bemidji won the event by a handy 85-47 margin. Bemidji also won the day's junior high competition 74-34.

Thief River Falls won four of the meet's events, including Tony Dorn with a 45-11 toss in the shot put; Jerry Sandahl with a 21.0 clocking in the 180 yard low hurdles; Brian Pehlps with a 10:15 effort in the two mile to match his school record time; and the 880 relayteam of Greg McEwen, Tom Barry, Jeff Houfek and Jim Elleson.

Prowler second places included Greg Leach, 16-10½ long jump; Dorn, 143-8 discus; Sandahl 16.6 in the 120 yard high hurdles; Jeff Johnson, 4:48 mile; Phelps 55.6 in the 440; Tim Carlson, 5-6 high jump; and Mark Haroldson, 10-0 pole vault.

Thief River Falls scored on a pair of thirds by Barry with a 22.5 in the low hurldes and by Brad Brown with a 2:10.5 in the 880. The times were the best efforts of the year for both runners.

A triangular meet scheduled to be held in Thief River Falls Tuesday between the Prowlers, International Falls and East Grand Forks was cancelled because of a wet track.

Thief River Falls will compete in the region eight meet Friday at Walker.

LHS Trio Runs In GF All-Star Track Meet Mon.

Jerry Sandahl, Tony Dorn and Brian Phelps of Thief River Falls all competed in Monday's first annual running of the Knights of Columbus high school all-star track meet at Red River high school in Grand Forks.

Sandahl placed in both hurdle events as the speedy Prowler junior ran a 15.7 for a second in the 120 yard highs and clocked a 20.8 for a third in the 180 yard lows. Phil Johnson of Fargo South won the highs in a fast 15.6 and North Dakota track star Drexel Lawson of the North Dakota school for the deaf won the lows in an eye-catching 20.4.

Dorn placed fourth in the discus competition with a toss of 149-2¾. Grand Forks Central's Rod Ulland won the event with a 161-1¾ effort.

Cass County Will Help To Replace Lost DNR Trout

A group of adult Donaldson rainbow trout retained at the DNR's Spire Valley hatchery in Cass county have supplied the eggs necessary to replace the fingerlings lost through a switch failure at the St. Paul hatchery.

The switch failure caused a pump to quit on Easter Sunday, cutting off the water supply. Only 6,000 fingerling Donaldsons and three yearlings survived out of a total 65,000 fingerlings and 480 yearlings on hand.

A CROWD gathered around home plate on this play during Monday night's Thief River Falls-Red Lake Falls 31 semifinal baseball tournament game played in Red Lake Falls. Thief River Falls catcher Greg Soenson has the ball in his glove as Red Lake Falls runner Tim Schmitz tries to score on a suicide squeeze bunt attempt by Eagle batter Allan Stokke. The first inning play was whistled dead and Stokke was awarded first base, however, when Sorenson was called for interference on the play for shoving the batter out of the way. Schmitz had to return to first base. Thief River Falls won the game 10-5.

The season opening results found the Knights of Columbus squeezing by Wennbergs 2-1 and Land O'Lakes beating the Postal Service 12-1.

Region 8 Golf Meet Set Friday On Walker Course

Bemidji, Thief River Falls, Roseau and Mahnomen will square off Friday when the 1974 region eight golf tournament begins at Walker.

About 35 northwestern Minnesota high school golfers are expected to take part in the annual event, but with only Bemidji, Roseau, Thief River Falls and Mahnomen entering a full three player team.

"Bemidji's definitely favored," pointed out Jack Boyer, coach of the district 31 champion Thief River Falls squad. "We're the underdogs, but if we can golf good on Friday we have a chance of coming through. Bemidji's the favorite, though, and Roseau will be tough too."

Mahnomen is the defending region eight champion, but its been the Roseau-Bemidji-Thief River Falls competition that's caught everyone's attention this spring.

"The Walker course has a short front nine, a long back nine and lots of rolling holes," explained Boyer. "That kind of course is not to our liking. It's on the order of Bemidji's course instead of our flatter course. That's a big reason why I have to rate Bemidji a favorite."

Thief River Falls will enter a six man team in the region meet, including seniors Dick Skay, Mike Froehle, Mike Onkka and Bruce Rested and sophomores Steve Onkka and Mike Jury.

435,000 Snowmobiles Sold In 1973-74

An estimated 435,000 new 1974 and prior year models of snowmobiles were sold during the 1973-74 snowmobile selling season, despite an energy emergency and less than ideal snow conditions, according to a report released by Mortimer B. Doyle, president and chief executive officer of the International Snowmobile Industry association (ISIA).

Estimate of retail sales for the past snowmobile season was included in a comprehensive annual appraisal prepared by the president of ISIA and entitled, "An Assessment of the Snowmobile Manufacturing Industry 1974-75."

The report was released at a press conference prior to the annual international snowmobile congress and trade show held in the Minneapolis auditorium under the sponsorship of ISIA.

"After an exhaustive study of the first decade of the snowmobile manufacturing industry and sport, its problems and opportunities, substantial progress was made during the 1973-74 snow season in overcoming organization difficulties of the industry," according to the report.

Market losses caused by energy emergency publicity and continued less than ideal snow conditions in North America are discussed in the report.

Doyle explained, "While the snowmobile industry enjoyed one of the finest retail sales months in history in January, 1974, it is clear that losses caused by energy emergency publicity in November and December of 1973 could not be fully recaptured."

Wildlife Expert Appointed To Highway Staff

Recently appointed to the staff of the Minnesota highway department's office of environmental services was wildlife biologist Franklin J. Svoboda, a native of Hutchinson, previously employed by the University of Minnesota's department of entomology, fisheries and wildlife on a forest wildlife project near Cloquet.

As a biological scientist it will be Svoboda's function to act as a consultant to the Minnesota highway department on matters relating to possible effects on wildlife of proposed highway improvements. He will also participate in the preparation of environmental impact reports required in advance of actual construction.

Svobda, who won an employee achievement award from the university in 1972 for outstanding job performance, is the author and co-author of several publications on the ruffed grouse and its habitat in Minnesota.

A long-time member of the wildlife society, Svoboda is also president of the Carlton county sportsmen's club, a member of the Inland Bird Banding association, and co-organizer, director, vice president and program committee chairman of Carlton county's Izaak Walton league.

LAWCON Funds Of $1,600,000 To Be Available

Preliminary 1975 application packets for federal land and water conservation funds (LAWCON) and state natural resources grants are being mailed out to counties and municipalities to acquire and develop outdoor recreation facilities.

Office of local and urban affairs within the state planning agency estimates that there will by $1,000,000 in LAWCON funds available to local units of government in Minnesota for fiscal year 1975.

These funds, appropriated to the state of Minnesota each year by the bureau of outdoor recreation in the department of the interior, are based on receipts from the Golden Eagle Passport program, motor boat oil tax and, revenue from off shore oil leases.

State natural resources grants will be used to supplement the LAWCON grants. It is estimated that there will be $500,000 in state grants where federal funding is not available for park acquisition and development. Of this total, $150,000 will be available for local parks in the metro area; $150,000 is available for local parks and $200,000 is available for regional parks in outstate Minnesota.

State grants are a portion of the money appropriated by the legislature under the state natural resources grant and aid program to local governments and are derived from the two cent state tax on cigarettes. The same tax is used to support a board state program of recreation and park development that had its origins in actions taken by the Legislature and its Minnesota resources commission (MRC).

The deadline for receipt of preliminary applications is July 12, 1974.

Further information about the program can be obtained from: Parks and Recreation Grants Section, Room 101, Capitol Square Building, St. Pau, MN 55101.

Wolf Transplant To Michigan May Come Back Home

World's first transplant of four eastern timber wolves from Minnesota to upper Michigan took place on March 12 and already is showing interesting results.

Interior's fish and wildlife service director Lynn A. Greenwalt announced today that three of the four wolves spent about a week orienting to the release area and then moved to the west in an apparent deliberate start of a long trek back to Minnesota. They moved about 80 miles onto the Keewanaw peninsula, reversed direction, and have now spent about three weeks at the base of the Peninsula.

The female of the group is suspected to be pregnant and due to whelp in late April. It is speculated that her immediate need for a den may have interrupted the pack leader's orientation toward Minnesota.

The wolves are believed capable of celestial navigation so early planning for the project chose deep, soft snow conditions in an area of deer yarding to stymie any effort at travel. Just prior to release, a heavy ice storm made travel on top of the snow possible and thus foiled efforts to keep the wolves in good wolf-deer habitat.

The fourth wolf, an 11-month-old immature female, remains in the general release area in the Huron Mountains of Upper Michigan.

The trial is a joint effort of the U.S. fish and wildlife service and Northern Michigan university that has the backing of the natural resources departments of Minnesota and Michigan. It is funded by the Huron Mountains Wildlife foundation, the National Audubon society, and Northern Michigan university.

Since their release, the four radio-collared wolves—two males and two females—have been monitored from an airplane. The radio collars will remain active up to 12 months.

Dr. William Robinson of Northern Michigan university and Dr. David Mech, U.S. fish and wildlife biologist, are conducting the experiment to determine what wolves will do when trasplanted to unfamiliar territory. Secondly, they wish to find out if a family unit or pack can successfully establish itself in new territory.

The eastern timber wolf is on the Secretary of the Interior's list of endangered species. It formerly ranged over Minnesota and eastern Canada, south to Ohio, and into the Northeastern United States. The species is greatly reduced in range and numbers in the United States but stable in Minnesota where the population is estimated to be 500 to 1,000. The area of upper Michigan was chosen for release because it was once part of the species' range and because a remnant population of about six eastern timber wolves is thought alive there today.

The experiment is being watched with interest by wildlife scientists who hope to reestablish other endangered species in parts of their former ranges. The Swedish government is also interested because it is considering a similar wolf transplant program.

Sound Reduction In Snowmobiles Point Of Pride

Snowmobile industry announced today through the release of a sound level position paper and chart that snowmobile sound pressure levels have been reduced 89 per cent in a little over seven years and that machines produced in the new year will be further improved.

Announcement was made by Mortimer B. Doyle, president and chief executive office of the International Snowmobile Industry association (ISIA) at a press conference held prior to the annual international snowmobile congress and trade show in Minneapolis auditorium under the sponsorship of ISIA.

"Our ISIA manufacturer members have been successful in reducing maximum snowmobile sound levels approximately 89 per cent in a little over seven years," said Doyle. "We believe this represents substantial progress in a highly technical area for an industry only a decade old."

"The projected industry decibel level for 1975 is 78 decibels on the 'A' scale from early day vehicles."

Doyle explained that sound increases and-or decreases are measured on a logarithmic scale. For every six decibels increase or decrease in sound pressure level, the noice is either doubled or halved.

"Federal regulations of Canada and the current regulations of 17 states in the United State that regulate snowmobile sound levels, require 82 decibels on the 'A' scale at 50 feet, which the industry feels is a reasonable level. Other states allow higher levels or have no specific decibel regulation.

"At the 82 decibel level," said Doyle, "the snowmobile is quieter than most other off-road recreational vehicles by a considerable margin. Also, snowmobiles are quieter than many automobiles when measured by similar test procedures.

"Since the snowmobile is operated on snow and a majority of time at much less than full throttle and seldom at maximum acceleration, its sound exposure and annoyance factor to the public is considerably less than a majority of other common everyday sounds such as airplanes, automobiles, vacuum cleaners and dishwashers," Doyle stated.

"We have been cooperating with the U.S. environmental protection agency officials and with state, provincial and Canadian federal officials in developing regulations which are consistent with design integrity, sound engineering practice, product quality and operator safety.

"To our knowledge, no other engine-powered product in the country will have improved more in the area of sound control technology than the snowmobile, and in a short time."

The report states, "It is estimated that the fear engendered by this publicity during those two months cost the industry a net loss of retail sales in the neighborhood of 30,000 units. This estimate includes those buyers in shock in November and December (1973) who did eventually buy in January and February.

"Unlike other recreational industries and pursuits, the snowmobile industry was especially hard hit by the energy emergency which affected buyers at the peak of the snowmobile selling season. Such lost sales could not be regained in the remaining snow season.

"In addition, for the third straight year, there were less than normal snow conditions in Canada and the United States. Good snow conditions prevailed in Western Canada and Western United States, but these areas, at present, represent a lesser, though expanding share of the snowbelt market. New England and the Maritime provinces were especially hard hit with rains and lack of good snow cover."

The report stated that 350,000 new units were produced for sale industry-wide during the season ending in February of 1974. This, together with a carry-over inventory of 315,000 units, meant that a total of 665,000 units at the plant, distributor or dealer levels were available for sale during the 1973-74 season ending Feb. 28, 1974.

The report states, "With 210,000 units still reported in the pipeline at the end of February, 1974, it would appear that 435,000 new 1974 and prior year models were sold during the snow season ending Feb. 28, 1974.

"It should be understood, however, that some of these units were distress sales resulting from companies going out of the industry."

The report continues, "Putting the total market situation in perspective, it is fair to state that, during this past year's selling season, there were fewer than normal first-time buyers of snowmobiles in metropolitan-suburban areas which experienced severe gasoline shortages.

"The industry expects, however, to devote an increasing share of time, resources and energy to the expansion of well-planned trails and use areas and facilities closer to centers of population in the snowbelt regions of North America."

"If this program is successful, we can envision a modest growth of five per cent per year in the overall snowmobile market."

Doyle predicted, "With expected further reduction of production for the 1974-75 selling season, with the energy emergency less of a crisis and with normal snow cover, it is conceivable that by the end of February, 1975, the industry's inventory pipeline carry over situation may not be the major problem it has been these past three years."

According to Doyle, this year's trade show, congress and council meetings attracted the largest gathering of snowmobile industry personnel and enthusiasts in the history of the sport of snowmobiling because "we discussed the future recreational needs of citizens of North America."

ISIA is the snowmobile industry's trade association comprised of manufacturer and supplier members who produce approximately 90 per cent of the world-wide output of snowmobiles and component parts.

In Loving Memoriam

Nine years have passed since that morning in May,
When God ended your suffering and called you away—
No more to hear your dear laughter ring....
Nor your sunny warm smile which was—everything!
Still....we do not question God's many ways
Tho we have lived through many lonely days—
Your beautiful memories, we'll always share
Kept deep in our hearts,
Till we meet you—up there!

In loving memory of our dearest son and brother, Monti; who passed away May 24, 1965. Sadly missed by his dad and mom, Bennie and DeLores Miramonte, Sisters: Dani Lo, Monica and Anita and brothers, Vince and Paul. All memoriams for Monti are originals by Dolly and are not be reprinted without her permission. 1t43c

In Loving Memoriam

Nine years have passed since
that morning in May,
When God ended your suffering
and called you away—
No more to hear your dear
laughter ring....
Nor your sunny warm smile
which was—everything!
Still....we do not question God's
many ways
Tho we have lived through many lonely days—
Your beautiful memories, we'll always share
Kept deep in our hearts,
Till we meet you—up there!

In loving memory of our dearest son and brother, Monti; who passed away May 24, 1965. Sadly missed by his dad and mom, Bennie and DeLores Miramonte, Sisters: Dani Le, Monica and Anita and brothers, Vince and Paul. All memoriams for Monti are originals by Dolly and are not be reprinted without her permission. 1t43c

FRICTION-THEN RUIN

Packed into every watch are cogs and wheels, levers and springs. Varying in size and shape, each helps keep time. But look more closely. A thin film of oil adheres to many of the moving parts. Without it there is friction —then wear and . . . damage.

Within most towns, you'll find banks and shops, supermarkets and churches. They vary in size and purpose, yet each contributes to an orderly society.

Faith in God is essential to society. Without it there is friction — then distrust and . . . ruin.

In church people find faith that gives greater meaning to life in a complex and rapidly changing world. Is your life running smoothly? Why not attend church this Sunday?

Thought For The Day

Someone has suggested that "No Excuse Sunday" should be added to the church year with the liturgical color being black and blue because our excuses would take a beating. Incorporated into the service would be the following inovations:

1. A cot in the narthex for those who say, "Sunday is my only day to sleep in."
2. Murine for those with tired eyes from watching TV too late on Saturday night.
3. Steel helmets for those who say, "The roof would cave in if I came."
4. Blankets for those who think the sanctuary is too cold and fans for those who think it is too hot.
5. Hearing aids for those who can't hear the pastor and cotton for those who say he speaks too loud.
6. Score cards for listing the hypocrites present.
7. A portable TV for those who do not want to miss their programs.
8. A travel trailer and a tent for those who like the weekends for camping.
9. "Stamp Out Stewardship" buttons to be worn during the offering.
10. Some relatives for those who go visiting on Sunday.
11. A good selection of trees for those who enjoy the back country.
12. 100 TV dinners for those who can't go to church and cook too.
13. Watches that run slow for those who think the services are too long, and watches for those who think they are too short.
14. A putting green for those who say Sunday is their only time to play golf.
15. A folk service for those who say the church is old hat and a traditional service for those who don't like all that modern stuff.
16. Babysitting for those who want their kids out of their hair on Sunday, and enlarged pews for those who insist that they will only come if it is a family affair.
17. Three clocks showing respectively: 9:00, 10:00 and 11:00 for those who say church is held at the wrong time.
18. Three pastors so you can pick the one you like.
19. Over-sized offering envelopes for those who give but once a year.
20. "What A Good Boy I Am" buttons for those who think they are doing God a favor by coming.

Minnesota Pupil Spending

Following editorial is from the Anoka Union:

Per pupil spending in Minnesota was the highest of the 35 states surveyed by the United States Census Bureau in the year 1972.

Minnesota spent $1,219 per pupil in 1972 while the median spending of the states surveyed was $950. The state of Alabama was at the bottom of the list at $580 per pupil.

The study showed that across the nation, school districts have been increasing their revenues by an average of 12 per cent annually; virtually all that raise has been offset by higher salaries for teachers and other school employees.

The census points out that between 1967 and 1972, school district revenues rose in the states surveyed, from $22.8 billion to $39.3 billion or a jump of 73 per cent in five years. However, salaries and wages kept pace with this rise in revenue increasing 75 per cent in the same five year period.

Just for example, here are the average per-pupil spending in the midwest states as taken from the census bureau survey: Illinois, $1,053; Indiana, $950; Iowa, $1,138; Michigan, $1,081; Minnesota, $1,219; Missouri, $955; North Dakota, $857; South Dakota, $863.

Not Playing Fair

Following editorial by Bill Macklin appeared in the New Ulm Daily Journal:

Regents of the University of Minnesota no doubt hope the new president, Dr. Peter McGrath, will have a long tenure. That would save the current regents the job of ever having to hire another. The selection is fraught with problems.

In 1967 when they had a vacancy, the regents went through the application process, culling down finalists, then got some surprises. One finalist took a job at another university. Another said he didn't want the Minnesota job after all. The regents pulled Malcolm Moos out of the blue and he said at the press conference announcing his surprising selection: "I feel like Avis because I was second choice."

Dr. Moos is taking his distinctive grey locks to California for a new and probably less controversial job through maintaining his Minnesota ties with his summer home on Ten-Mile Lake near Hackensack.

In replacing him, the regents did their home work on the applicants but forgot the public work. In defiance of the state open meeting law requiring school boards to take their votes in public, the regents called a press conference Monday and announced their pick.

Last Friday, when the regents had announced meeting, they kept the news media out in the hall three hours, then adjourned. Over the weekend, probably by telephone calls, they apprentely voted on McGrath.

They made another surprising decision: They are paying a younger man; 41, more to start by $9,000 than Moos 57, who had been in the job seven years. Moos got $51,000.

The regents employment system was quite different than the one used by the State College board recently in picking the new president of Mankato State College. It invited the finalists to the campus, exposed them to the faculty, students, news media and community.

The candidates were interviewed thoroughly in this familiarization period. When the board made its pick, the community felt it had been a part of the important decision.

When McGrath comes to Minnesota next fall, people for a time will think he was slipped in. It isn't fair to him. It also was unfair for the regents to snub state law by ignoring the open meeting law.

To Each A Servant?

Following is from the NEA service:

By the year 2000, there may be as many public servants as there will be servees, says the U.S. Chamber of Commerce. That is, if you are willing to accept "public servant" as another term for public employee.

In 1900, the government employed fewer than one million persons. This figured out to about one person for every 26 employed in the private sector.

By 1972, the situation had changed drastically. On the average, there were only 5.1 people employed privately for every civilian government employee.

If the trend continues, says the chamber, by the end of this century, for every worker in the private sector there will be one "public servant."

It won't continue, though, will it?

Guarding Freedoms?

Comment on two recent actions initiated by the Minnesota civil liberties union is contained in this editorial from the Lakefield Standard:

We like to see our freedoms zealously guarded but the Minnesota Civil Liberties Union (MCLU) was getting a little facetious with its protest at Fort Snelling last Sunday.

If we read the article correctly, the MCLU felt that using the Fort Snelling chapel for religious services was a possible combination of church and state, a condition which is forbidden in the Constitution of the United States.

While it is perhaps correct that other than religious groups should be permitted equal use of the chapel, we can see no reason for denying its use for religious purposes.

We don't know how the courts determine their rulings in matters like these, but it has always seemed sensible to us to go back to the time the consititution was written and reflect on the purpose of the church and state principle before deciding an issue like this.

The God-fearing men who framed the constitution sought to guard against state-directed religions, situations in which governments required people to worship in a certain way.

It was this very direction, after all, which prompted the first Americans to set sail for the "New World".

There would seem to be an obvious distinction between allowing religious groups to use a government building for worship and telling people how they must worship.

And since this follows on the heels of a previous CLU protest against the distribution of Gideon Bibles in public schools, it would seem that the CLU isn't so much concerned with constitutionality as with descrediting religion.

Someone pointed out in a "letter to the editor" in this publication that no one is required to attend x-rated movies and thus those opposed to this type of entertainment shouldn't try to dictate what others should see.

The same should then be true of religious books in school libraries.

As long as no one forces people to read the Bible, what can be the objection to having a copy available along with general literary works on library shelves?

Borrowed Nonsense

Dad: What do you get when you cross a rooster with an elephant?
Son: I don't know.
Dad: I don't know, either, but when it wakes you, you better get up!

My neighbor says: "I can't win. I came home from work, handed my wife a dozen roses, gave her a big hug and kiss. She started crying and wailed, "Today the washer and dryer broke down, the dog got sick in the family room and now, you come home drunk."

notes from the governor

Our State Board of Education recently adopted a position paper that has great implications for the young people of Minnesta. This policy statement holds school districts responsible not only for educating our youth but also for giving them employability skills or career training.

At a time when many citizens, young and old, have criticized our educational system for not adequately teaching even the basics of reading and writing, I see the new career training policy as an opportunity for our educational system to make changes that will better prepare citizens to lead lives that are individually satisfying.

The state board has asked school districts to help students investigate a number of career choices during their high school years, regardless of whether those choices are considered professional occupations or technically-skilled ones.

Also, school districts are being asked to provide alternative education possibilities through out-of-school skill building experiences.

Because schools are also responsible, under the position paper, to study labor markets on local, state, and national levels, I see a bright future for students who have been guided away from over-populated occupational fields and steered towards related fields that remain wide open for employment opportunities.

While the board's position does not guarantee that students will remain in Minnesota after high school, I believe the new policy will acquaint more of them with career opportunities available within our state. Too often, many of the careers we have right here in Minnesota are unknown to our students when they begin planning future careers. With guidance from our schools, many of our youth can remain within the state and still enjoy not only a satisfying career but also an economically viable one.

I see no reason why Minnesotans should not look at this employability position as a challenge. What student does not need teaching and guidance from parents and educators when dealing with career choices?

Whether students plan to work following high school or to continue their education at a vocational-technical institute, college or university, they must have the opportunity to explore and gain skills in career areas that are interesting to them. Through employability education, I think we have the tool that will bring relevant learning into our schools.

BSC Now Offers BA Degree For Law Enforcement

Law enforcement students may now obtain a bachelors degree from Bemidji state college, as final approval was recently granted to the college for a major program in "Criminal Justice".

Dr. David Nordlie, chairman of the department of sociology at BSC, notes that Minnesota Higher Education Coordinating commission approval of the program now makes it possible to offer the major beginning in fall quarter of this year and that some courses applying to the major will be taught during the two summer sessions.

"Our program will emphasize preparation for a variety of jobs at the entry level of criminal justice fields," Dr. Nordlie explains. "It is a full 80 credit sequence and graduates would be prepared to enter such professions as city police, sheriff's offices, border patrol, the Bureau of Criminal Apprehension, industrial security agencies, highway patrol, public safety and federal enforcement agencies, conservation agencies, and the military."

Some of these agencies would require further training, but the coursework at BSC will provide background for such training programs.

"We particularly want to serve people already in law enforcement and justice professions," Nordlie states. "We have law enforcement education programs (LEEP) funds available for tuition and fees of officers already in the field and strongly encourage these officers to consider our program."

The new program at BSC springs from a two year minor program that has been offered for several years. New faculty will be hired, however, and the program will be considerably more sophisticated than the two year sequence. Internships will be requirement, with students actually working in justice agencies cooperating with the college. In addition, clinics and workshops for in-service officers are seen as extension of the on-campus program.

"We developed this program in cooperation with agencies that requested certain types of training and we feel that many of the courses will be invaluable to people who are already in the field," Nordlie says. "We also feel that internships in working agencies are a must for our students and that is why we made them a requirement."

Personnel being added to the faculty are experienced law enforcement people and a number of faculty already on the staff have taught courses related to the major as well.

Employment potential for criminal justice graduates appears to be excellent and BSC spokesmen indicate that many agencies are now actively seeking personnel with professional-level training. In addition, some agencies are encouraging in-service officers to return to school to obtain further education in related areas like psychology, sociology, and human relations sequences.

"Our two year program has given us considerable background and we anticipate that our four year 'Criminal Justice' major will attract a good mix of professional officers seeking further education and new students who want to get into the field," Dr. Nordlie concludes.

Students who wish further information about the Criminal Justice program at BSC should contact Dr. Nordlie at Hagg-Sauer Hall, BSC, Bemidji, Minnesota 56601.

They were Evelyn Lefrooth, Eunice Lofstrom and Lenny, and Donald Larson. Who do you suppose dropped in?—The Arizone Kid from Arizona. He joined the men at the card table. The women found plenty to do. They now have enough squares cut and sewed for two quilts. The fridge ornaments are still going strong, and many sofa pillows are also on display. As Irene Larson was on her way to the Center, she met Marvin Boen along the way. He stopped and handed Irene $1.25 and said maybe this would be one way of getting his name in our column—Same old Marvin Boen. The Center says thanks. Soo Line Grain Cars Now Used In Potash Service

Grain loading at country elevators has slowed to a point where Soo Line is experiencing its first surplus in many months of freight cars normally used in this service.

"It is the first let-up we have had in demand for freight cars for country loadings since 1972," Soo president Leonard H. Murray said recently. "Grain loadings in April decreased with a resulting surplus of both covered hopper cars and boxcars used in grain service.

"As a result, many of these cars are being used to move other commodities with the bulk of them going into potash service. Our potash traffic has grown steadily over the past 10 years and these cars are seeing extensive service moving this commodity which is in extremely high demand.

"We are currently filling all needs for cars for grain loading. This situation will change when the 1974 crop is ready for harvest."

Car demand for the past two years has been consistently high as a result of heavy movements of grain for export and comestic use. Grain loaded at country points produced record traffic levels in both 1972 and 1973, but began to slow late in March. The market price for grain, which has dropped below levels earlier this year, is a major factor causing the slowdown in grain traffic.

Soo participates in the movement of potash primarily as an intermediate carrier moving the commodity from Canadian connections through Chicago to points in the lower great lakes states. Potash is used extensively as a commercial fertilizer.

Murray indicated the cars in potash service would gradually be shifted back to grain service as orders increase.

Representatives For SS To Carry Identification

People getting supplemental security income payments should ask to see identification when visited by social security representatives.

According to William Phalen, manager of the Grand Forks, N.D., social security district, the law requires that eligibility for supplemental security income and the amount of monthly payments be redetermined from time to time.

Social security administration gets in touch with people to get information about income, living arrangements, and other factors that might affect their supplemental security income payments. This may be done by mail or by personal interview in the home or social security office.

Phalen said social security representatives are glad to identify themselves—and they never ask for money to have something done. Their job is to help people get supplemental security income payments in the right amount.

People who are not sure of the identity of callers who say they are from social security may telephone the Grand Forks office at 772-5517 for verification.

Strandquist . . .

Gerry Stennes, Strandquist reporter

On Thursday, May 16, the Senior Citizens again met at the center. Some were housecleaning and wanted to keep on, as the bright and shiny day was just right for hanging early washings. Twenty-six registered, and we also had some visitors. It was nice to see Julia Kittelson of Seattle. Hilda Hanson was a new visitor, and we enjoyed visiting with Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Carlson, Mark, Todd, Dawn, and Wade of Angus. Other visitors were Swan Lindstrom and Evelyn Lefrooth. Yes, we found work. Cuttings for a new quilt was started, and more parrots and book markers were made also. The signs of nicer weather must be near, as Swan Lindstrom won the door prize, a flowering plant. He can now start his spring planting. Jerry Carlson gave $2 to the center. Thanks to the Carlson family. Thanks to Ed Carlson, Julia Kittelson, and Hilda Hanson for their $1 donations. Come and see us again. Anna Holmstrom was hostess.

Some of the ladies of St. Edward's parish visited the nursing home in Hallock on Wednesday to entertain the patients. They were Sister Joanne, Mrs. Eugene Kleinwachter, Mrs. Peter Kasprowicz, Mrs. Winfred Jacobson, Mrs. Sylvester Kasprowicz, Mrs. John Downhour, and Mrs. Clarence Olson.

The American Legion Auxiliary met at the Ella Thun home on Thursday, May 16, with ten members and one visitor present. Mrs. Don Carlson plans to join in the fall. Welcome, Vangie. The Secretary and treasurer's report was read and approved. A motion was made by Mildred Nelson and seconded by Toni Kleinwachter to buy one book a year for the school library. A motion was made by Irene Nelson and seconded by Mildred Nelson to send $10 to the Warren Day Care Center. A motion was made by Fern Kranz and seconded by Eunce Lofstrom to send $5 to the Fargo VA hospital for patio furniture. The poppy poster prizes are to be given to Brenda Nelson, Renee Holmstrom, Darwin Larson, and Gregory Hahn. They will receive the prizes on Award Day in school. A special thank you to Irene Larson for the box of nice cards donated to our linen basket, which will be given away on Memorial day. The basket is on display at the various business places in town. Thank you, Ella, for the very nice lunch. Our next meeting will be held on June 13. Secretary, Jean Lindstrom.

Going To Movie In Africa Requires Extra Effort

by Roger Ose

We got to the Maloto River shortly after 9 o'clock in the morning as scheduled. I turned off the motor of our 1956 Willys Jeep station wagon, put it in low gear, pulled the hand brake, and turned the wheels a bit to the right. We were parked on a steep river bank, and I didn't want to pull the Jeep out of the water.

The men from Fenoambany who were supposed to meet us weren't there. We got out, looked over the bridge that had been washed away in the floods one spring, and checked to see the depth of the river. A man was wading across, and we could see that the water came up to his neck.

Erv Toso was an unhappy American just then. He didn't like the idea of taking the new Honda 2,500 watt generator, heavy movie projector, and speaker, the four miles on foot to Fenoambany. When the eight carriers never showed, he was all for turning back to town. That would also save him a four mile walk in ninety-five degree heat.

Near 10 a.m. we saw six men come wading across the river. They had walked from Fenoambany, and wanted very much to have a movie in town that night. Erv Toso was still not happy about the whole thing. It would take four men just to carry the 180 pound Honda generator on two long poles. We needed two more men to carry the 70 pound projector and transformer, and two more men to carry the speaker and our baggage. But only six men showed up.

Then the Number Two chief from Fenoambany ran to a nearby village and got two more carriers. For an hour the men tied ropes around the baggage, and then lifted the loads to see if they balanced. They untied the ropes abain, adjusted the load, and tied them up again. I could see this was not the first time they had tied baggage for carrying on shoulder poles. These men were professionals, and spent quite a bit of time carrying rice, coffee, and bananas to market on the national highway that ran by their town. We missionaries call that route "Interstate 94". It's open to Land Rovers maybe four months of the year during the dry season.

They started out at 11 a.m., and got to the river's edge. They set down the equipment, took off all their clothes, carried them to the other side of the river, and then returned to carry the Honda and projector. Erv and I took off our clothes, waded out into the river, and did our best to brace against the heavy current.

The projector and speaker came across O.K. But when the men lifted the Honda above their heads, they started to slip on the muddy bank. Neither Erv nor I could bare it, so we went behind some trees, dried off, and put on our clothes. A few minutes later, here came four men with the generator—high and dry. We were much relieved.

School Board To Hear Reports At Meeting Tonight

Reports from the health curriculum review committee, cosmetology department and audio communications department and negotiations with administrators will be on the agenda for the regular meeting of the Thief River Falls board of education tonight at the school district service center.

Regular board business will begin at 7:30 p.m., followed at about 8:20 p.m. by the health curriculum review committee report by Larry McDowell, chairman of the committee and member-elect of the school board. Cosmetology and audio communications department reports by Mrs. Lovanell Kraemer and Howard Rokke will follow with administrative negotiations scheduled to begin at 9 p.m.

Action will be taken on several resignations, transfers in teaching stations, PERA temporary lay-offs and several bids and quotations. Also scheduled for board approval are several elements of the contract negotiated with the principals' and directors' association.

Non-Financial Matters Heard In Negotiation

Progress on non-financial matters was made Thursday evening in the negotiating session held between the Thief River Falls board of education and the negotiating team representing the district's teachers. No report was yet available from the administration as to cost of the base salary request presented by the teacher's group at the last session.

Mrs. Clarice Gallher, chairman of the negotiating team, produced for the board a document granting the negotiating team authority to make binding agreements on behalf of the district's teachers. With this authority determined, the negotiating team and the board of education will approve parts of the contract agreement as they are developed through negotiations. Wallace Sparby served as chief negotiator for the board in the absence of Curtis Charlson.

Several items were negotiated at the session. Approval was given by the negotiating team to payment of summer school instructors based on the current year's salary rate with adjustments to be made later on the basis of whatever contract is adopted for the coming year.

Meet and confer producedure was adopted as was the dues deduction procedure and fair share assessment. The latter are legal requirements for the school district to deduct teacher organization dues from salary checks and to assess nonmembers of the Minnesota Education association (bargaining agent for S.D. 564) a "fair share" amount for representation in salary negotiations. The "fair share" portion of the law becomes effective Jan. 1, 1975.

Bulletin board area was designated for posting of MEA material and agreement was reached on furnishing of district financial information regarding budget items, also as prescribed by law. It was also agreed that next year the negotiations would be initiated 60 to 90 days prior to June 30.

Next negotiating session between the board and teachers has been set for this Thursday at the school district service center.

Wayne Bjornrud, business agent, noted that the city auditorium is being used to accommodate the larger than normal crowd expected for the meeting. Reading of convention call and nomination of delegates will be accomplished for the regional convention to be held at Wausau, Wis., in August.

Miss Aquacade Pageant To Be Reveiwed Thur.

To acquaint potential candidates with the Miss Thief River Falls pageant held in connection with the annual Jaycee Aquacade, an informal Pepsi party will be held Thursday at 7:30 p.m. at the Northern state bank meeting room.

Mrs. Marvin (Bonnie) Carlson, who is in charge of entries for the pageant through the Mrs. Jaycees chapter, said that all Thief River Falls area girls who will be 18 to 28 years of age at the time of the Miss Minnesota pageant next June and are single are invited to attend. There is no obligation to enter the competition.

Mrs. Carlson will review the contract and obligations for Miss Thief River Falls and Mrs. Jon (Kate) Campbell will explain the scholarship program of the Miss America pagenat and benefits to the Miss Thief River Falls title winner.

Laurie Ford, who will compete as Miss Thief River Falls in the Miss Minnesota pageant in Austin in two weeks, will be present to talk about her experiences during the past year and to answer questions from the potential candidates.

Of interest to all girls attending will be a make-up demonstration.

Girls who would like further information prior to the party may call Mrs. Carlson at 681-1147, ext. 441 or 681-6695.

BOTH GRADUATES of higher education during the past year are Mrs. Viola Dirks of Thief River Falls and her son Martin. Mrs. Dirks earned her high school equivalency certificate and Martin received his diploma with the Lincoln high school Class of 1974 Friday night.

Viola Dirks And Martin Graduate

"Many times I cried when I could not go to school. There was too much work to be done at home where I worked in the fields with horse-drawn equipment. I did finish grade school and one year of high school at Goodridge. That was in 1938."

Mrs. Viola Dirks, who now lives in Thief River Falls after spending most of her life in the Grygla area, was talking about the opportunity which young people now have to obtain an education. She received her high school equivalency certificate in 1973 and her son Martin received his high school diploma at graduation exercises for Lincoln high school on Friday.

"The best law that was ever passed was the one that says parents can not keep children home from school," she said. "My life's desire was to be a teacher, but without the chance to receive an education I could never teach.

"Youngsters these days complain about having to go to school. They don't realize how lucky they are to have the chances they have," she said.

Martin plans to attend Bemidji state college this fall and to study in the fields of mathematics and science. He has received grants and scholarships totaling $1,900 for his freshman year with most of the funds renewable for future years at school.

And Mrs. Dirks has continued in the quest to satiate her thirst for education whenever she can. This summer she is enrolled in oil painting and bird study classes at Northland community college. In addition to the high school equivalency course which she completed in 1973, she has taken evening classes through the area

Arctic Announces Fourth Quarter Operating Loss

MAKING PLANS for the information session to be held for potential Miss Thief River Falls candidates Thursday evening are Laurie Ford, Miss Thief River Falls of 1973, and Mrs. Bonnie Carlson, entries chairman for the 1974 Miss Thief River Falls pageant. All Thief River Falls area girls who are single and will be between the ages of 18 and 28 at the time of the Miss Minnesota pageant next spring are invited to attend the information session at 7:30 p.m. in the meeting room of Northern state bank.

Arctic Enterprises, Inc. snowmobile and boat manufacturer based here, today reported a loss on continuing operations for the four quarter ended March 31, 1974.

For the three month period, Arctic incurred a loss from continuing operations of $1,772,000 or 59 cents per share, on sales of $7,619,000. In the fourth quarter a year ago, continuing snowmobile and boat operations incurred a loss of $1,142,000 or 38 cents per share, on sales of $8,890,000.

At March 31, 1974, Arctic reduced the reserves recorded for discontinuation of lawn mower operations at its General Leisure division by $457,000, net of taxes. For the fourth quarter, the consolidated net loss, including the reduction of reserves for discontinued operations, was $1,315,000, or 44 cents per share, as compared to a consolidated net loss of $1,793,000 or 59 cents per share for the fourth quarter last year.

For the full fiscal year, Arctic's loss from continuing operatons was $3,225,000, or $1.06 per share, on sales of $84,371,000. For the previous year, continuing operations produced net income of $3,753,000 or $1.23 per share, on sales of $107,185,000.

As a result of the previously reported loss from discontinued lawn mower operatons, Arctic's consolidated net loss for the year ended March 31, 1974, was $8,248,000 or $2.71 per share, versus net income of $2,138,000 or 70 cents per share, for fiscal 1973.

Per share computations are based on 3,050,000 average outstanding shares in 1974 and 3,045,000 in 1973.

Arctic president, John C. Penn, cited the write-off of tooling and parts relted to a new snowmobile component and the write-down of inventories involved in the consolidation of two Arctic-owned distributorships, as principal reasons for the larger fourth quarter loss on continuing operations.

"We spent almost two years engineering a major component of our snowmobile," Penn said. "However, continued field testing this winter proved the component didn't meet our standards. While we will continue to redevelop this component, we decided to write-off tooling costs already incurred, together with parts for the component which had already been manufactured for our 1975 snowmobile line."

Penn said that production of 1975 model snowmobiles is expected to commence in late June. He added that negotiations are under way with the labor union at Arctic's principal facilities.

"Our present labor contract expires June 15, 1974," Penn said. "We have experienced favorable labor relations in the past and we are hopeful that these relations can be continued."

Penn predicted that the "shake-out" of manufacturers in the snowmobile industry could be completed by the end of the 1975 model season, given good snowfalls and no recurrence of the "fuel scare" which beset the industry last November at the start of the prime retail sales period.

Review Nursing Home Proposals

Presentation of a possible alternative to a new free-standing Oakland Park nursing home to serve intermediate care patients was presented Thursday evening at a meeting held in the county court hearing room in Thief River Falls. Oakland Park board has made application to the Agassiz Health Planning council for a certificate of need.

The alternative presented Thursday evening was presented by Northwestern hospital services and would include a third floor addition to the convalescent and nursing care (CNC) unit and remodeling of the St. Luke's third floor portion of the hospital to provide 72 intermediate care beds.

Initial cost presentations projected construction costs of $1,080,000 for the new facility at Oakland Park and $630,000 for the addition and remodeling at Northwestern hospital services. Projected operating costs were placed at $18.71 per patient day for the new Oakland Park facility and $14.56 for the hospital.

The figures were stated in a comparison prepared by the hospital administration, based on a financial feasibility study by the Robert G. Engelhart company for Oakland Park in April and by an architectural firm for Northwestern hospital in February of this year.

The meeting was called by Otto Stenberg, chairman of the Pennington county board of commissioners, at the request of Dr. Earl Dagg, chairman of the hospital board of trustees. Attending were the hospital board and administrator Norman Peterson, the county board of commissioners, Nilo Rantanen of the Oakland Park and Marshall county boards, administrator Sherryll Irvine of Oakland Park, director Gary Erickson of the county welfare board, county attorney Neil McEwen, county auditor C. W. Rodekuhr and Bill Sandness of the Agassiz Health Planning council.

The Agassiz council has scheduled a hearing on the Oakland Park application for a certificate of need in September. Representatives of the Pennington county board and hospital board, together with the administrators of Oakland Park and Northwestern hospital, will meet in several weeks for further discussion on the subject.

Object of the discussion will be to determine a final proposal to present to the Agassiz council in September. Emphasis was made at the meeting Thursday evening that only one proposal would be presented for the health planning council's consideration.

Summer Theatre At Northland In Need Of Actors

Children, students and adults of the Thief River Falls area are urged to include the Northland summer theatre in their plans for the 1974 summer season, according to Michael Tillmann, director.

Interested people of all ages will be needed for acting, costuming, set building, painting, property gathering, ticket sales, publicity and other roles when the Northland company presents its second season of July productions.

Northland summer theatre opened last summer under the direction of Tillmann, director of speech and drama at Marshall senior high school and formerly drama director at Lincoln high school in Thief River Falls. During his two years at Lincoln, Tillmann directed "Romeo and Juliet", "Caesar and Cleopatra", "The Heiress", "The Thurber Carnival", and two region winning one-act plays, "Impromptu" and "Three Actors and Their Drama".

Last summer at Northland he directed "You're A Good Man, Charlie Brown", "Barefoot in the Park", and "The Glass Menagerie". Tillmann's most recent directing venture was the Marshall production of "Hello, Dolly"!

Tryouts for the two summer plays will be held June 18, 19 and 20 at 7 p.m. First production will be a dramatization of the Louisa May Alcott novel "Little Women", to be presented on July 12 and 13. The play will require both male and female performers of various ages. "It was chosen to open the 1974 season because, 'Little Women' has something for everyone," Tillman said. "It is a tender story without which no child's literary or sentimental education is complete, yet it is equally compelling for young people and adults."

The second production will be the dramatic new play by Paul Zindel entitled "The Effect of Gamma Rays on Man-In-The-Moon Marigolds". It has been hailed by critics as "the 'Glass Menagerie' of our time" and "the greatest drama to come to the stage in the past decade." The play dates will be July 29-30.

Interested citizens are encouraged to contact Willard Kottke, dean of instruction, Northland community college (681-2181).

KITCHEN KARNIVAL

by Ellen M. Spray

Featuring recipes from the Kitchen of

Mrs. John Kjellberg
Rural Thief River Falls

Friday night as I heard the familiar strains of "Pomp and Circumstance" and saw the young men and women as they went to get their diplomas, it was interesting to note the mixed expressions of those in the crowd. There was pride, as it should be, on the faces of the graduates, parents and teachers. But there were also signs of tears as graduation marks an end of an era. For the graduates it means leaving classmates and teachers, some whom they may never meet again. for the parents, graduation is an end of their child's carefree youth characterized by peals of laughter, endless telephone conversations, and the wild scampering around as their sons and daughters prepared for some "important" school activity. For the teachers it was a time of evaluation, wondering if they had done their very best. They know, just like parents know, that if a child fails, they are blamed. How untrue.

Everyone that has come in contact with that child has been that child's teacher. Although most of them have had no certificate to teach, they have left a mark on that child's life. The worst offender is the one who belittles the men and women in the teaching profession by smuggly saying, "Those who can, do; those who can't, teach," implying that if a person is too stupid to do anything else, he becomes a teacher. (Pity the school teacher who must teach that man's child.)

It is true that there are men and women in the teaching profession who should not be there, just as it is also true that we have ministers who should never be in a pulpit, doctors who should never see patients, women who should never be mothers, men who should never be fathers, and public officials who should never be elected to office. Nevertheless, they too are the child's teachers.

Consider the child who has been taught fear. From the time that he was old enough to comprehend, he has heard his mother say, "If you aren't good I'm going to send you to school," implying that school was a place of punishment. That child is carefully instructed by his parents and Sunday school teachers that telling an untruth is a No-no. Then he is sent to the door to tell the unexpected company that the parents aren't at home. As he learns to ride his bike, he is drilled in the rules of handling a bike. Yet Daddy and Mommy don't always stop at a stop sign (if there are no cars around), nor do they always stay within the limit when fishing. When he attends a party with his parents, he sees children his own age drinking. To confuse the child still further, he knows of instances where boys and girls, much older, have been picked up for doing the same thing at a teenage party. He goes to church and hears the minister preach against committing adultery, and later hears a news report of a minister and a female parishoner found dead of carbon monoxide poisoning in a remote cabin. His coach in school teaches "No-drinking," yet the breweries are allowed to advertise their intoxicating beverages at sports events. From the time the child is old enough to be taught, he is faced with contradictions.

So please, don't judge the school teachers, too harshly. The majority of them are worthy of their hire, and considering all the obstacles that they must hurdle, they are to be congratulated for a work well done.

Thanks Mrs. John Kjellberg for providing today's recipe. ....

Raisin Bars

2 cups water
1 cup raisins
½ cup shortening
2 cups flour
1 teaspoon soda
1 cup sugar
½ teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon cloves
1 teaspoon nutmeg
1 teaspoon cinnamon

Method. Boil raisins in the water for 10 minutes, reducing the heat when the boiling begins. After 10 minutes of simmering, remove from heat and add the shortening. Let cool at least another 10 minutes. Then add the dry ingredients that have been sifted together. Mix well and pour into a greased 9x13 inch pan. Bake for 30 minutes in a 375 degree oven. While hot frost with a powdered sugar frosting made by using 1½ cups powdered sugar, 3 tablespoons butter and enough milk for spreading consistency.

Mrs. Kjellberg stated that this recipe contains no eggs. Nuts may be added if desired.

The Kjellbergs live on a farm west of Thief River Falls together with their two children: Scott, 11, who attended Franklin Middle school; and Stacy Jo, 9, who attended Mark Twain. In addition to farming, Kjellberg is also engaged in grain trucking.

The family attends the Evangelical Free church and Mrs. Kjellberg is active in its Woman's Missionary society program. Although she likes gardening, Mrs. Kjellberg stated that she had no special hobby.

MHS Issues Five New Booklets On Historic Sites

Five new booklets that interpret some of Minnesota's historic places will be published by the Minnesota Historical Society this spring, it was announced recently.

Two of the publications focus on army life at Fort Snelling in the 1800'; other subjects are the Jeffers Petroglyphs in Brown county, the state capitol, and the routes and traces of Minnesota's earliest roads.

Already available is "Jeffers Petroglyphs Walking Tour: A Journey Through Time" written by Gordon A. Lothson and Nancy Eubank. Designed to help visitors at the stie understand the intriguing rock art, the 26-page booklet is divided into eighteen "stations," each discussing a different aspect of the more than 2000 carved symbols which may date as far back as 3000 B.C. Detailed photographs and maps illustrate the text. The price is $1.00.

A booklet prepared initially for use by the Fort Snelling Fife and Drum Corps, which performs regularly at the reconstructed fort, is "Old Fort Snelling Instruction Book for Fife with Music of Early America". Col. Donald E. Mattson, organizer and instructor of the corps, has produced with Louis D. Waltz a brief history of the fife, its characteristics, and use by the military through the ages. A section on music at Old Fort Snelling sets the scene for 14 easy fife lessons and music for many old tunes. The tunes, some of which date back to the Revolutionary War, were carefully chosen with instructions for playing. The illustrated booklet of 100 pages is priced at $4.50. Publication date is May 15.

Another facet of army life at Fort Snelling is described in the first number in a new series entitled "Historic Fort Snelling Chronicles"—this one on "Army Uniforms at Fort Snelling, 1821-1832." Written by fort historian John Grossman, the leaflet is beautifully illustrated with colored drawings and photographs. Its price is fifty cents; publication date is May 1.

In a readable 100-page booklet, Neil B. Thompson, chairman of the American Studies department at St. Cloud State College, tells for the first time in lively details the story of the building of the state capitol. In annotated text dozens of photographs and sketches, "Minnesota's State Capitol: The Art and Politics of a Public Building" describes how the impressive statehouse was constructed from the plans of architect Cass Gilbert over a period of fourteen years at a cost of four million dollars. Price is $4.50; publication date is May 31.

For the past fifteen years, Grover Singley, now 88 years of age, pursued an unusual hobby that has resulted in a booklet entitled "Tracing Minnesota's Old Government Roads". Mr. Singley persistently researched and recorded on maps the routes of some five hundred miles of military roads built by the federal government in Minnesota Territory in the mid-nineteenth century. The 52-page booklet offers not only leisure reading, it provides a guide for those ambitious enough to seek out these remnants of a time long past. The roads described are those between Mendota and Wabasha, Point Douglas and Lake Superior, Point Douglas and Fort (now Camp) Ripley, Swan River and Long Prairie, and Mendota and the Big Sioux River via Mankato. Detailed maps accompany each chapter. The price is $3.95; publication date is June 12.

Each of the five publications may be ordered from the Minnesota Historical Society, Order Department, 1500 Mississippi Street, St. Paul 55101. Minnesota residents should add 4 per cent sales tax and 35 cents postage and handling to each order.

Farm Workers Covered Under Minimum Wage

New fair labor standards act (FLSA) amendments, effective May 1, brought to 538,000 the total number of farm workers covered by the minimum wage, secretary of labor Peter J. Brennan said.

Approximately 88,000 farm workers previously getting $1.30 an hour or less had their pay raised to $1.60 an hour on May 1.

Future increases will be: $1.80 effective Jan. 1, 1975; $2, Jan. 1, 1976; $2.20, Jan. 1, 1977; and $2.30 Jan. 1, 1978.

The new wage rate applies to farm laborers working for employers who used more than 500 man-days of farm labor in any calendar quarter of the preceding year. "Man-day" means any day during which an employee performs agricultural labor for at least an hour.

The new amendments include in the 500 man-day count commuting hand harvest workers paid on a piece rate basis, who were formerly excluded from the count. However these workers continue to be exempted from minimum wage requirements.

Exempt from minimum wage coverage are:

Members of the employer's immediate family;

Hand harvesters who are paid on a piece-rate basis, (1) if they commute daily from their homes to their place of employment and (2) if they have been employed in agriculture less than 13 weeks during the previous calendar year;

Migrant hand harvesters 16 years of age or under, who are employed on the same farm as their parents, (1) if they are paid on a piece-rate basis and (2) if the piece-rate is the same paid to workers over 16 years of age on the same farm;

Employees principally engaged in range production of livestock. Farm workers are not subject to the overtime pay requirements of the act.

Certain full-time students and handicapped workers may be employed at rates less than the statutory minimum wage under specially issued certificates.

The child labor provisions of the act prohibit employment in agriculture of minors under 16 during school hours or in hazardous agricultural occupations. Limited parental exemptions are provided.

Minors under 14 may not be employed in agriculture at any time except for: (1) minors 12 and 13 who work outside of school hours on farms with written parental consent or on farms where their parents are employed; and (2) minors under 12 who work outside of school hours on farms owned and operated by their parents or with parental consent on small farms where all employees are exempt from the minimum wage.

The act authorizes the secretary of labor to issue regulations requiring employers to obtain proof of age from employees. A civil penalty of up to $1,000 may be imposed for each violation of the child labor provisions of the act. Provisions for enforcement through court injunctions and criminal penalties for willful violations continue to apply.

Consumer Price Index Rises By 0.6 Per Cent

Consumer price index rose 0.6 per cent in April to 144.0 (1967-100), the Bureau of Labor Statistics of the U.S. Department of Labor reported.

The rise was due to higher prices for many consumer goods and services, notably used cars, apparel commodities, energy items and restaurant meals.

The effect of these increases, however, was partially offset by lower prices for some grocery store foods, particularly meats. The April CPI was 10.2 per cent higher than a year ago.

On a seasonally adjusted basis, the CPI rose 0.6 per cent in April, about half as much as in each of the preceding three months. The food index—which includes food at home and away from home—declined 0.4 per cent, the first decrease since September of last year.

The index for nonfood commodities rose 1.1 per cent on a seasonally adjusted basis in April—the fourth consecutive month of rapid rise in this index. The services index increased 0.6 per cent, slightly less than the monthly increase in the first three months of this year.

The index for food purchased in grocery stores—usually unchanged in April—declined 0.7 per cent. Beef prices fell sharply following a smaller decrease in March. Pork, poultry and egg prices continued to drop and fresh vegetable prices also declined in April.

These declines more than offset price rises for most other foods, including processed fruits and vegetables, diary products, cereal and bakery products, and sugar and sugar-based products.

The index for food away from home—restaurant meals and snacks—increased 1.2 per cent in April, almost twice the monthly increases in the first quarter of this year.

The nonfood commodities index increased 1.3 per cent, considerably more than is usual for April. Over a fourth of the rise in this index resulted from sharply higher prices for used cars. The used car index had declined steadily from July of last year through March.

Prices of apparel commodities increased more than they usually do in April.

The index for gasoline and motor oil continued to rise but the monthly increase (1.7 per cent) was the smallest since these prices began advancing rapidly in October of last year. The index for fuel oil and coal rose in April after declining slightly in March. The new car index increased, instead of declining as it usually does in April.

Prices also rose for a variety of other nonfood commodities such as furniture, appliances, housekeeping supplies, toilet goods, newspapers and alcoholic beverages.

The services index rose 0.6 per cent in April. Residential rents increased 0.3 per cent. Prices of other household services advanced 0.8 per cent. Increases in charges for gas and electricity were somewhat smaller than earlier this year. Water and sewerage charges rose sharply. Charges for domestic and laundering services increased more than in recent months.

The index for medical care services rose 0.6 per cent in April, about half as much as in March because of less rapid increases in physicians' fees and most hospital services. Among transportation services, charges for auto repairs and auto insurance continued to increase but local transit fares declined.

Charges for other services such as drycleaning, barber and beauty shop and recreational services also continued to increase.

RR Abandonment Hearing Is Set At Little Falls

Rep. Stanley J. Fudro, Minneapolis, chairman of the general legislation and veteran affairs committee of the House, has announced a subcommittee hearing on railroad abandonment. Rep. John Sarna of Minneapolis will chair the meeting Wednesday at 10 a.m. in Room 1 of the Morrison county court house in Little Falls.

Railroad abandonment and railroad property abandonment is an item of concern to all the people of Minnesota for its effects not only transportation of raw materials but also consumer products.

Department of natural resources and the public service commission will also participate in testifying on the subject of abandonment and land use.

June 13, 1962, Capt. Richard H. Coan, USAF, piloted the H-43B Huskie helicopter to a new world distance record of 656 miles.

U.S. Chamber Of Commerce Voices Insurance Plan

This promises to be the year of the great debate in congress over national health insurance. Thanks to the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, the business community will have a "voice" in the debate. Its own concept of a health insurance plan, developed by the national chamber, has been introduced in the Congress.

In sponsoring the comprehensive plan, Sen. Paul J. Fannin R-Ariz.), a member of the senate finance committee, told his colleagues:

"As the nation's largest private purchaser of health care, business is legitimately concerned with how its dollars are spent. Last year alone business spent over $20 billion on health care.

"Because of this vast expenditure...business has a deep and abiding interest in the organization and delivery of health care in the United States."

The national chamber—thousands of whose members privde health benefits for employees—developed its plan after a study and analysis spanning several years, which include the advice of top business, industry and health profession leaders.

First of all, it requires employers to furnish health insurance subject to penalty. Secondly, it provides for a sharing of the costs, with neither employer or employee paying more than 50 per cent. Thirdly, it provides for insurance pools enabling the self-employed and small employers to share in the economies of mass purchasing of health care. Another pool, in each state, would provide coverage for low-income indivudals, with all or part of the cost paid by the federal government from general revenues.

If effective in fiscal 1975, it would increase costs about $2.7 billion divided equally by employer and employees. New outlays by the federal government would amount to $3.6 billion yearly.

It's no pie-in-the-sky scheme, such as one Senate proposal which would cost $60 billion a year more in federal taxes.

As he offered the Chamber measure, Sen. Fannin "welcomed" business into the debate and observed that most likely no single proposal would be enacted in its entirety and that the bill finally enacted would be an amalgamation of parts of the various proposals. Let the debate commence!

Farm Numbers Decline

The number of farms in the United States was 2.84 million in 1973, down about one percent from the previous year.

USDA estimates the same percentage decline for 1974, continuing a downward trend that started in 1936.

Private Workers In Households Under Wage Act

More than 1.5 million private household workers now come under the minimum wage provisions of the fair labor standards act (FLSA).

The new amendments bring more than 75 per cent of that workforce under the minimum wage provisions.

The minimum wage applies to domestic workers who receive at least $50 per calendar quarter from one employer or who work a total of more than eight hours a week for one or more employers.

To be eligible for overtime pay, an employee must work a 40-hour week for one household.

Exempt from the minimum wage are persons employed as casual babysitters or as home companions to the disabled or elderly.

The rate schedule is: $1.90 an hour, beginning May 1, 1974; $2 an hour, beginning Jan., 1975; $2.20 an hour, beginning Jan. 1, 1976; and $3.30 an hour, beginning Jan. 1, 1977.

The reasonable cost, or fair value of meals and transportation, and social security taxes paid by employers is allowable toward the minimum wage.

Employers are responsible for determining if their domestic employeees are covered under the act.

The law requires employers to inform their employees of the new provisons and to pay the required minimum wage mr overtime.

Additional information about the new provisions of the law can be obtained from offices of the Wage and Hour Division, U.S. Department of Labor.

House Invites Visitors To See House Chambers

House of Representatives has begun a new program to help people get to know their representatives and to encourage citizen interest in their state government.

Sunday visitors to the Capitol may now step into the House Chambers on the second floor, meet their representatives, and get a close look at this historic room where legislators debate the issues and make the laws for Minnesota.

Representatives and House staff members will take scheduled turns to host the chambers in the Capitol on Sunday afternoons from 1 until 4:30 p.m. throughout the summer.

Rep. Frank Knoll, Minneapolis District 61A, and Mrs. Knoll will be on hand June 2 to begin the program. They'll greet visitors, show them around the chambers and answer their questions.

Program plans include a mock legislative session for visitors to attend for one or more of the Sundays on the schedule.

For more information, call the House Information Office 296-2146.

Going To Movie In Africa Takes Extra Effort

Then we started wading toward Fenoambany. Two men carried the Honda for a few blocks, then shifted it to two other carriers. They shifted back and forth like that the whole trip, as that pole was like a knife in their shoulders, they said. Although they were professional carriers, this generator was a bit much. But, mind you, they didn't complain. They wanted a movie in town that night.

We must have made quite a scene as we walked along. Sometimes Malagasy women and children from nearby villages would stand and stare at us for half an hour. Herd boys near the road would look at us, wave to us, and then come up to ask questions. "What's in that box? What's a Honda? And what's a 16 mm picture that moves around? Huh? Tell us."

As we got near the big Manampanihy River outside Fenoambany, we were invited into a home to have dinner. It was late, after 2 p.m., but the mother prepared hot rice. She also fired some eggs in oil with fresh cut up onions. Even the carriers got rice and hot coffee with brown sugar. We were very hungry and ate our fill.

Then Erv and I walked down to the second river, a much wider and deeper one, to see what was happening. Two men had tied together a couple of old, leaky, dug-out canoes. That was to be our "ferry boat," we were told. Then they laid three boards crossways on top of their ferry boat. And on top of that they set the Honda.

Erv and I sat up on the bank some distance above the carriers. Although we didn't speak, I could see by the expression on his face what he was thinking: "If that new Honda gets dumped in the river, one young missionary named Ose will get ripped apart. After all, what a dum idea to schedule a movie out here in a bush village now during the season of heavy rains." Erv just sat there and ground his teeth, and watched the proceedings.

At first the two canoes (called a LAKANA) bobbed up and down a bit, and the chain that held them together threatened to break. But slowly the men paddled out into the middle of the river, and headed for the opposite shore. When they had traveled more than the length of a football field, the first canoe gently rubbed the opposite bank. Both Erv and I were much relieved as we saw the precious cargo sitting on dry land again. Then the crew of the ferry came back for Erv and me, and the rest of the equipment.

When we walked into Fenoambany a few minutes later, the No. 2 chief invited us in for a dinner of hot rice and steaming chicken. Twenty minutes later the No. 1 chief brought in an even bigger bowl of hot rice and chicken. Then they brought hot coffee with brown sugar, and several bananas. For supper at 6 p.m. it was a repeat performance, only we got twice as many bananas. Believe me, we weren't hungry that evening. And Erv was finally contented. He likes to eat.

We set up the equipment in the local school building, a concrete block structure long enough to get in two self-propelled cominbes. At 4 p.m. we turned on the sound and the reels started spinning. We had no screen along, so we projected onto the dirty yellow wall of the classroom.

Half a dozen children heard the ruckus and came running. Then Erv turned the sound on full blast, and opened up the windows. Soon we had forty spectators. About that time the film was getting to the good part where the Malagasy dancing girls put on a show. Erv cut the Honda, and the whole thing died. Shouts of "More, More," came, and we knew we had done our advertising well for the night's movie.

Curtin time was 7 p.m. Over 250 people paid the admission fee to get in. Local cadre kept all doors and windows closed to keep out non-paying guests. And the temperature rose to a hundred and ten.

Half an hour later I had to go out for a breath of fresh air. I opened up the two big doors by the projector so Erv could get some air, too. But that posed a new problem. A big group of non-paying guests wanted to crash the party. I checked with Erv, and he suggested we just let them all in, if they would shut up and sit on the floor. They did. Then doors and windows in many departments came open. That saved the day for me, as the humidity level was like a hog barn in winter. These people don't take a bath every day. No, not quite every day.

As the movie progressed, the people took a liking to the star of the show. She was a pretty college girl named Ranivo. Her mother was a Christian, but her dad was rather violently opposed to any form of Christianity in his house. He and some of his friends roughed up the mother a bit on several occasions. Finally government officials at many levels got into the act of killing Christians. This film is an historical documentary that took place around 1835, under the rule of the Christian hater, Queen Ranovalona.

In the movie a number of people went into the business of tracking Christians. When they found them, they'd haul them into court, condemn them, and throw them over a cliff. A local medicine man was a master at that business, and was directly responsible for tracking dozens of Christians. But later on he noticed how they died with a sense of peace and calm that he had never known.

Then the officials began burning Bibles. Toward the end of the film we saw one of the biggest Bible burnings of that day. Then just at the last the story jumps ahead to 1973 when Bibles have spread to more than half of the villages on the whole island of Madagascar. The irony of it is that the largest printing house in all Africa and Madagascar today is a Lutheran Press in Tananarive that prints Bibles and hymnals in many languages.

When the film was over we were invited to sleep in the home of the No. 2 chief. Erv slept on the only bed in the house, and I slept in my sleeping bag on the floor. Erv had a dozen boards for a mattress, and the pillow was stuffed with hard straw. Next morning Erv said it was nothing but "solid comfort."

About 4 a.m. a rat came running near my head. I woke up, just in time to see him head for Erv's bed. Erv woke up, but said nothing. The rat sat there for a while looking up at Erv. Later Erv commented, "Right nice little fellow, he was."

At 5 a.m. the women got up and made us breakfast. It was a repeat performance with hot rice, chicken, and two dozen fresh bananas this time. Both the No. 1 and No. 2 chiefs brought in big breakfasts for us, and Erv forgot his hard bed.

At 7 a.m. the carriers had the equipment out by Interstate 94. Now that the movie was over, they were reluctant to carry the equipment back to the Jeep. We haggled with the carriers a while, and then nearly all of them took off. Erv was less than delighted. It was getting hotter by the minute, and the tropical sun was going to be scorching hot before we got to the Maloto River.

But at 9 a.m., on signal from the No. 2 chief, the eight men returned, shouldered the equipment, and headed out. I ran on ahead, walked across the river, and drove into town to buy treats for the carriers. I got several bottles of orange pop (they would have preferred something stronger) and 50 French buns and cookies at a bakery. They downed the pop in three glups and the cookies and buns vanished in five minutes or less. Some said this was the first time they tasted buns or cookies like that. And as they marched back to Fenoambany they were the heroes of the day. Even Erv Toso had to admit it all went pretty much like clock work.

SEWAGE TREATMENT ponds for the city of Thief River Falls have been placed in operation with the first 125 acre primary pond filling at a rate of about a million gallons per day. It will take more than four months to fill the first pond where the sewage will be held about six months before local sanitation personnel release it into the secondary pond. When chemical tests indicate that the material in the secondary pond has reached a satisfactory state of purification, Minnesota's pollution control agency will issue a permit to discharge it into the Red Lake river through the ditch along County Road 62. This is expected to be accomplished in the spring and fall of each year. Pictured inspecting a control valve and primary pond are (left to right) Ernest Berry; Leland (Bud) Enge, sewage department supervisor; John Anderson, superintendant of utilities; and Clifford Anderson.

Proof Of Auto Insurance To Be Needed In 1975

Proof of auto insurance coverage will be required of all motor vehicle owners when they register for 1975.

According to Minnesota department of public safety commissioner W. R. Hoaglund, all vehicles must be covered under the new no fault insurance law for the 1975 registration year. Under the act, all motor vehicles, except motorcycles, must have no fault coverage.

Details of how the proof will be shown are not yet finalized, as the department is duscussing possible procedures with members of the insurance industry.

The owner will be required to certify that the vehicle is insured and will retain coverage throughout the period of registration. Also required will be the name of the insurance company and the policy number.

The act also requires that insurance companies notify the commissioner of public safety whenever a policy is cancelled.

Meningitis Is Very Serious Child Disease

Childhood meningitis strikes suddenly and may bring serious complications. It is one of the most serious diseases occurring in childhood today, according to members at the isolation center for the control of infectious disease at the St. Paul Children's hospital.

Meningitis does not have to be fatal. Chances of severe complications can be reduced if parents develop a high index of suspicion for meningitis symptoms and seek early medical help to identify this infectious disease.

Meningitis, an infection of the brain, spinal cord and their coverings, can cause brain damage, hearing deficiency, hyperactivity and hydrocephalus (water on the brain) in children.

Nobody really knows how or why children get meningitis. Childhood meningitis is different from the adult variety. Most meningitis is caused by pus-forming bacteria, the infection sometimes spreading from the middle ear or the sinuses. Another variety of childhood meningitis or encephalitis iscaused by viruses.

Each type requires different medical treatment. It is important for parents to take the child with symptoms of meningitis immediately to a physician or hospital where the child's spine can be tapped and spinal fluid analyzed to confirm presence of the disease and to begin the correct treatment as quickly as possible.

Isolation Unit doctors warn that meningitis can be serious if not diagnosed and treated early. They cite a recent study in Tennessee in which 11 of 86 children with meningitis died. Fifty-six of the surviving children were later checked; 29 per cent had develped neurological, psychological and physical handicaps. Only 43 per cent of the surviving children were completely normal.

Immediate success in the St. Paul Children's hospital isolation center has been high. Of 135 meningitis cases in 1970 and 1971, six children died. In the two-year period, 1972-1973, resuls were better with two deaths reported among 110 meningitis patients.

The Isolation center for infectious disease now has a team which would be avialbe to visit nurses and doctors in community hospitals in Minnesota and surrounding states to confer about modern ways to treat meningitis in children and prevent serious complications.

The symptoms of meningitis are important:

Fever. . .any fever, lethargy and irritability, failure or refusal to eat, stiffness of the neck, headache and vomiting.

In the young infant under one year of age, the early symptoms may be only the first three. The other symptoms appear late and more often in the older child. It is important to make the diagnosis as early as possible because the outcome depnds on how soon treatment can be started.

A combinaton of all or any of these symptoms should be reported to your family doctor immediately to get early diagnosis of meningitis.

At children's hospital the best diagnostic test—a spinal tap—is done on any child with suspected meningitis for the child's safety.

Children can recover from meningitis—usually witout crippling complications—if parents are alert to the warning symptoms and get early help for their child.

Voluntary Rate Review Favored By Hospitals

Voluntary rate review program for hospitals and non-profit nursing homes in Minnesota went into effect May 1 when federal price controls were lifted from the health care industry, the Minnesota Hospital association has announced.

"The purpose of the program is to assure that increases in charges are justified on the basis of increased costs," said Norman P. Peterson, executive vice president of Northwestern Hospital services in Thief River Falls.

"Even though the federal control program has ended, health facilities in Minnesota—through voluntary cooperation with the rate review program—are demonstrating their responsiveness to concern about increased health care charges" Peterson said. He added the rate review program was endorsed by the association's board of trustees April 12.

The association has asked its 200 member hospitals and 115 nursing homes to sign agreements indicating they will participate in the program.

Standard To Pay $2 Million For Discrimination

A Standard Oil company of California division will pay 160 former employees approximately $2 million in the largest settlement ever reached under the age discrimination in employment act, secretary of labor Peter J. Brennan has announced.

The consent decree between the labor department and the oil company's Western Operations, Inc., was issued by federal district court in San Francisco. It calls for the reinstatement of 120 of the employees.

The discharges took place between Dec. 1, 1970, and Dec. 31, 1973.

The 160 persons were discharged from positions in eight states—Alaska, Arizona, California, Hawaii, Idaho, Nevada, Oregon and Washington, according to solicitor of labor William J. Kilberg, whose San Francisco regional office filed the complaint.

The terminated employees ranged from exective personnel to workers in lower-paid occupations. They include area sales representatives, assistant station managers, engineers, home office personnel, plantmen, sales representatives, staff assistants, station managers and divisional managers. Their annual salaries ranged from approximately $8,000 to about $40,000.

The 40 not to be reinstated include:—Those now 64 or 65 years of age, who will receive additional compensation from the date of the judgement to their 65th birthday;—Those with serious medical problems; and—Those whose discharges appeared to result from age discrimination but whose job performance had been deficient.

Standard Oil of California subsidiary is expected to make the payments within about a month.

Largest previous judgment in an age discrimination case was $250,000 to 29 employees of Pan American World airways in October 1972 by the United States district court of the southern district of Florida.

The age discrimination in employment act of 1967 is enforced by the labor department's employment standards administration.

Minnesota AAA Blasts Truckers For High Speed

Minnesota state automobile association (AAA) today criticized truckers who are committing widespread and flagrant violations of the 55 mile per hour speed limit.

Arthur C. Tomlinson, executive vice president of the motoring organization, said: "In the past few weeks, motorists all over the state have noticed that the large, over-the-road trucks have been exceeding the legal speed limit of 55 miles per hour.

"Not only does this pose a grave safety hazard and demonstrate irresponsibility on the part of many truckers, but it encourages motorists to travel faster. In addition, the faster traffic jeopardizes the government's fuel conservation measures," Tomlinson added.

He noted that many Minnesotanas are driving less, taking shorter trips and planning shorter vacations at nearby destinations. "There is no reason why truckers should consider themsevles above sharing some of the sacrifices we have all come to accept," the Minnesota AAA official said.

The motoring organization also urged the Minnesota State Patrol to increase its vigilance and to ticket truckers who are violating speed laws.

"The lower speeds have meant some sacrifice," Tomlinson said, "but they have also meant fewer deaths and fewer injuries on our highways. We feel that truckers should accept the same responsibilities and sacrifices that are being borne by automotible drivers."

AREA FARMERS are beginning to get into their fields as weather permits. Those that haven't been able to start their field work yet are getting ready to go as soon as their fields are dry enough. This equipment was standing idle when the Times photographer passed it Friday west of Goodridge. However, a few apparently experimental rounds had been made in expectation that it wouldn't be long before crops could be planted.

Meet On Housing Attracts 75 To Minnesota Tech

Over 75 participants from various northwestern Minnesota communities attended a rural housing conference held Thursday, May 23 at the University of Minnesota technical college in Crookston.

The meeting was sponsored by the NW regional development commission and the NW multi-county housing authority for the purpose of presenting the various options available for communities who want to make use of government housing programs.

Agency programs discussed included those of Farmers Home administration, U.S. department of Housing and Urban development, and Minnesota Housing Finance agency.

Introductions and general remarks opening the meeting were given by Rep. Bill Kelly and Eugene Abbott, executive director of the NW regional development commission.

When asked why this meeting was arranged, Abbot said "the Northwest regional development commission considers housing to be a high priority need and the commission wants to do whatever it can to assist in meeting the need."

In the afternoon session short presentations were made by the agency representatives followed by two workshop sessions. One workshop, with FHA and Minnesota Housing Finance agency personnel dealt with the application processes, eligibility requirements and the role of the local financial institutions in these housing programs.

The other workshop centered around the housing programs of the department of housing and urban development and assessment of the role of housing authorities. Tax increment financed renewal as a new role for HRA's was discussed by the Crookston HRA. A presentation also was made by the East Grand Forks HRA on the statutory authority of housing and redevelopment agencies.

An evening session was held to discuss the housing rehabilitation program, urban homesteading and the loan programs of the Minnesota housing finance agency. Participants were Jim Dlugosch, director of MHFA, Jim Solem, director of office of local and urban affairs, state planning agency; Philip Cohen, League of Minnesota municipalities; and Kermit Mahan, director of the Austin housing and redevelopment authority.

The conference concluded a note of optimism that both the FHA and Minnesota housing finance agency have programs to help in the rehabilitation of older homes and the construction of new housing units.

One participant noted that while the low rent public housing programs no longer seem to be available, it is possible to get additional housing in the area by using the Farmers Home administration and Minnesota housing finance agency programs.

James Hanson Receives Mystery Car Award Wed.

James L. Hanson, who works at Anderson Bros. "66" Inc., Thief River Falls, received the special Gates "Mystery Car" award Wednesday.

The award, a plaque bearing three Eisenhower dollars and two Kennedy half-dollars, was presented for exceptional customer service by a representative of the Gates Rubber company, Denver, CO.

The nation-wide contest, now in its 42nd year, is sponsored to reward service station personnel who properly check for worn or defective parts. A fleet of "Gates Mystery Cars" travels across the country stopping at service stations. Each "Mystery Car" is equipped with a worn fan belt, faulty radiator hose and worn windshield wiper blade. Award plaques are presented to station personnel who recognize one of the defective parts and offer to replace it with the proper Gates part.

Gross Average Weekly Earnings Drop In April

Real gross average weekly earnings decreased 0.9 per cent from March to April, after allowance for the usual seasonal change, the U.S. department of labor's bureau of labor statistics announced.

This decline was the result of a 0.6 per cent increase in the consumer price index and a 0.5 per cent drop in average weekly hours which more than overcame a 0.2 per cent rise in average hourly earnings. The decline in the workweek was at least partly attributable to the normal reduction of work schedules on the Friday and Saturday preceeding Easter.

The figures cover full-time and part-time workers in production and nonsupervisory jobs in the private nonfarm sector of the economy.

Over the year, real average weekly earnings were down 5.1 per cent. A rise of 6.3 per cent in average hourly earnings was more than offset by a 10.2 per cent increase in consumer prices and a 1.0 per cent decrease in average weekly hours.

Before adjustment for the increase in the consumer price index and for seasonal change, average weekly earnings were $147.74 in April, compared with $141.33 a year earlier.

Real spendable earnings (real weekly pay after deduction of social security and federal income taxes) for a worker who was earning the average weekly pay and was taxed at rates applicable to a married worker with three dependents fell 0.8 per cent from March, seasonally adjusted, because of the decline in hours and the increase in the consumer price index.

Over the year, real spendable earnings were down 5.6 per cent owing a 5.1 per cent decline in real weekly earnings and a 0.6 per cent increase in the effect of taxes. This was the largest per cent decline over the year since the monthly real spendable earnings series began in 1964. The decrease in April marked the 13th consecutive month in which real spendable earnings were below their year earlier levels.

Hourly earnings index in dollars of constant purchasing power was 107.3 in April, seasonally adjusted, 0.2 per cent higher than in March. Compared with a year ago, the index is 2.8 per cent lower. The index excludes the effects of overtime in manufacturing and of interindustry shifts, such as the shift of workers between high-wage and low-wage industries.

Heritage Center Program To Be Aired This Week

Representatives from an anticipated 20-25 Eastern North Dakota, Northwestern Minnesota and South Dakota Heritage Interpretive Centers of Red River Country County Commissions, the Manitoba Heritage Commission and other heritage groups will meet with Architectural Resources, Inc., of Duluth and Hibbing, at a two-day workshop Friday and Saturday in the Chamber of Commerce offices, Fargo, North Dakota.

The first two or more heritage interpretive centers (HIC) will be under construction in 1974. Architectural Resources is also planner for the multi-million dollar iron range interpretive program.

It was announced by Don Myrold, project coordinator for the various sponsoring regional heritage groups, that this primary Red River Valley international centennial and bicentennial program, the HIC's of Red River country, has been officially recorded in the Bicentennial Information Network (Binet) by the American Revolution Bicentennial administration in Washington, D.C. This is the official national listing of Bicentennial projects across the nation.

This workshop is designed for all members of all county HIC commissions and other heritage organizations and is concerned with potential development or construction of a major HIC in each county, some region communities, etc., in Red River land, possible themes to be assigned to each center, site selection, major sources of funding, etc.

"This will not be the usual, run-of-the-mill, group type, public workshop. Each county HIC commission will be allotted one hour to individually, in private, discuss in depth with Architectural Resources, Inc., funding, the potential scope, location, theme, etc., for a HIC in their county, community or region," Myrold said.

All data, ideas, etc., gathered from each county delegate during this two-day workshop, will be incorporated into the Red River Country-wide HIC Phase I plan to be completed by Architectural Resources, Inc., by late June, for the North and South Dakota, Minnesota and Manitoba Valley region.

The planners stress very strongly that it is essential that each county, etc., send in a formal, official county HIC commission group or representatives of other heritage groups in the county to this workshop in order that a wide variety of ideas and concepts may be obtained from them to be included in the Phase I regionwide comprehensive plan.

Any county heritage interpretive center commission or other heritage group that has not forwarded in a time and day preference reservation for the conference is urged to do so by Myrold. They should be sent to Don Myrold, Minard Hall, North Dakota State University, Fargo, North Dakota 58102.

Phase I of the project, preliminary planning for the center's network will include background research and analysis of the entire Red River region, comprehensive planning program outline, graphic analysis and reconnaissance survey of the Red River study area, recommendations for potential sources of funds to make the comprehensive planning program a reality and project coordination and promotion.

Phase II, comprehensive planning program and research will include one of the largest regional heritage research projects in the history of the nation, selecting the parts of Red River Heritage themes to be assigned to various county and community centers, center site selection, etc. No duplication of theme assignment will be made. Each center will thus be the only one of its kind in the world. Planners will spend a great deal of time in Phase II working with leaders in each participating county developing center plans, content, etc.

Phase II, will involve actual centers construction and promotion throughout.

Gasoline Price Up 1.7 Per Cent March To April

Average prices of both regular and premium gasoline, collected as part of the consumer price index, rose 1.7 per cent from March to April, the U.S. department of labor's bureau of labor statistics announced.

In April the U.S. average price for regular grade gasoline was 53.7 cents per gallon.

There were some price declines for the first time since the bureau started to publish average gasoline prices for 23 metropolitan areas in October of 1973.

The largest decline in regular grade gasoline was 1.0 per cent in Cleveland, followed by 0.9 per cent in Philadelphia. Smaller decreases occurred in Chicago and Honolulu. Prices of premium grade gasoline also decreased slightly in 4 areas—San Francisco-Oakland, Philadelphia, Honolulu and Chicago.

In the areas where prices rose, the largest price advances for both regular and premium grade gasoline, 5.9 and 5.4 per cent respectively, occurred in the Houston area. In spite of the April increase the Houston area had the lowest average price for both grades of gasoline.

Thought For The Day

Faith in the eternal arises like the phoenix out of the ashes of all the soul's previous illusions. It supersedes not only the happy illusions of childhood and the beautiful illusions of youth, the illusions of a romantic love that is happiness without responsibility, the illusions of maturity which center about fame and money power and success; but also the most persistent and deep-seated of all illusions, the illusion of self-adequacy and self-righteousness.

To Be Common

Graduation is something which, although often long or longingly awaited, suddenly happens to a senior student and he or she finds himself out of the harbor and out on the ocean. Commencement speakers will always come up with endless cliches about the storm tossed ship on the sea of life, but the analogy will continue to be a good one.

Advice is the last thing which the graduate is likely to seek or accept at this point in his or her life, and it is quite pointless to offer it. Perhaps an observation by an important person would serve as well, such as this quotation from a message by former President Herbert Hoover:

"In my opinion, we are in danger of developing a cult of the Common Man, which means a cult of mediocrity. But there is at least one hopeful thing: I have never been able to find out just who this Common Man is. In fact, most Americans will get mad and fight if you try calling them common.

"This is hopeful because it shows that most people are holding fast to an essential fact in American Life. We believe in equal opportunity for all, but we know that this includes the opportunity to rise to leadership. In other words—to be uncommon!

"Let us remember that the great human advances have not been brought about by mediocre men and women. They were brought about by distinctly uncommon people with vital sparks of leadership. Many great leaders were of humble origin, but that alone was not their greatness.

"It is a curious fact that when you get sick you want an uncommon doctor; if your car breaks down you want an uncommonly good mechanic; when we get into war we want dreadfully an uncommon admiral and an uncommon general.

"I have never met a father and mother who did not want their children to grow up to be uncommon men and women. May it always be so. For the future of America rests not in mediocrity, but in the constant renewal of leadership in every phaso of our national life."

Election Results

Our ability to predict local election results proved to be inability as we missed three out of five predictions in the school district and city elections held recently. And while our credibility in the prediction department suffered a little, both the school board and city council fared well in the people selected.

We predicted Larry McDowell would probably top the vote getters in the school district election with Curtis Charlson and Rev. Paul Biegner to be reelected. McDowell did lead the pack in votes received, but Bob Sorvig came on strong to place second and Maynard Wedul was reelected to the board. Charlson and Rev. Biegner failed to gain reelection.

In the city election we predicted a close race between O.E. Engelstad and Mrs. Lovanell Kraemer with Mrs. Kraemer as a winner for alderman-at-large. Engelstad won the five-way race with Clayton Restad second and Mrs. Kraemer third in the balloting. Bill Penning followed our predition to best Jerry Wedul for the fourth ward alderman post.

As we said, the respective governing bodies probably fared well in the selections made by the voters. Maynard Wedul has been a capable school board member and his experience will serve him well. Sorvig was a close loser in a previous school election, had the fortitude to try it again, and was rewarded with a strong election win. His background is in the St. Hilaire district and is generally rural, which fits the structure of School District 564.

In the defeat of Charlson and Rev. Biegner, the district lost two of its staunchest supporters of education for college preparation. While they cooperated in the recent surge toward emphasis on vocational type education, they worked hard to maintain a balance in the local schools which also provided for the college bound students. Charlson was and is a devotee of openness in school board discussion and action and a supporter of public meetings to conduct public business. We have appreciated his past comments and cooperation in that respect, and we belive the public should be appreciative as well.

Larry McDowell pledged fairness and honesty in his election campaign and from previous associations we would never expect him to be otherwise, As he gains familiarity with the position and experience in the role of a board member we look for him to be an increasing asset to the district.

Most frequent comment about O.E. Engelstad's decisive win in the city council's alderman-at-large race was, "Ole's a good guy." There is no doubt the campaigned hard to regain a seat on the council after losing a close race to Fred Sorensen in the second ward last fall. He oofers experience on a council which has several new faces and no one need worry that he will leave an assigned duty unfulfilled. He is a conscientious worker who takes his role in city government seriously.

Bill Penning will be one of the several new members of the council when he takes offfice, and we fell he may be surprised at the scope of the position. He has done responsible work in other fields, however, and we expect he will apply himself to the degree necessary to be a credit to the fourth ward voters who elected him.

There is little doubt that the elected candidates' ability to perform is substantially greater than our ability to predict who will be elected!

Cheap Food? Why?

There is good sense in these comments made by William J. Kuhfuss, president of the American Farm Bureau federation:

When a rather well-fed, well-groomed articulate consumer advocate will say, "I prefer empty shelves to higher prices for food," I'm sure she likes it the way it is—high wages and relatively low food costs. We heard this response to a question asked at the open hearing of the Food Advisory Council. This reflects the undisciplined emotion of ill-advised people who are now buying the cheapest food related to earning power of any people of the world. Surely, she has not waited in line for food, clothing and services and when her turn came was told "We are out, we have no more."

How spoiled can we get? The highest hourly wage per capita, and total annual income in history and in the world and yet we want no increases in food costs! What goes into food costs? Producers of food pay high wages—through the fuel, labor, machinery costs, and all of the highly priced services which help make Americans the best paid and best fed people.

Experience is a costly, inefficient, but understandable teacher. Must the American consumer experience the inefficiencies of a totally politically directed economy to realize the merits of enterprise and the market system? I hope not. We have a president who I'm sure has appreciation for the effectiveness of this system. Yet the United States Constitution and the Bill of Rights are slowly but surely being undermined by the imposition of more and more policial direction as the panacea for ills that are, at least partially, imaginary.

Consumer problems are real concerns to politically oriented people. All of us are, at least partially, imaginary.

Consumer problems are real concerns to politically oriented people. All of us are consumers and all should be voters who are eligible. Politicians must be responsive to the concerns of the masses but they must not lose sight of the basics upon which America has grown to its stature. Enterprise with relatively free people with a fair discipline operating with integrity in a market economy has demonstrated productive worth in an economic race with all the world.

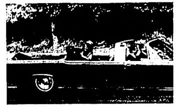
Should we be continually changing our course and follow the patterns of failure? Those countries with dictorial systems are our best customers for the production from our U.S. agriculture, industry, and know-how. Labor is losing its advantage by the dictorial impositions of some unions unrelated to productivity. We cannot expect the other segments of our economy to forever pick up this lack of efficiency as other countries develop their proficiencies and continue to close the competitive gap.

Surely the policy makers have been frustrated by the consumer unrest, the strong world market demand, the political bickering between Congress and the Administration, and other factors, but surely all of this is not enough to cause the U.S.A. to lose its direction.

We need to get back to a freer economy—one without wage and price freezes. We need to legislate so all segments of the economy are on an equal basis, instead of eternally legislating advantage to particular groups. Then enterprise will give the discipline needed for balance and we will no longer need to endure the inequities imposed under the wage-price freeze.

Borrowed Nonsense

The doctor sent an overdue bill with the notation, "This bill is now one year old." The patient promptly returned it with the notation. "Happy Birthday."



What really happened ten years ago November 22 is explored in "Executive Action," a highly charged drama of events that might have been starring But Lancaster, Robert Ryan and Will Geer opening Sunday, June 9 at the Galaxy Twin theatre.

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:

Reflections on the recent election are in order. The large number of candidates; multiplying the split vote for favorites has all the earmarks of a primary election (a nominating process.) Under Oregon election law the winner must have 35 per cent of the votes cast. Failure of a candidate to achieve the required percentage mandates a second election. Our winner received a bare 30 per cent of the votes on Tuesday. Who represents the other 70 per cent?

This winner-takes-all technique is outdated in 1974! Our greatest contribution to our state—as we approach the 200th anniversary of our nation—would be to update and clean-up Minnesota election laws dating back to the horse-and-buggy days. Send the message loud and clear to the legislature to sweep out the cobwebs of pioneer laws.

The essence of democracy is representation for all the people. Abe Lincoln said, "God must have loved the common people—he made so many of them". I'll go along with Abe.

Mike Lundgren

Tony Dorn, a Friday night Lincoln high school graduate, was drafted by the Minnesota Fighting Saints during Friday's World Hockey Association amateur player draft.

After completing their first nine rounds of the draft the Saints opted for young, home-grown talent, according to the Minneapolis Tribune, by drafting Minnesota hockey players throught the 17th round.

Dorn a 6-2, 210 pound standout all-around Prowler athlete, was included among the prestigious Saints draft picks.

The Saints' late round draft included Robin Larson of St. Paul Academy high school, 11th; Joe Baker, St. Paul Vulcans, 12th; Dorn, 13th; Reed Larson, Minneapolis Roosevelt high school, 14th; Chick Yackel, South St. Paul high school, 15th; Dana Decker, Brooklyn Center high school, 16th; and John Rothstein, Grand Rapids high school, 17th.

Dorn, of course, along with Rob and Reed Larson and Baker have already signed national letters of intent to play college hockey at Minnesota. Their college careers will apparently not be discarded to sign with the Saints.

"Harry Kneale (Saints head coach) called immediately after the draft Saturday," explained Tony Dorn, Sr. "He explained exactly what had happened at their draft in Toronto, and explained that they had no intentions of disrupting their (draft picks) educations. The Saints are looking at these kids for three to four years from now."

The Saints drafted the Minnesota players in a move to protect themselves, pointed out Kneale on the phone. Apparently the amateur hockey association has no agreement with professional hockey teams protecting American players under 20 years of age similiar to the Canadian amateur hockey association. Some WHA clubs were ready to draft the younger American players, so the Saints "Protected ourselves for the future by these draft choices," said Glen Sonmor, Saints general manager.

Kneale explained to Dorn that the draft choice were no farce, that the Saints are very much interested in the players they drafted for future careers."

"It's a nice thing to happen," noted the elder Dorn, "But Tony will still be going to Minnesota this fall.

Region eight hockey member Fergus Falls high school will have its fourth head hockey coach in four years during the 1974-75 season following the recent resignation of Don Dumais to become head hockey coach at Fargo North.

"I see this as a chance for a step up to a larger community and this is one of my goals—to coach high school at a larger school," Dumais told the Fergus Falls Journal.

Dumais served as the Otter mentor in 1973-74 after Doug Peltier had been at the post in 1972-73. Peltier was at Fergus Falls for just one year after succeeding Roger Johnson who resigned after 1971-72.

Darrell Strolund, a 1973 Northland community college graduate, was among the letter winners on the 1974 Moorhead State College baseball team.

Stromlund, a Greenbush project, is currently a member of the Arctic Cat team in the Thief River Falls fast pitch softball league.

Also receiving a 1974 MSC spring letter was Wayne Olson, the former Prowler football all-stater, who served as the Dragon track team student manager.

Thief River Falls fishermen are encouraged to stop by the Times office to have pictures taken with any large walleye or northern caught in the Thief or Red Lake rivers.

The fish being photographed should, however, be of near trophy size. Walleye brought in to be photographed should weigh, a minimum of six pounds and northerns should weigh at least 10 pounds. A nice stringer of larger walleye or norhtern would make a fine picture, too, even though the fish might not meet the six or ten pound standard.

Thief River Falls anglers landing exceptionally large fish on other lakes are also invited to stop for a picture taking session.

Lynn Dorn, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Tony Dorn of Thief River Falls, was guest speaker at Wadena's 1974 girls high school athletic banquet recently, an event attended by 200 persons.

Miss Dorn represents region eight on the Minnesota state high school league's women's advisory committee and coaches girls basketball at Crookston.

Among the persons attending the Wadena banquet was Sylvia Lee, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Lee of Thief River Falls, a coach for the region six runner-up Wadena girl's basketball team.

Eighteen endangered Mexican ducks were released into the wild on the Bosque del Apache national wildlife refuge in New Mexico recently, U.S. fish and wildlife service director Lynn A. Greenwalt announced.

Greenwalt said, "This duck has all but disappeared from American birdlife as a wild breeding species. Since the 1940's its decline has paralleled man's draining of marshes and sloughs, and a general lowering of the water table in New Mexico, Arizona and Texas through dredging and channeling of rivers."

TRF, Bemidji, Roseau, Bagley Form Region

Region 8 Pairings
Monday's First Round
6:00 p.m.—TRF (7-7) vs. Bagley (10-4)
7:30 p.m.—Bemidji (12-2) vs. Roseau (16-4)

Thief River Falls takes on Bagley and Bemidji plays Roseau tonight (Monday) in opening round games of the 1974 region eight baseball tournament on the Red Lake Falls diamond.

Tonight's games will match district 30 champion Bagley against district 31 winner Thief River Falls at 6 p.m., with district 29 titlist Bemidji playing distict 32 representative Roseau at 7:30.

The two first round winners will play in the region eight championship game Tuesday at 7:30 at Red Lake Falls. Tuesday night's winner earns a berth in the Minnesota state tournament scheduled to be held June 12-14 at Midway Stadium in St. Paul.

Bemidji ranks as a heavy favorite to win an uprecedented seventh straight region eight baseball crown. Bemidji's championship-rich baseball history includes 13 region eight titles in the 27 year history of the tournament. The Lumberjacks won their first ever state baseball crown a year ago.

New head coach Des Sagedahl directed his team to a 12-2 record this spring. The only Bemidji losses were 4-3 and 2-1 set-backs to Grand Rapids and Hibbing.

Bemidji's Andy Kannenberg and John Buckanaga form one of the state's finest battery combinations. Kannenberg, a senior lefthander, owns a 5-1 pitching record. He's struck out 105 batters in 47 innings and has posted a sparkling 1.16 ERA. Buckanaga, a senior catcher with a cannon-like throwing arm, is regarded as the state's finest baseball players in many circles.

Bagley will be appearing in the region eight baseball tournament for the first time in the school's history. The Flyers defeated defending champion Halstad 5-1 last week for their first district 30 title.

Coach Bob Mullan's Bagley ball club carries a 10-4 record into the tournament. The Flyers lost to Crookston Cathedral twice and dropped single decisions to Ada and Gonvick. The Ada loss was avenged in the district tournament, however, 3-2.

"We're basically a senior ball club with some experience behind us," commented Mullan. "If we play ball up to our capabilities we can beat Thief River Falls."

The Bagley line-up will include Rick Duquette at first base; Joel Mirk, second; John Jordahl, shortstop; and Gene Gerbracht, third. The Flyer outfield will have Bob Miller in left; Mike Thoreson, center; and Jim Ostlund, right. Pete Bromagin will do the Flyer catching.

Mullan indicated that Randy Luggar, a senior righthander, will pitch against the Prowlers. Luggar averages an eye-catching 10 strike-outs per game against just two walks a contest.

Gerbracht, another senior righthander, is second strong Bagley pitcher.

Coach Norbert Pastir's Roseau squad owns an impressive 16-4 season record. The Rams lost three times to highly regarded Warroad during the regular season, but beat the Warriors 6-1 in the district 32 championship game last week.

"We're kind of young, and consequently we're kind of erratic," admitted Pastir, "But we do hit the ball fairly well and (Doug) Ammerman is a tough pitcher for us."

Ammerman is a sophomore righthander who compiled an enviable 9-2 record this spring. He has struck out a whopping 119 batters in only 60 innings and owns a guady 1.07 earned run average.

The rest of the Roseau line-up will find Craig Baumgartner, the only senior on the team, at first base; Bruce Olson, second; Keith Hedlund, shortstop; and Jeff Olson, third. The outfielders include Dave Grafstrom in left; Craig Davidson, center; and Doug Magnusson, right. Sheldon Vatnsdal will do the cathing.

Roseau has had one previous region eight baseball championship squad—in 1966.

Despite a mediocre 7-7 season record, Thief River Falls is expected to offer Bemidji its biggest title challenge. The Prowlers went just 4-7 during the regular season before winning three straight district 31 tournament games, including a 15-6 championship game rout of Warren.

"I think we've improved tremendously since the start of the year," pointed out veteran Prowler coach Ralph Skay. "I feel that we played some of our best ball of the season during the district tournament and I think we're coming on."

The familiar Thief River Falls line-up will remain intact, said Skay, with Chris Biegner at first base; Duane Dicken, second; Jeff Lindquist, shortstop; and Jon Peterson, third. The Prowler outfield, from left to right, will include Jeff Tunberg, Cliff Shumway and Duane Gonsorowski. Greg Sorenson will do the Prowler catching.

Skay isn't set on his tournament pitching choices because of an injury to Randy Dallmann's shoulder. Either Jeff Langlie, Joel Folger or Tunberg will pitch against Bagley, with Dallmann scheduled to pitch in the championship game if the Prowlers win tonight and if his shoulder feels alright.

"Our pitching all depends on Dallmann," explained Skay. "We would like to have him pitch in the championship game. We hope to win the first game with one of the others. We feel Dallmann is our hardest thrower and he's capable of pitching a real fine game if he's feeling alright."

"I think we're playing good ball right now and we're ready for the region tournament," offered Skay. I was pleased with our play all the way around during the district. We played good defense, got some good pitching and got some hitting."

Thief River Falls will be seeking its first region eight title since 1963 when the Prowlers advanced to the state tournament after Bemidji had apparently won the tournament, but was disqualified by the Minnesota state high school league for allowing pitcher Jack Barthelmy to pitch too many innings. Thief River Falls also went to state in 1955 and 1959.

Crookston-Walker Capture Region Eight Track Titles

Pre-meet favorites Crookston and Walker carried home championship trophies Friday by winning their respective classes in the 1974 region eight track meet held at Walker.

Crookston won its first region track title since 1959 with a first place finish in the large school class A point standing and powerful Walker won its second straight small school class B region track crown.

Heavily favored Crookston held just a one-point lead over 1973 class A champion Park Rapids with only three events left before premiere dashmen Don Moore and Jon Burkhardt finished one-two in the 220 to assure a Pirate win. Crookston finished the day with 72 points, followed by Park Rapids with 60, Thief River Falls 47, Bagley 23, and Roseau and East Grand Forks 19 each.

Thief River Falls threatened the strong Lumberjacks in the region championship match before falling 3-2. Bemidji beat the Prowlers handily twice during the regular season by identical 5-0 scores.

Bemidji's Scott Bjella beat LaValley 6-1, 6-0 in number one singles, but Tim Engelstad and Breiland won in both number two and number three singles to provide the Prowlers with an upset opportunity. Engelstad beat Lyle Lortie 6-3, 6-2 and Breiland dumped Sam Deweese 6-1, 6-1.

Two Lumberjack doubles wins iced the match for the Bemidji school. Dale Kullheim and Virgil Malbratten defeated Scott Engelstad and Waale 6-4, 6-0 in first doubles while Terry Menge and Kriby Shofner added a 6-3, 7-5 triumph over Laidly and Sullivan.

Deer And Moose On Highways Are Summer Hazard

Drivers in all areas of the state are warned to be on the lookout for deer on the highways, especially at night.

The department of public safety stresses caution at this time because of the large numbers of deer that feed on the fresh grass at the edge of the road.

"Last year," commissioner W.R. Hoaglund reports, "5,824 deer and 39 moose were killed in collisions with motor vehicles. A large number of these occurred at night when the animals are difficult to see.

"Even at speeds of only 50 or 55 mph, it is difficult to avoid hitting an animal that bounds out of the foliage or ditch at night. Deer also are unpredictable, since they may be startled by their shadow caused by the headlights or be temporarily blinded by the sudden light."

Hoaglund also advised motorists that all collisions involving deer must be reported to the nearest law enforcement agency. The location should be pinpointed as closely as possible so that the animal can be removed and recorded.

BLACK POWDER rifle competition held yesterday (Sunday) at the Pennington county sportsmen's club resulted in a three way tie for first place after the three regular rifle events. A shoot-off was held with the championship riding on just one shot off-hand at 50 yards. The winner was Bill Williams (left) of Park Rapids with Alan Moe (center) of Grafton, N.D. shooting a close second. Dick Taallrud of Mentor followed in third. These shooters had tied with 143 points and 6X out of a possible score of 150 points after five shots each at 25 yards and 50 yards off-hand and 50 yards with crossed sticks. Williams won both the 25 and 50 yard off-hand competition. Moe won the over-all (rifle and pistol) aggregate championship. Williams made his own 50 cal. rifle from a kit purchased from Thompson arms. He also made the 50 cal. rifle used by Moe but built it practically from scratch. Taallrud's 58 cal. rifle is a modified .12 gauge single-shot shotgun. The alterations were made by Dan Ramberg of Mentor. Additional photographs and a complete write-up will be printed in a later addition of the Times.

Minnesota Fish Mercury Level Is Reported Low

Mercury levels in Minnesota fish have been declining since testing began in 1970 and concentrations are now at low and probably natural levels in nearly all lakes and streams, the department of natural resources reported.

The testing program has been carried out jointly by the DNR and the Minnesota department of health.

DNR research coordinator Dr. John B. Moyle, said there are three state rivers in which some fish contain higher concentrations of mercury than the U.S. food and drug administration considers advisable for unlimited consumption, including the St. Louis river below Cloquet; the upper Mississippi river between Grand Rapids and Brainerd; and the Red River along the Dakota border.

While concentrations of mercury in these waters are not high and have been declining, some of the fish sampled contained mercury above the federally acceptable level of 0.50 parts per million. The average level of the 139 fish taken in 1973 was 0.45 ppm.

Because some of the fish checked contained levels above 0.50, state agencies are still recommending that consumption of fish taken from the three areas be restricted to one meal a week.

Moyle said the probable reason mercury levels have declined in these streams is that use of mercury compounds in industrial plants and for treating farm seeds to prevent plant diseases is no longer permitted.

DNR Snowmobile Trails May Be Used By Hikers

Minnesota department of natural resources said it is reviewing its network of grants-in-aid snowmobile trails to see which of them are suitable for summertime hiking and backpacking use.

Don Ledin, trails coordinator for the DNR, said backpacking has increased tremendously in popularity the past two years and that snowmobile trails may be able to provide needed additional recreational opportunities for hikers.

He said the best trails for hiking will be developed for that purpose and that maps of the trails should be available to the public by mid July.

Ledin said development work will continue during the summer on snowmobile trails so that they will be ready for use next winter.

Originally, $560,000 was made available for acquisition and development of 1,400 miles of new snowmobile trails in 23 counties.

Half of the amount was expended some time ago but the other $280,000 will be available after July 1. The funds are appropriated to counties under a grants-in-aid program.

Trails are acquired and built under a cooperative program involving the state, local municipalities and snowmobile clubs.

Communities interested in the program are asked to contact William Morrissey, grants-in-aid coordinator, department of natural resources, Centennial office building, St. Paul 55155.

First, buy a good trailer that fits your boat and is strong enough to support the boat and other extra gear—including large motor. (Federal regulations now require that new trailers have a weight certificate plate on the frame. Look for it.)

For those who have trailered boats for many years, and for those now buying their first, the Minnesota department of public safety offers these tips for safe trailering.

LEARNING PROJECT with service to the local school district at the same time is the carpentry work being done on vocational center classrooms in the Thief River Falls school district service center. High school students under the direction of Lambert Bruckhorst, industrial arts instructor, have done most of the building on the classroom space to be used by the vocational center school's business department. In the top photo, Jim Fisher of Fisher Electric talks to the students about electrical wiring. In the bottom photo two students cut insulation to be installed in the walls.

FIRE CHIEF Duane Noel was photographed Saturday morning using the most expedient method to extinguish flames in clothing while other firemen brought up a hose to finish the job. The local fire department was called to a residence on Dewey avenue about 10:37 a.m. and found smoke coming out of a basement apartment rented by Brad Walker. The fire was located in a basket of laundry which had been sitting against a furnace. Some water damage resulted in the basement and smoke damage extended throughout the rented house owned by Jerry Wetch.

Bergerons Honored As Foster Parents

(editor's Note: The following article was written by Pauline Walle in the Rochester Post-Bulletin. Arthur Bergeron is the son of Mrs. Eugenie Bergeron and the late Peter Bergeron of Oklee. His wife is the former Lorraine Malwitz of Red Lake Falls.)

When you ask Lorraine and Arthur Bergeron why they've become parents for other peoples' children—30 of them in 18 years—their answer is immediate and uncomplicated. "We just can't imagine life without children."

The Rochester pair has received the state's Foster Parent Distinguished Service award from the Minnesota Social Services association.

With one son of their own, the former Mankato pair wanted more family and decided to become licensed foster parents for other children who needed them. Most were longterm placements including a number of handicapped and interracial youngers. Their expanded family was so completely "family" that the Bergersons took their first vacation alone last year.

Lorraine Bergeron is a teacher-turned-homemaker. About 18 years ago she was asked to care for a Mankato state instructor's child, and then another. When the mother of some children she'd taught died in childbirth, leaving a baby who was retarded and nearly blind, she decided to try caring for her. At that point a case worker suggested the Bergersons license their home for foster care.

The first children they had to give up, because a permanent home had been found for them, made them realize "they had become a very necessary part of our lives."

While still in Mankato the couple adopted Sharon, now Mrs. Jim Priss of Rochester, and the Prisses have since adopted one of their parents' foster children.

The Bergerons were transferred to Sioux Falls, S.D. and St. Louis Park before coming to Rochester more than seven years ago. Bergeron was on the road a good share of the time as a regional Chrysler representative, creating even more of a challenge for parenting foster children.

That Didn't Stop them from taking a little girl with a life expectancy of a year—she had a congential disorder—and a "preemie" of Eskimo, Indian and Negro origin. Elaine received a number of corrective surgeries and Joey, the patience to partially overcome his hyperactivity. Both are the Bergerons' permanet foster chilren now and attend school in Rochester.

Licensed for four children at one time, the couple has accepted youngsters of all ages. "Once I had four babies. I was up three days and two nights with a couple of them just home from the hospital," said Mrs. Bergeron.

"We've had a good cross section and each child was a new challenge, the couple adds.

"Remember that cyclone that would tear the house down while you were standing in it!" laughs Art Bergeron. The case worker said she'd be out with that boy when she had enough help with him. "He wasn't ready to adopt out as he was. They probably figured a teacher could tame him," explained Lorraine Bergeron.

One of the sad times for her husband is the day he had to tell a couple of young foster children that their mother, who was about to be remarried, didn't want them.

The Couple Said their daughter Sharon always felt happy she was "chosen" and felt a special bond with the foster youngsters in their care. "She helped a lot with them. When one was up for adoption, she'd check the list of newly-available chilren and sometimes had one all picked out for us."

The Bergerons live in a four-bedroom home in northwest Rochester. The living room in company-ready, indicating the discipline-with-warmth provided by the couple, who have provided a family room and basement recreation room for the children. Games and a player piano are some of their favorite pastimes. The Bergerons also built a carpeted ramp up the front porch for Elaine, who needs some assistance in getting about.

Recently the couple drove their foster children out East to see some of the country's historic places and most summers they go to her brother's cabin near Hackensack. "Joey caught the biggest fish for the summer up there two years ago," Lorraine Bergeron said proudly.

They're An "ecumenical" family—she's Lutheran, he's Catholic—saving time for church teaching, choir and study groups. Mrs. Bergeron is active in the Foster Parents Organization and took advantage of the Parent Effectiveness Training course offered through Olmsted Social Services.

Arthur Bergeron has taken early retirement so both parents are home with the children now. They appear to be calmly organized and undaunted by the busy schedule of school-age children.

They do empathize with young people growing up these days, wondering what their futuree will be. They fell the times have changed, not children.

"Sometimes we as the older generation have let kids down," mused Mrs. Bergeron.

"We haven't held the standards we preach. I think they're generally good young people who just don't want to fall into the same world as we've had it."

Transportation Officials Met In Bloomington

Fuel allocations, materials shortages, and the effects of inflation on contract awards were among the problems mulled by the American association of state highway and transportation officials (AASHTO) subcommittee on construction at its spring meeting at the Thunderbird motel in Bloomington recently.

The meeting was chaired by deputy state highway commissioner and chief engineer W. Stanley Ekern. Also an official of the organization is state highway commissioner Ray Lappegaard, recently named chairman of AASHTO's subcommittee on public information.

Comprised of officials of highway and transportation departments of the 50 states, Puerto Rico, the District of Columbia and officials of the U.S. department of transportation, AASHTO's purpose is to foster the development, operation and maintenance of a balanced national transportation system.

The organization's name was changed recently to include 'transportation' officials, reflecting the fact that many state highway departments have been incorporated in departments of transportation to cope with wider aspects of the avowed national 'all-transportation' policy.

Also discussed by the subcommittee in its Minnesota meeting were incentives for minority contractors, quality test methods employing nuclear gauges and micro-wave ovens, a survey on skid-resistant pavements, and cost-cutting suggestions.

Enrollment Advances For Summer School

With enrollment deadline set for Friday of this week, summer school enrollment for the Thief River Falls school distrct is progressing satisfactorily, according to William Desrocher, director of the summer program for grades K-5 and Robert Ostazeksi, director for grades 6-12.

Elementary enrollment presently totals 380 for two-hour classes, Desrocher said. Approximately half of the students enrolled are taking two classes, however, so the actual number of students would be closer to the 250 mark.

Ostazeski reports that 110 students are enrolled in secondary school summer classes, a number of which are available as either two-hour or four-hour courses. Some secondary students are also taking more than one class.

While openings remain in all elementary and secondary academic courses, three elementary school programs are filled at the present time. These include art, for students in grades 1-5 wishing to further develop their creative ability in basic design; community study, for students in grades 3-5 wishing to learn more about this community through field trips; and camping, for students in grades 4-5 who wish to learn the basic fundamentals and science of outdoor living.

Openings still remain in the elementary program for remedial math, grades 1-5; enriched modern math, grades 1-5; reading, grades 1-5; and introduction to beginning teaching, grades 3-5, Desrocher said.

Members of the Thief River Falls board of education crammed a large number of resolutions into their business agenda Monday evening before hearing reports on two vocational school departments and negotiating further with the local principals' and directors' association.

Report presented by the health curriculum study commottee was received and three books and two filmstrips proposed as unacceptable were deleted from materials to be ordered. Among deleted items were the book "Patterns of Life: Human Growth and Development"; book five "How We Are Born" and book six "Man and Woman" in the Follet family life education text series fror grades K-6; and filmstrip entitled "Becoming a Man-Maturation and Growth" and Part 3 of the filmstrip series "VD: Myth and Reality". The board agreed to underwrite work experience to a maximum of $4 per hour toward vocational certification for Jenneth Johnson at Arctic Enterprises and Daniel Skaja at the Northwest area sheltered workshop. Both are faculty members in the district.

Purchase of a pressure washer for school buses was made from Wilson Bros. company of Thief River Falls, second low among five bidders at $795. All bids for a mini-bus were rejected but two station wagons were purchased from Tunberg Motor company for $8,190, low bidder for the station wagons. Awarding of bids on school pictures for 1974-75 school year was tabled.

Contract was agreed upon with the Thief River Falls curling club for use of club facilities. The school district will pay $10 per hour for 125 hours of instructional physical education time and $250 for approximately 100 hours of interscholastic scheduled time. Interscholastic curling team and coach were authorized with participation of boys and girls to be governed by the state high school league.

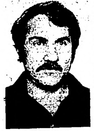
Welfare Dep't. Hires Resource Examiner Here



Stuart Nelson

Stuart Nelson, a native of the Roseau area with several years of law enforcement experience, began work June 1 as resource examiner for the welfare departments in Pennington and Roseau counties. He will divide his time approximately equally between the two counties and maintain his residence near Roseau.

Nelson's position, approved by the Pennington county welfare board, will include communicating with persons delinquent in paying support orders, according to Gary Erickson, director of the Pennington county office. He will work closely with the county attorney's office in compiling information on the whereabouts, earnings and assests of persons delinquent in paying support orders.

When appropriate, he is prepared to testify in court to provide information from the records of payments and ability to pay.

Investigations of allegations of fraud and taxpayer complaints will also be handled by the resource examiner, Erickson said. From time to time, welfare offices receive information that certain recipients may not be eligible for entitled to the the asistance they are receiving.

"All such reports will be treated seriously and confidentially," he said, "but the chances of an effective investigation are greatly improved if the person reporting the information gives specific names and facts. Little can be done to correct welfare abuses where the persons reporting do so

FOUR BUILDINGS and two vehicles burned yesterday (Tuesday) on the Rudolph Rude farm located about three miles northwest of Thief River Falls. A garage presently used for storing fertilizer is shown collapsing in the background as a fireman waits for another truck to arrive with more water. Firefighters were compelled to direct most of their efforts to preventing the blaze from reaching a nearby house and barn. They were also able to keep the fuel tank (at left of picture) cool enough to prevent them from igniting. Buildings destroyed include the camper, also burned. The call to the local fire department was delayed when the phone line burned out before the location of the fire was reported. The call was received at 3:33 p.m. and the buildings were destroyes within minutes. The above photo was taken about 3:45 p.m. and indicates how far the fire had progressed by then.

25th Annual Dairy Day Ready To Roll Tuesday

Lori Anshus
Princess Kay

Brenda Mathson
NW Dairy Princess

Twenty-fifth anniversary will be observed at Northwest Dairy day in Thief River Falls when the nation's original dairy day will be held on Tuesday, June 11. Weather permitting, the show will be held in the downtown location at the city parking lot on Knight avenue between Second and Third streets. Bad weather will move the event to the county fairgrounds facilities.

While there have been large changes in dairying and the dairy picture in northwestern Minnesota during the past 25 years, the tradition and character established at the original dairy day in 1950 have not been changed.

There are 165 entries in the dairy show this year—comparable to the 162 animals shown at the original event 25 years ago. There are only 18 entries in the dairy princess contest, however, while the first year's event attracted 45 entries from the participating counties.

Brenda Mathson of Thief River Falls is the reigning Northwest Dairy Princess and will crown her successor June 11. Marian Mueller of Mahnomen was the first princess selected in 1950 in an event which eventually led to state-wide and national dairy princess competition.

Lori Anshus, Princess Kay of the Milky Way, will be a special guest at Dairy Day activities. She will participate in the noon luncheon with queen candidates and assist in the coronation of the new Northwest Dairy Princess.

In the 24 prior years of Northwest Dairy Day, this area produced three winners of the state Princess Kay competition and one American Dairy Princess. Diane Schroeder of Norman county in 1958, Kathleen Hjelle of Marshall county in 1962 and Gayle Krogstad of Norman county in 1970 won state titles. Miss Krogstad also captured the national crown.

All former crown princesses have been invited to return for recognition at the 25th anniversary event. Four have presently indicated their intention to attend. Name, present address, county represented at Dairy Day and year of coronation include Betty (Johnson) Bergh, St. Paul, Roseau county, 1961, Marlene (Jensen) Warner, Edina, Norman county, 1952, Vurnie (Hopwood) Wilson, Crookston, Norman county, 1960, and Arlene (Ubel) Billberg, Roseau, Lake of the Woods county, 1967.

Princess contestants who are entered this year include the following: Beltrami county Carol Lindgren, Shevlin, Polk

A number of calls have been made to invite girls to attend the session, Mrs. Carlson said, but no special invitation is needed and any eligible girl from Thief River Falls area will be welcome. Single girls who will be between 18 and 28 years of age at the time of the Miss Minnesota pageant next spring are eligible to compete.

Marshall Board Calls For Bids On Law Center

Marshall county courthouse kettle was kept boiling Tuesday when the county board of commissioners accepted final plans and specifications and called for bids July 8 on the new law enforcement center at Warren. Marshall County Improvement association will go to court in an attempt to obtain an injunction stopping the project.

Improvement association officers spent about 45 minutes with the commissioners Tuesday, offering several alternative suggestions and questions, but were unable to obtain any satisfaction, according to Robert Fincher, MCIA chairman.

With $3,060.70 in hand to take the case to court, the association will initiate court action to (1) require the county auditor to file petitions requesting a move of the county courthouse from Warren to Newfolden and (2) halt further action on the law enforcement center pending court decision on the petition question.

The $3,060.70 was raised by donation for the court battle and exceeds the $3,000 goal set as necessary to carry the action to court. Fund total was reported at an executive board meeting of the improvement association Monday evening in Newfolden by Lowell Lindemoen, MCIA treasurer.

It was at the Monday evening meeting that it was decided to ask the county board to agree to two requests from the association. These requests were made of the county commissioners Tuesday but were rejected. One was that the county board would agree to abide by the district court decision on petitioning without appealing to a higher court. The other was that a moratorium on the law enforcement center be imposed until the district court decision is made.

"An injunction will cost us $1,400," Fincher told the Times following Tuesday's meeting with the board. "We didn't want to spend that money if we didn't have to, but the board turned us down and we will have to go ahead with the injunction."

Fincher also said the improvement association board has agreed to abide by the district court decision even if the county board may not. "If we lose the court decision, we won't appeal," he said. "We may choose to repetition but we won't take the WARM WEATHER finally arrived in the Times area this week with temperatures climbing beyond 80 degrees Monday and Tuesday. Outdoor work which has been slowed to a standstill by cold and wet weather was finally possible to accomplish. Spring cleaning includes the washing of windows, as demonstrated above by Mrs. Marvin (Bonnie) Carlson—but a person does have to be careful not to get carried away by the enthusiasm warmer weather brings. If you try to get the glass too clean, your help may disappear!

Sheryl Lyn Pederson And Harold Kees Exchange Vows

Miss Sheryl Lyn Pederson and Harold Kees, both of Thief River Falls, exchanged marriage vows at 7:30 p.m., May 3 at Redeemer Lutheran church in this city.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth N. Pederson of 704 South Tindolph. Parents of the groom are Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Kees of 621 North LaBree.

Rev. Keith Prekker officiated at the double ring ceremony attended by approximately 120 relatives and friends. Mrs. William Halbasch was the organist. She played "The Wedding March" for the processional and also accompanied the assembled guests as they sang "O Perfect Love," during the ceremony.

The bride, escorted to the altar by her brother, Keith Pederson of Detroit Lakes, was attired in a floor-length gown of white nylon organza. Clusters of simulated seed pearls and sequins trimmed the bodice. Delicate nylong lace accented the square, scalloped neckline, sheer sleeves, and the center front and bottom of the A-line skirt. An attached chapel-length train created back interest together with her satin ribbon sash that encircled the slightly raised waistline. Her veil of silk illusion was held by a peau de soi petal headpiece outlined with seed pearls and enhanced by pearl teardrops. For sentiment, the bride carried out the old, new, borrowed and blue theme. Her bouquet was a nosegay of white daisies and pink roses. To complete her attire, she wore silver cross earrings, a gift from the groom, together with a silver cross pennant, a gift from her parents.

The bride's personal attendant was her niece Jodell Carlson.

Mrs. Carl (Janice) Carlson of Thief River Falls attended her sister as matron of honor. She was attired in a pink polyester floor-length gown styled with a V neckline and baby doll sleeves. She carried long-stemmed white daisies and pink roses.

Bridesmatrons were Mrs. Royce (Joy) Pederson of Detroit Lakes, sister-in-law of the bride, and Mrs. Harley (Vivian) Knutson of Thief River Falls, sister of the groom. Their floor-length gowns of blue polyester were fashioned with empire bodices with V necklines and baby doll sleeves. They carried long-stemmed pink roses. All wore silver earrings, gifts from the bride.

Attending the groom were the bride's brothers: Royce Pederson of Detroit Lakes, as best man, and Lyle Pederson of St. Hilaire, and Kendall Pederson of Red Lake Falls, as groomsmen. They, together with the groom, wore white jackets, trimmed in black, black trousers, ruffled shirts and black bow ties. The groom's boutonniere was a yellow rose bud and his attendants had pink carnations pinned on their lapels.

Serving as ushers were Carl Carlson of Thief River Falls, brother-in-law of the bride, and Ray Johnson of Duluth, a friend of the couple. They wore the regular business suits with white carnation boutonnieres, as did the fathers of the bride and groom.

The mother of the bride was attired in a royal blue floor-length gown accented by white accessories and pearl earrings and necklace. The mother of the groom wore an aqua floor-length gown complimented by coordinating sheer sleeves, rhinestone earrings, and white accessories. Both wore orchid corsages.

Honor guest at the ceremony was Otto Scharmer, godfather of the groom.

The parents of the bride hosted a reception in the church parlors following the ceremony. Centering the serving table was a three-tired wedding cake decorated with miniature flowers in blue, yellow and pink. The cake, baked and decorated by Mrs. L.M. Graham of this city, featured arrangements of wedding bells tied with spring ribbon, between the tiers. Topping the cake was a Christogram.

Mrs. Lawrence Scharmer, aunt of the groom, cut and served the cake. Pouring was Mrs. Kendall Pederson of Red Lake Falls, sister-in-law of the bride. Mrs. Lyle Pederson of Thief River Falls and Mrs. Keith Pederson of Detroit Lakes, also sisters-in-law of the bride, served the punch.

Friends and other relatives also assisted at the reception. Denise Swedenburg registered the guests, Jodell Carlson, Virginia Knutson, Valerie Knutson, Kerri Pederson and Shelli Pederson served as waitresses and Mrs. Daryl Comstock, Mrs. Dale Berggren and Mrs. Ben Hibble arranged the gifts.

Relatives and friends attending were from Grand Forks, Grafton, St. Thomas and Drayton, N.D., Red Lake Falls, St. Hilaire, Detroit Lakes, Evansville and the Thief River Falls area.

For her going away attire, the bride wore a blue and white pantsuit.

The newlyweds are now residing at Michigan, N.D., where the groom, a graduate of the Thief River Falls area vocational technical school of auto mechanics, is employed. Prior to her marriage, the bride was employed at Northwestern hospital.

Regents Approve Youth Center At University

University of Minnesota regents recently approved the center for youth development and research's affiliation with the college of home economics. The center, an interdisciplinary program stressing teaching, research and innovative projects for youth, previously was part of the center for urban and regional affairs.

The center's affiliation with the college of home economics strengthens its emphasis on quality of human relations and service to the state. Staff members work closely with schools, youth correctional facilities, civic organizations and youth agencies such as scouts, 4-H and the YWCA.

Headed by Gisela Konopka, the center brings together knowledge from many disciplines and professions as they relate to youth. Members of the staff and advisory committee include an experimental series of undergraduate courses in youth studies for prospective youth workers, monthly seminars on a variety of youth-related topics that are open to persons from many professions and backgrounds, and in-service training for the staffs of community organizations and agencies involved with youth. Staff members also conduct seminars and workshops at many local service agenices.

The center is heavily involved in research on youth. Among their projects are studies of working youth in the Twin Cities and research on the problems of adolescent girls.

About a dozen Twin Cities high schools are involved in the center's student-community involvement project, which encourages students to learn about their communities by becoming involved in work with government organizations, nursing homes, schools for the mentally retarded and other service agencies. By training high school teachers who organize and oversee these fieldwork experiences, the Center hopes to expand the program to many more schools in the state.

Center staff members also are working to develop a curriculum on the responsibilities of parenthood for high school students.

The center is funded by grants from the Bush foundation, the Lilly Endowment fund, the Surdna foundation, the national institute of mental health and other agencies in addition to its university budget.

County 4-Hers Use Community Pride Project

Several Pennington county 4-H'ers are working on community development projects to earn scholarships to the "community Pride '74" program in September in the 4-H building on the Minnesota state fairgrounds in St. Paul.

City View 4-H club plans to clean up and beautify the Parkridge cemetery. This year the Mavie 4-H club will be cleaning up the town hall and yard and establishing a baseball diamond. Picking up roadside litter and planting flowers around their club house is the community pride project the New Solum club has selected.

Kratka club plans to beautify the canoe landing in its area and also pick up roadside litter. Silverton town hall will be cleaned inside and out by the Silverton club. Good Hope club plans to continue beautifying its town hall and the surrounding area.

"Community Pride '74" program, sponsored by Northrup King and company and the Minnesota agricultural extension service, helps stimulate 4-H groups to work toward improvement of their community and environment. Last year, flowers and plants were included in a number of 4-H club projects. Some clubs planted trees to make wildlife shelters while others built birdhouses and wood duck houses. Club members cleaned up bathing beaches, lake shores and town and village halls.

For more information on "Community Pride '74", contact Wayne Odegaard at the Pennington county extension office, courthouse or phone 681-2116.

SSI Payments Now Available To The Needy

Supplemental security income (SSI) payments can be made to people in need, according to William Phalen, manager of the Grand Forks, N.D., social security district.

These new federal payments are for needy persons who are 65 or older or disabled or blind. Those who can qualify are people with little or no income and who do not have much property or other resources. An individual may have resources of up to $1,500 and a couple up to 2,250.

A home of reasonable value, household goods and personal effects do not have to be counted as resources. No liens are placed on the homes of people getting SSI payments.

Anyone who thinks he or she might be eligible or who knows of someone who might qualify should contact the social security office. Phalen said the new SSI program has been in effect since last January. Although it is administered by the social security administration it is entirely separate from the social security program. No social security taxes are used to make SSI payments.

Phalen also reminded persons getting the gold SSI checks to notify the social security office of any changes in living arrangement or address. They should also report if income goes up or resources increase.

if the Shoe Fits..

Is a change of shoes advisable?

Yes, change shoes and hosiery at least once a day. You will find it is very refreshing and gives you a definite 'lift'. Shoes are designed for different purposes. Use the appropriate shoe for the purpdse. If you stand for long periods on your job, wear comfortable shoes with low heels. The shoes worn by nurses are an example of a good functional shoe.

Take the greatest care in fitting your shoes. Do not depend on size or number alone, but have them fitted with the correct last or shape every time you buy new shoes. Improper shoes can deform the feet with bunions, corns and callouses and can contribute to more serious ailments.

Changing shoes for work, play or relaxation can give a lift to your spirits and contribute to your good health and morale.

Minnesota ADA Cites Hazards Of Margarine

"Don't use butter—use margarine—because it's better for your heart." This is the message millions of people have heard for years—margarine will protect your arteries from the disease called atherosclerosis which is responsible for much coronary heart disease, accoring to the American Dairy association of Minnesota.

Research disclosed last month at the federation of American socieities for experimental biology meetings, in Atlantic City, N.J., points up that margarine may be hazardous to your health.

Dr. Fred A. Kummerow, professor of food chemistry at the University of Illinois, explained that margarine producers use a process that converts a large percentage of the well-advertised polyunsaturated fatty acids from the naturally occuring "cis" form to the "trans" configuration of the molecule.

As it turns out, the "trans" form in the bloodstream results in a higher blood cholesterol level and increased incidence of atherosclerotic plaques which cause atherosclerois, which, in turn, is responsible for 90 per cent of all heart disease.

Some American margarines contain as much as 38 per cent of the "trans" form, and butter contains only two to six per cent "trans" fatty acids.

American Dairy association of Minnesota has been saying for years that with the consumption of butter decresing, the consumption of margarine increasing and coronary heart disease increasing, persons could form their own conclusion.

Less Affluent Receive Less From Education

MPIRG, the Minnesota public interest research group, recently released a report which shows that low-income wage-earners are subsidizing the college education of middle and upper income students.

The report, "A Cost-Benefit Analysis of Minnesota Higher Education," is the product of almost two years of work by Carol Grant, a law student at the University of Minnesota.

The study analyzed tax burdens, attendance rates and disbursements of scholarships in concluding that "those in the less affluent income groups receive less from post-secondary schooling than they put into it, speaking in monetary terms."

In addition, it was found that "the transfer of benefits from lower to upper income groups is particularly strong at the University of Minnesota. Students in the $15,000—$20,000 income bracket at the university have a net benefit transfer over $1,120 per capita annually from the state."

The study further noted that the impact of the Minnesota state scholarship program is "minimal" in alleviating the funding inequities.

Due to the complexity of the subject, an alternative education financing proposal was not included in the report. Grant did state that "possible solutions include altering college admissions policies to increase the attendance rates of low income students, and to increase the money appropirated to the Minnesota higher education coordinating commission for scholarships many times over."

Vojel, Ada; Roseau—Kendra Broten, Roseau; Catherine Docken, Greenbush, and Gail Erickson, Pencer; Clearwater—Debbi Ysen, Shevlin; Lois Bergman, Clearbrook; and Nancy Anderson, Bagley; Pennington—Jean Vatsaas, Thief River Falls; Mahnomen—Donna Mae Spaeth, Mahnomen; and Red Lake—Treva Gustafson, St. Hilaire; Susan Kolstoe, Oklee; and Arlene Walker, Red Lake Falls.

Jon Miller of Roseau won the first Dairy Day purebred championship with a Jersey cow. Lillian Sollie of Fertile had the top grade entry, a Brown Swiss, and won the first purebred calf given to grade champion winners by the sponsoring Northwest Dairy Improvement association. Calves have been awarded each year with the 1974 recipient to be Marie Dahlgren of Roseau. Marie had the reserve champion grade animal in 1973 but will receive the calf because the champion had won in a previous year.

Again this year there will be participation awards to all entrants at Northwest Dairy Day and a number of prizes for winners. Special awards will be given for showmanship, best uddered cow of the show, individual dairy herd and county dairy herd in addition to the champion purebred, champion grade and overall show champion. An outstanding young dairyman award will also be presented.

For the first year since Northwest Dairy Day began, Stuart McLeod is not president of the sponsoring dairy improvement association. He succeeded in convincing the board that he really wanted to step aside after 24 years of service and Klem Gigstad of Thief River Falls was elevated from the vice presidency to take his place. McLeod was elected president emeritus of the organization he helped to found and continues to take an active interest in the dairy day production.

"The Moment Of Truth"

Ose Gives Views On Film Showing

by Roger Ose
Missionary to Madagascar

Nearly 300 people had gathered in the church. They gladly paid the entrance fee to see the film—four cents for students and 20 cents for adults. The Malagasy pastor led in prayer and then gave the introduction to the film, "The Book That Would Not Burn." Then he motioned to me to start up the generator.

I walked out to the porch, looked over the plug-ins on the transformer, and then carefully took that last minute check of the Honda generator. It looked OK: gas turned on. . . motor switch on. . . .generator switch off. . . choke OK. . . .and enough gas in the tank for the evening.

Then, with my heart pounding in my throat, I gave one hard pull on the stater rope. Would it start? It did. And on the first pull, too. That's usually a good omen. I let it warm up a bit at the 110 volt level. Then gradually I turned the throttle up to the 230 volt level. I listened, to make sure the motor sounded OK. Then I backed it down to the 220 volt level. It was all systems go, as far as the motor was concerned.

Then I walked into the church to begin showing the film. I turned on the sound and waited a minute or so. OK. Then I turned on the projector motor. OK. Even the projector bulb came on without a flicker. Slowly but surely the old gal (twenty year old RCA projector) took off. I breathed a sigh of relief.

As I showed the film last night I couldn't help but smile at how tense I get each evening during that interval from the time I pull the starter rope on the generator until I have the movie going at full speed. For me that's the "moment of truth." If some little thing seems to be going wrong during that brief interval, it's a pretty good indication of trouble I'll have later in the eveing.

For example, at Manafiafy the main drive belt on the projector was slipping. I discovered this during the "moment of truth." It didn't go away. During the second reel the belt got so hot it slipped half the time. With the reduced speed on the voice band, the voice sounded like a drunk on New Year's Eve. So I cut the sound switch, and narrated the movie myself. A few minutes later the main lamp of the projector burned out because the voltage tot up to 230.

That night I drove to Fort Dauphin to find the projector repairman. I got to his home at 1 a.m., and all was dark. I slept in the front seat of the Jeep until dawn, and then knocked on his door. He and I worked on the projector but didn't get it ready in time for a film showing that night at another Malagasy village by the river. I let those people down.

The feeling I get during the brief interval from the time I pull the starter rope until all systems are going is like a guy gets when he calls up a new girlfriend for the first time. It's a tense, exciting few seconds.

Or it's like a rocket crew must feel when they hear, "Ten, nine, eight, seven, six. . .!" Or maybe it's like the feeling an airplane pilot gets as the plane sits on the end of the runway and he revs up all engines for a few seconds just before take-off. It's the "moment of truth."

("The Book That Would Not Burn", mentioned in the above article, is available with English sound track from Augsburg Films, 425 South Fourth St., Minneapolis, Minn. 55415. It is the first 16mm color and sound film ever produced, filmed and manufactured in Madagascar.)

Sen. Fitzsimons Hears Bemidji Faculty Issue

State Senator Richard Fitzimons said today he was interested in hearing all sides of the controversial faculty reduction issue at Bemidji state college.

Fitzsimons was one of six legislators participating on a panel which discussed the matter before students, faculty, administrators and local citizens at the college May 24.

"It's a very emotional and complicated matter," said the Warren senator, "and I hope our panel brought both sides closer together."

Some faculty members at Bemidji and other state college have been notified that they will not be rehired after next year because of the declining enrollments and increasing costs.

One of the key issues is whether tenured instructors in departments with declining enrollments should be terminated before less experienced instructors in departments with increasing enrollments.

"Based on the arguments I've heard," Sen. Fitzsimons said, "I am leaning toward retaining the more experienced teachers regardless of the enrollment."

The panel is one of a series sponsored by the Independent-Republican caucus of the state legislature on key statewide issues.

Inventors Add Award For Energy Saving Devices

1974 Minnesota inventors congress had added a new award for inventions open to competition this year—energy saving devices. The directors felt this would be an area of concern for both inventors and the public.

The market should be fertile, the need obvious and industry should be eager to get in early on the possibilities, officials said. Some thoughtful, clever inventors could easily become quite successful, and from the way things appear, the need will last for some time.

MIC has hopes of getting George Riojas from St. Paul to exhibit his technique for making his own oil and "gasoline". This should prove interesting, educational and also help dispell the belief that only big companies have the resources to make headway in developing some fairly complex products.

Any inventors with products ready to market or inventions to show or sell should contact the Minnesota Inventors Congress, Box 71, Redwood Falls, MN 56283 for details on the 1974 Congress coming up this June 8 and 9.

Area Students At UMC Now In Job Training

Many students who attend the University of Minnesota technical college, Crookston (UMC) are busy this summer completing their internship program—learning on the job and earning at the same time.

All UMC students majoring in agriculture, business, home and family services, or hotel, restaurant and institutional managment (HRI) take an internship program at some time during their two years of college, usually between the freshman and sophomore years. Faculty members attempt to find jobs that will be most beneficial to the student in the career being studied.

During the program, the student earns about 12 college credits, and is gaining knowledge of his major field. He works as any employee would, except he is given training in many facets of the business. When he receives his associate in applied science degree a the end of two years, he has work experience to offer, coupled with a degree.

Crop science majors John Becker, Warren, and Michael Higgins, Sarles, N.D., are both interning as research plot technicians at state experiment stations. Becker is at the Morris experiment station, and Higgins is at the Northwest Experiment Station, Crookston.

Mike Sellnow, Verndale, is getting experience in soil and water conservation engineering at the Pennington county soil and water conservation district in Thief River Falls, and Gary Meyer, Red Lake Flls, is working at Crookston Implement for his diversified agriculture internship.

Home and family service majors are busy throughout the area in this new program's first year for internship placings. Gayle Anderson, Kennedy, and Janice Vraa, McIntosh, are working at the Polk county day activitiy center with mentally retarded pre-schoolers. They will later work with adults. Lila Torgerson, Alvarado, and Cindy Tranby, McIntosh, are both working with the elderly. Miss Torgerson is at the Warren Nursing home, and Miss Tranby is employed at the Erskine Memorial home.

Robin Smith, Herman, is an occupational therapy aide in Morris, and Darlene Ellefson, Red Lake Falls, the first graduate in home and family services, was an assistant programmer for the retired senior volunteer program (RSVP) at the Tri-Valley Opportunity council, Crookston.

Susan Regimbal, Stephen, a legal secretarial major, is working for attorney Harold Myhre in Warren. Legal-medical secretary major Linda Hoppe is working in the office at Crookston's Riverview hospital, and Krista Boen, Strandquist, an executive medical secretary, is working for the Polk county agent's office.

Minn. DFL Sets Telethon Goal For $200,000

Minnesota DFL'ers have set a goal of collecting over $200,000 in pledges from 25,000 of the state's citizens through a joint Dollars for Democrats drive and telethon. Minnesota co-chairmen of the Telethon, Gov. Wendell Anderson and attorney general Warren Sapnnaus, made the announcement recently.

Anderson and Spannaus noted that the DFL raised $150,000 from 15,000 contributors in a similar effort last year. Democratic Telethon '74 is scheduled for June 29 and 30th over CBS TV. DFLers begin their Dollars for Democrats drive on June 10 and continue through June 28.

Funds received through the telethon and drive will be used to finance party activites in all area and to supply services to candidates in this fall's election. Local, state and national party organizations split the net telethon and dollars for Democrats profits three ways.

Theme of the telethon '74 is "Answer America" and hopes to generate a postive response from Democrats throughout the nation, proving that the public will finance the political system if given the chance. The telethon effort is geared to strengthen the Democratic party at all levels through a fund-raising effort.

State DFL officials have completed a series of 20 regional conferences held throughout Minnesota and designed to mobilize local DFL organizations on behalf of the telethon. Approximately 800 DFLers attended the meetings.

DLFers also are planning 500 local TV parties on Saturday evening, June 29, to kick off the first day of the 21-hour Telethon.

FATHER'S DAY JUNE 16TH

Wet May Continues Below Normal Temp.

May continued the trend set by recent months in the Thief River Falls area. The month's mean temperature was more than six degrees below the 10 year average with the average daily high more than 10 degrees below normal. Freezing temperatures were recorded as late as May 15 when the mercury dipped to 30 degrees. Rainfall was of considerable concern to local farmers waiting for their fields to dry sufficiently to permit planting. May was uncooperative with at least a trace of precipitation recorded on 24 days for a total of 3.55 inches of rain. That is about an inch more than the 10 year average of 2.56 inches.

The month's high was 75 degrees on May 28. That was the same as the April high. On May 11 the mercury only reached 40 degrees for the day's high reading.

The low for the month was 24 degrees on May 4. The low reading on May 21 was 54 degrees for the month's highest daily low.

Bankers Join In Salute To Dairy Month In June

Minnesota Bankers association (MBA) has joined with the American Dairy association in a month-long salute to the Minnesota dairy industry for the 1974 June Dairy month, according to MBA President B. P. Allen Jr.

Allen announced that again this year Minnesota banks will be presenting special lobby and window displays, serving dairy food samples and making other special efforts as a salute to the dairy industry.

According to Allen, there are 38,000 plus dairy farm families in Minnesota with over $600 million in gross income during 1973 which was spent for goods and services produced and provided in our state.

"Dairying adds to the wealth and well being of all who live in Minnesota", he said, "and the Minnesota Bankers assoication's member banks are pleased to join the American Dairy association in supporting June Dairy month."

June 3, 1959, the Air Force Academy's first class of 207 graduates received commissions as officers of the USAF.

Pennington 4-H Members To Go To Washington

Two 4-H'ers from Pennington county will leave August 10 for the six-day 1974 citizenship short course at the national 4-H center in Washington, D.C.

Attending from Pennington county are Marya Hallstrom from the Black River 4-H club and Marsha Adamson from the City View 4-H club.

Marya is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Hallstrom of rural Red Lake Falls. She is 17 years old and will be a senior at Lincoln high school this fall. She has been in 4-H nine years and is active in the junior leadership, home improvement, clothing, child care and foods projects.

Marsha is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. LaVerne Adamson of route 1, Thief River Falls. For the past nine years Marsha has been a member of the City View 4-H club. Safety, photography, junior leadership, clothing and knitting are projects in which she has excelled.

The six-day course is conducted by the national 4-H foundation to supplement citizenship training provided on the state level. Young citizens attending the course are helped in realizing their potential as an effective participant in a democratic system of government. The course includes citizenship discussions at the center followed by educational tours of the national capital.

Johnson And Law Are Delegates To Methodist Meet

Rev. Jonathan Law and Mrs. Pat Johnson of United Methodist church in Thief River Falls are delegates to the four-day United Methodist state-wide conference session to begin Monday in St. Cloud. Alternate delegates from the local congregation are Ted Hellie and Quentin Jones.

Bishop Wayne K. Clymer of Minneapolis will preside. Conference members will deliberate and legislate program, budget and special issues. Celebrations of the faith include a Holy Communion service on Monday, laity night on Tuesday, and the ordination of 10 persons as elders and 19 persons as deacons on Wednesday evening.

All conference sessions are scheduled at Atwood center on the St. Cloud state college campus, except the service of ordination which wil be at Collegeville. Bishop Clymer said "Minnesota United Methodists are pleased to celebrate the service of ordination in the abbey at St. John's university. The generosity of the Benedictine order in making the abbey available is symbolic of the warm ecumenical relations which exist in the state of Minnesota."

"One of the most difficult issues with which the annual conference must deal," observes Bishop Clymer, "is the proposal for a $6.5 million capital funds drive to strengthen the pension program of the conference. With spiraling inflation retired ministers are caught with fixed incomes placing their small pensions in a decreasing scale of value. At the same time the cost to maintain a pension program places a heavy strain upon the conference budget, making difficult the full support of annual conference missional projects."

Conferees are to act upon a plan to establish a top-level central coordinating committee which will have authority to act upon emergency and administrative matters between conference sessions.

A decision will be made whether or not to approve a formula which would guarantee lay representation to annual conference equal or greater than clergy participation. The conference must also decide if it will subsidize and formalize a commission on the role and status of women.

For the first time no formal resolutions on social issues will be presented to the conference by its board on church and society. Rather, individuals and local churches have been encouraged to bring such issues before the conference for action.

Bergland Urges Farmers To Ask For Disaster Aid

U. S. Representative Bob Bergland recently urged all farmers who have suffered crop losses or who have been unable to get into their fields because of excess rainfall and flooding to contact their local ASCS offices to determine possible eligibility for federal disaster payments.

The 1973 farm act, Rep. Bergland explained, contains provisions authorizing federal payments for wheat and feed grains lost or unplanted because of adverse weather.

"Under the legislation, a county need not be declared a disaster area by the President or designated as such by the secretary of agriculture," the 7th district congressman continued. "Congress had recognized that conditions, like those now being experienced in much of northwestern Minnesota, can be catastrophic for the farmer although not reaching disaster proportions for the rest of the population," Bergland said.

While emphasizing that actual losses must have taken place and "reasonable planting deadlines" must have been reached before the actual payments can be made, Bergland urged farmers who think they may be eligible for the partial payments to contact their ASCS office immediately.

"The department of agriculture has developed complex regulations and formulas to determine eligibility," he said, "and we don't want anyone missing out because of technicalities." Bergland said it was expecially important to contact ASCS before plowing or replanting lost crops.

Guard, Reserve Support Group Is Appointed

A state committee for "Employer Support to the Guard and Reserve" programs was appointed recently following a joint meeting in the governor's office between Governor Wendell R. Anderson; J.M. Roche, national committee chairman; and newly appointed Minnesota chairman, Norris K. Carnes.

The committee's purpose is to obtain support of employers for the National Guard and Reserve components and increase public awareness of the role of these forces in our overall national defense effort.

Carnes, former chairman of the Central Livestock association, will head the committee consisting of leaders in Minnesota business, education and financial institutions.

The national committee for employer support of the National Guard and Reserve was formed by President Richard M. Nixon in 1972, and is headed by Roche, former chairman of the board of General Motors corporation.

"Over 50 per cent of all employers in the United States have signed statements of support for the National Guard and Reserve so far", stated Roche in a talk before a joint meeting of the Minneapolis and St. Paul Chambers of Commerce at the Minnesota club. The statements recognize "the National Guard and Reserve as essential to the strength of our nation and the maintenance of world peace", and state that an employee will not be penalized for his Guard or Reserve duty.

Increase Seen In Youths For Summer Jobs

Summer increase in the number of youths in the labor force is estimated at about 3.8 million for 1974, about the same as in the past two years, the U.S. Department of Labor's Bureau of Labor Statistics announced.

Each summer the school age labor force, 16 to 24 years old, increases sharply as students enter the job market for summer work and as high school and college graduates, who were not in the labor force while attending school, take or look for regular jobs.

For July 1974, the labor force age 16-to 24 years is estimated at 24.4 million, about 500,000 greater than in July 1973.

Students entering the labor force for summer work will total about 2.3 million or 60 per cent of the total expected increase from April to July. The rest, 1.5 million, will be high school and college graduates entering the work force on a permanent basis.

Excluded from the latter estimate of graduates are 685,000 students who were already in the work force in April (most of them employed part-time) and who will be shifting to permanent labor market participation by July after they complete school.

Minnesota Milk Production Up 11 Million Pounds

April milk production on Minnesota dairy farms totaled 901-million pounds, second only to Wisconsin nationally, and represented nearly nine per cent of the U. S. total, reports the Minnesota department of agriculture.

That was an increase of 11-million pounds or 1.2 per cent over Minnesota's milk production for the same month last year. Only California with a 24-million pound increase topped Minnesota among the major holdouts against the national trend to lower milk production.

Minnesota's milk cows set a second consecutive monthly record for average production, 1,010 pounds of milk per cow for April. The state's cow had averaged 1,050 pounds of milk for March.

Record output per cow was the big factor in increased milk production because the total number of cows was 892,000, another all-time low, 2,000 less than March and 26,000 below the count for April, 1973.

Only the milk cows in three other states, California, Washington and Oregon, beat Minnesota on April average production per cow. Minnesota topped all midwest states by a wide margin, and the national average by 109 pounds per cow. Wisconsin cows averaged 915 pounds, Iowa 825, Illinois 860, Nebraska 850, South Dakota 840, pounds of milk per cow.

National milk production for April was 10,084-million pounds, down 237-million pounds or 2 per cent less than for the same month of 1973.

For the first four months of 1974 Minnesota's milk production totals 3,477-million pounds, an increase of 45-million pounds, or 1.3 per cent ahead of the same period in 1973. The total puts Minnesota 103-million pounds ahead of California and 200-million pounds ahead of New York, second and third respectively ahead of Minnesota in 1973 milk output.

HOME IMPROVEMENT LOANS? WE KNOW HOW TO HELP

You get something more than the money you need with our home improvement loans.

We'll help you determine just how much value your planned improvement will add to your property.

It's an important consideration. Because generally, it's unwise to increase home value more than 15% above that of other homes in a neighborhood.

We'll make the borrowing easy, too. At low bank interest rates. We'll tailor payments to your budget.

And probably approve your loan the same day you apply.

Tell us your plans now. We know how to help you make not only a nicer home . . . but a sound investment, too.

Planning Grant Authorized For Headwaters Area

Approval of a 145,000 grant to help plan for long-range economic growth and new jobs in a five-county area of Minnesota has been announced by William W. Blunt Jr., assistant secretary of commerce for economic development.

Grant from the economic development administration, U.S. department of commerce, will go to the Headwaters Regional Development commission at Bemidji.

The commission will use the funds to help pay the cost of a staff conducting a planning program for the counties of Beltrami, Clearwater, Hubbard, Lake of the Woods and Mahnomen.

EDA's planning program encourages adjacent communities to coordinate their efforts at overcoming unemployment and laging growth by combining resources and developing regional projects.

All counties in the Headwaters region are EDA-designated redevelopment areas eligible to participate in the full range of EDA programs: loans and grants to construct public works facilities that are needed to attract industry; loans to help private enterprise expand to locate new plants in the area; and grants for planning and technical assistance.

The commission will add $21,744 to complete the $86,744 total cost of the program for one year.

MIRACLE WATER

The ice cream sundae, one of today's most popular ice cream desserts, was born in Evanston, Illinois because of a strange law. When a law was passed forbidding the sale of ice cream sodas on Sunday, local merchants got around it by serving ice cream with just syrup. The "sodaless soda" came to be known as a "Sunday" but then objections arose naming a dessert after the Lord's Day, so it became known as a sundae, but it, like the soda, was not banned.

Something that homemakers like more than an ice cream sundae, a Miracle Water Refiner, was born not because of any law, but to create clean, refreshing sparkling water throughout your home. The Miracle Water Refiner not only softens, it cleans, removes taste and odor such as chlorine and it filters your water as well. Once you see and enjoy the difference, you will never want to go back to ordinary tap water. Your cooked foods will taste better, your floors and walls will sparkle, your laundry will smell fresher, be softer and cleaner. Call 681-7224 and find out more about this modern wonder today.

BAGLEY BASE RUNNER Mike Thoreson grimaced as he slid across homeplate with the Flyers' first run in the second inning of Monday night's Thief River Falls-Bagley first round region eight baseball tournament game. Prowler catcher Greg Sorenson waits for a throw that never came. Thief River Falls won the game 7-6.

PROWLER FIRST BASEMAN Chris Biegner applied a tag to a Bemidji base runner on a pick-off play at first base during Tuesday night's region eight baseball tournament championship game at Red Lake Falls. The runner was ruled safe, though, and Bemidji went on to claim a 4-1 win.

Governor's Party

The governor's fishing party, an annual event, was conducted at Quadna Mt. Lodge in Hill City recently.

There were approximately 160 guests. Lisa Lebedoff, head of the Minnesota department of tourism, welcomed the guests. The party was one of the largest since its inception many years ago under previous governors. The Lodge, filled to capacity, overflowed to its adjacent motel located on the entrance road leading to Quadna Mt. Lodge, both owned and operated by Tom O'Fallon.

Many writers fished lakes as far as fifty miles from the lodge, while others chose to fish Hill Lake, Spirit Lake or other nearby lakes.

The first few weeks of the 1974 fishing season were slow to medium according to reports sent to this column. Water temperature was below normal and the walleyes were still spawning in many lakes.

The writers who attended the annual governor's fishing party found one lake near Hill City that did provide the necessary entertainment. Split Hand lake is eight miles north of Quadna Mountain Lodge and nearly every fisherman came off the lake with limits of walleye from to two four pounds. Minnows were the best bait. Leeches were used to catch walleyes in Big Winnie. Lake Minnewawa near McGregor provided the walleye that won the trophy given for the largest walleye caught at the party. It was caught by State senator Edward Sehrom of Albany. The fish weighted five pounds two ounces and was caught on a shinner minnow and small spinner. Sehrom is chairman of the Minnesota senate game and fish committee.

Other fishermen had luck in Minnewawa according to Lore Willey of McGregor. Tim, Mark and Dan Tierney along with Jerry Fredrickson all of McGregor had 21 walleyes weighing from two to four pounds. Willey also reported a northern weighing 19 pounds caught in Big Sandy lake by Denis Carter of Chisholm.

Walker Rreport

Dan Ellseuson, director of the Walker Chamber of Commerce, does not believe in keeping secrets. He will tell you that the hottest spots on Leech Lake early in the season were northeast, Sugar Point, swinging south to the Whipholt area, Stony Point, Little Stoney and Walker Bay. The largest walleye weighed eight pounds 9 ounces with six others going over seven pounds. In all, 14 walleyes weighing over six pounds were reported.

The big ones were caught at a depth of 10 to 18 feet.

Alexandria Report

Jim Clayton of the Alexandria Chamber of Commerce stated Lake Darling was the scene of good walleye fishing early in the season. El and Doon Schiltz of Esterville, Ia., caught eight walleye in less than an hour. The fish weighed two to four pounds.

A Case In Point

Four writers invited by governor Wendell Anderson to participate in his annual fishing party, made small news because they are women. Individually well known, belonging to two or more writer's clubs, each have received important achievement recognitions in their specific medias of reporting, broadcasting, travel writers, photographers, guide, news and sports writers. Two are also book authors. Connie Howes, Jean Loetang, Marcia Fleur and Deee Mann, enjoyed the weekend becoming reacquainted, fishing, swimming, golfing and visiting with old friends.

Imitation milk has been legalized in North Carolina.

RIVER FISHING picked up in the size category Saturday morning for Dennis (Butch) Klein and Larry Rahn of Thief River Falls. The six northerns ranged from five to seven pounds with a total weight of 36 pounds for a neat six-pound average. The men didn't volunteer information on where they found the hefty fish, except to say the Red Lake river.

Ralph Skay completed his remarkable 22 year Thief River Falls baseball coaching career Tuesday night when defending state champion Bemidji beat his Prowlers 4-1 in the 1974 region eight championship game at Red Lake Falls.

Ralph Skay

Skay's 1974 team, at one time only 4-7 this spring, played strong season ending ball to finish at 8-8, marking the 21st time in his 22 years here that his team finished at .500 or better. Only once, in 1970 when the Prowlers went 5-7, did Skay-coached Thief River Falls teams finish a season with a losing record. His Prowler teams compiled an eye-catching 285-103-1 record over 22 years for an impressive .733 winning percentage.

Skay wanted to leave the sport a winner and he did by directing his final squad to the district 31 tournament championship—his 14th district title. He would have liked to beat Bemidji, of course, but he realized it would have taken a super Prowler effort and a sub-par Lumberjack performance to give Thief River Falls its fourth region title under Skay. Instead, the well-liked coach had to take satisfaction from watching his heavily underdog team play a fine ball game, reflective of his unquestioned coaching ability, against the Lumberjacks.

As Skay walked from the field for the final time he was trying to hold back emotions that showed he was giving up something that he has loved and had devoted a major portion of his life to over the past 34 years.

Although he is leaving the sport, he should be remembered. A move should be made, perhaps, to name the fairgrounds ball park after the man who began the sport at Lincoln high school 22 years ago.

Jeff Houfek and Jerry Sandahl, juniors on this year's Lincoln high school track squad, were elected co-captains of the 1975 Prowler track team, it was announced Monday by head coach Marv Walter.

Houfek, a sprinter, and Sandahl, a hurdler, will succeed 1974 Prowler captain Lonnie Olson.

—0—

Don Rockstad, Littlefork-Big Falls' highly successful basketball coach for the past eight years, was named as the new head basketball coach at Detroit Lakes following the resignation of Bruce Douglas.

Rockstad compiled a 135-44 won-lost record at Littlefork-Big Falls. His 1971-72 squad won the region eight championship and competed in the Minnesota state high school class A tournament.

Littlefork-Big Falls won the district 29 title four times from 1968 to 1973 under Rockstad, finishing second in the region eight tournament three times while winning the school's lone region eight championship in 1972 with a stunning 59-55 title game win over heavily favored Crookston.

Bemidji Beats TRF 4-1 For Region 8 Title

Bemidji erupted for three runs in the bottom of the fourth inning Tuesday to beat Thief River Falls 4-1 in the championship game of the 1974 region eight baseball tournament played on the Red Lake Falls diamond.

The strong Lumberjacks, heavily favored entering the tournament, trailed the keyed-up Prowlers 1-0 through half of the well played game before capitilizing on some shakey Thief River Falls play in the fourth to take a 3-1 lead enroute to Bemidji's unprecedented seventh straight region eight baseball title.

"I knew they (Bemidji) were a good ball club and I knew it was going to be tough for us. I had just hoped that we would be able to play a good ball game and stay with them," said visibly disappointed Prowler coach Ralph Skay immediately after the game. "I think we did play a very fine game. We just had that one inning."

Thief River Falls gained a surprising 1-0 second inning lead on unexpected back to back base hits by Duane Gonsorowski and Jon Peterson after hard throwing Bemidji lefthander Andy Kannenberg had struck out the first two batters of the inning. Gonsorowski, a sophomore, dribbled a single over the third base bag and scored moments later when the already graduated Peterson caught a Kannenberg fast ball on the meat-portion of the bat and sent the ball over centerfielder Stan Drew's head for a run producing double.

The startling early success against Kannenberg, who had struck out 21 Prowlers in a seven inning game earlier this season, provided Thief River Falls with a surge of confidence obvious to the large crowd on hand. Bemidji managed just a soft third inning single by Bob Johnson over the first three innings against Prowler senior righthander Randy Dallmann.

The hard throwing Dallmann, making his first pitching start in two weeks because of a shoulder injury, tired in the fourth, though, and spotty Thief River Falls defensive play behind him allowed three Bemidji runs.

Jim Conway started the Bemidji fourth with a single to left, moving to second on a passed ball. Perry Dyer walked and both runners moved up on an pick-off attempt error at second base. Dave Berg singled one run home for a 1-1 ballgame. The Lumberjacks took the lead moments later when a Prowler error on a successful Bemidji double steal allowed Dreyer to score from third and permitted Berg advance to second. After an infield ground out Kannenberg doubled up the middle for the third run of the inning.

Drew wrapped up the game's scoring in the fifth with a lead-off home run, a line drive smash over the deepest part of the centerfield area.

Kannenberg struck out nine and walked three batters while giving up only the two second inning base hits to pick up the pitching win. Dallmann took the loss although he surrendered just five hits while striking out four and walking five.

The Prowlers were guilty of all three errors in the well played game.

Bemidji now advances to the 1974 Minnesota state high school baseball tournament scheduled to be held June 12-14 at Midway Stadium in St. Paul.

Thief River Falls completed its season with an 8-8 record as Skay directed his 22nd and final Prowler baseball club. The veteran Thief River Falls coach had earlier announced his retirement from the sport at the end of the just completed season.

JOHN BUCKANAGA, Bemidji's premiere catcher, swatted away a high pop foul ball that bounced off home plate on this play during Tuesday night's region eight baseball tournament championship game at Red Lake Falls. Bemidji won its seventh straight region title by beating Thief River Falls 4-1.

TRF Tips Bagley 7-6 In Opener

A bases loaded walk in the bottom of the sixth inning forced in the game winning run Monday to give Thief River Falls an exciting 7-6 first round region eight baseball tournament win over Bagley on the Red Lake Falls diamond.

The well played game went into the sixth tied 6-6, but hard throwing Bagley righthander Randy Luggar tired and walked three batters after giving up an inning opening bunt single to Cliff Shumway. Walks to Jeff Lindquist and Randy Dallmann loaded the bases and another free pass to Duane Dicken forced home Shumway with the winning run. A pair of infield outs ended the Prowler sixth inning threat.

Thief River Falls senior Joel Folger protected the slim one-run lead with classy relief pitching to pick up the win. Folger, who replaced Prowler starter Jeff Langlie in the sixth, pitched two near perfect innings with only a Prowler error allowing a Bagley batter to reach first during his clutch performance.

Coach Ralph Skay's Lincoln high school ball club scored two quick first inning runs on a strange play when Chris Biegner lined a hard shot off Luggar's left arm. Biegner and Lindquist, who had walked ahead of Biegner, both scored on the play with a pair of Bagley throwing errors followed the two Prowler runners around the bases.

The Flyers tied the game 2-2 in the third on a lead-off walk, a double to deep center by Gene Gerbracht and a sacrifice fly by Luggar to deep rightfield.

Thief River Falls broke open a tight ball game in the bottom of the fourth by scoring four runs on four solid base hits and a Bagley error. After two batters had been retired Lindquist and Biegner timed a pair of slow off-speed Luggar pitches for back to back doubles to deep center. Lindquist's blast scored two runs and Biegner drove in Lindquist. A third straight Prowler base hit, a single up the middle by Dallmann, scored Biegner for an apparently comfortable 6-2 cushion.

Bagley jumped right back into contention, however, as the Flyers scored four runs of their own in the next half inning on identical statistics—four runs, four hits and one error.

A lead-off double to deep center by Joel Merek started the Bagley fifth inning rally. After two outs an error placed two Bagley runners on base. Luggar quickly cleared the bases, though, by belting a towering first pitch three run home run over the rightfield fence. Back to back singles by John Jordahl down the third base line and by Rick Luqette down the first base line accounted for another run when Jordahl scored on a passed ball for a 6-6 game.

Northmen Golf In NJCAA Meet

Northland community college golf team completed its first round of play Monday afternoon in the 1974 national junior college golf tournament being held on the Mirror Lakes country club course near Ft. Myers, Florida.

Northland coach Al Adams phoned Northland's first day scores to the Times Monday. Freshman Jim Strandemo from Mahnomen turned in Northland's top individual effort with a 77. Sophomore Jay Moum of Thief River Falls finished right behind Strandemo with a 78 and Mark Metusalem, another Thief River Falls sophomore, carded a first day 81. Lee Sorensen, a third Thief River Falls sophomore on the squad, completed a tough first round with an 88. Dick Penning, a Thief River Falls freshman, was still golfing when Adams called in the scores.

Odessa, Texas, was the early NJCAA meet leader with a 282 team score, followed by Phoenix, Arizona, with a 302. Cocoa, Florida, and Alexander City, Alabama, were also within easy striking range of Odessa after the first day's golfing, reported Adams.

Adams indicated that Northland would probably total about a 318 once Penning completed his first round.

A total of 23 junior college golf teams are taking part in the prestigious tournament. Half of each day's team have a 7:30 a.m. tee-off time while the other half begin at 11:30. Northland started in the 11:30 group Monday; a situation not likened since the later starting teams have to contend with 90 to 95 degree temperatures and strong gulf winds that are not present earlier in the day. Northland was scheduled to be among the 7:30 golfers today (Tuesday).

The tournament will continue today through Friday, featuring 18 holes of golf per day. The national team titlist will be decided by the scores of the low four golfers for the 72 hole tournament. A cut will be made after 36 holes to the low 15 teams and any school within 15 shots of the leading team, and to the low 20 individuals or any individual within 15 shots of the leader.

Adams pointed out that the Mirror Lakes course is "Real plush. Very nice and long."

The Northland squad left Thief River Falls by car a week ago, driving day and night to reach Ft. Myers in time for weekend practice rounds—a distance of 2,000 miles.

Restad and Jury will play 18 holes in the state golf meet Thursday. The second 18 will be played Friday starting at 8 a.m. Rested will tee-off from the first tee at 1:31 and Jury will start from the tenth tee at 1:38. Some 107 individuals will be competing in the state meet. All schools with at least three entries will be vying for the team title. Bemidji will represent region eight in the state golf tournament.

"It's going to be tough for them down there," pointed out Prowler golf coach Jack Boyer. "But individually, Restad, being a senior, could work hard and play strong golf to possibly earn himself a scholarship while the big thing for Jury is gaining valuable experience since he's only a sophomore."

Engelstad and Breiland have been given a real shot at making a strong showing at the state tennis tournament by Prowler tennis coach Whitey Olson, especially after the Prowler teammates' stunning upset of Bemidji's highly regarded Virgil Malbraaten and Dale Kullheim in the region eight championship match.

"People all over the state had Bemidji's doubles team rated extremely high and based on our win over them I feel that we'll have a good crack at a very strong showing down there," explained Olson. "If they (Engelstad and Breiland) get off to a good start and get their confidence going they'll be alright. Confidence is the biggest thing at the state meet."

Engelstad and Breiland will play their first match Friday at 9 a.m. against Dave Malskog and Joe Haukebo of Moorhead.

There will be 16 doubles teams playing in the state's individual tournament Friday, along with 16 singles players. Brent Reichert of Crookston will represent region eight in the singles play. Bemidji will represent region eight in Thursday's team play.

Grain Belt 4

The early week's key game featured Hamms-Pizza Hut against Grain Belt, with Hamms-Pizza Hut erupting for five runs in the bottom of the seventh inning to erase a 4-0 deficit and post a come-from-behind 5-4 triumph.

Grain Belt jumped out to a quick 3-0 first inning lead and checked Hamms-Pizza Hut on just three base hits in the first six innings.

Grain Belt made it 4-0 in the top of the seventh before the Hamms-Pizza Hut offense jelled as Mike Hammerlink led off with a single, moved to second on a single by Mike Rasch and went to third on a bases loading walk issued to Dale Hanson. Ken Lindquist singled home two runs, another scored on a fielder's choice and Jon Pream belted a one-out two run triple to win the game in dramatic fashion.

NCC And Agassiz Counting Refuge Moose Numbers

Agassiz refuge in cooperation with Northland community college is conducting a computer study to predict the moose population at the refuge.

The project is an outgrowth of a similar study down a few years ago by Jeff Hess, a former student at Northland, regarding the grizzly bear population at Agassiz refuge.

Orren Bendickson, biology instructor at Northland and Tom Atkins of the Agassiz refuge are developing the moose population research study.

MPCA Approves Funds To Study Clarity In Lakes

Minnesota pollution control agency (MPCA) board has approved funds for the first year of a program designed to measure the water clarity and algal levels of about half of Minnesota's lakes.

The program will be under the direction of Dr. Joseph Shapiro of the limnological research center (LRC) at the University of Minnesota. Shapiro conducted a successful demonstration program last year involving 100 lakes and will expand his program to 1000 lakes in 1974.

The test uses a "Secchi disc", a small white disc with a calibrated cord. To perform the measurement, the disc is lowered into the water until it is no longer visible. The cord is then marked and data is reported to the LRC. The data will be analyzed by a computer and reported to the MPCA, the Department of Natural Resources and the individual participants.

Private citizens are being recruited to perform the simple measurement, including lake home residents, conservation groups or interested citizens.

The program is unique because it is the first attempt in Minnesota to establish an on-going survey of algal levels in Minnesota lakes. The measurement will be taken 18 times between the early spring and fall; in the past, only one measurement was taken sporadically and the data was often inaccurate according to an MPCA biologist.

A ten-county area will be surveyed the first year. The same area will be surveyed again periodically to determine the algal status of state lakes.

Minnesota is the first state to launch such a survey on such a broad scale, according to an MPCA spokesman.

The MPCA board granted $5,000 to fund the program for 1974.

David J. Forsberg of Thief River Falls pleaded guilty to three charges. He was fined $200 for reckless driving, $50 for possessing an open alcoholic beverage container in a motor vehicle and $50 for disorderly conduct involving a fight with a police officer. SHIELDING HIS FACE from the heat, Rudolph (Rudy) Rude kept his distance as the fuel tank on a camper bus exploded yesterday (Tuesday) when fire destroyed four buildings on his farm near Thief River Falls. Although damage was extensive, the fire was prevented from spreading to a nearby house and a barn. The blaze started in the farm shop and destroyed a bunkhouse, a garage presently used to store fertilizer and another storage shed. Local firemen sprayed water on the fuel tanks at left to keep them cool and prevent them from igniting.

Gasoline Prices Drop Slightly During The Week

Average gas prices dropped slightly this week and more than half of the state's gasoline stations were open for Sunday sales according to the Minnesota state automobile association (AAA) and the auto clubs of Minneapolis and St. Paul.

In its weekly survey of gasoline stations around the state, the motoring organizations found gasoline supplies continuing to improve. Virtually all the stations contacted, said gas supplies were either the same or better than last week.

The average price for regular gasoline this past week was 55.2 cents per gallon, down from 55.3 cents the week before. The average price for premium was 58.7 cents, down from 58.8 cents last week.

More than two thirds of the stations contacted reported operating hours past 7 p.m. on weekdays and Saturdays. The percentage of stations open for Sunday sales of gas is the highest since the lifting of the voluntary band the AAA said.

Stations in St. Paul reported the highest average prices, nearly one and one-half cents higher than stations in Minneapolis. Outstate stations reported the lowest average prices, the AAA reported.

Minnesota AAA continues to urge motorists to reduce unnecessary driving, plan vacations close to home and practice fuel conservation.

'U' Professor Emeritus Gets Missouri Medal

Raymond B. Nixon, professor emeritus of journalism and international communication at the University of Minnesota, has received a "Medal of Honor in Journalism" from the University of Missouri.

The honor marks Nixon's 50th year in journalism education. He was cited primarily for his contributions to teaching and research in the field of international journalism.

Since his retirement from Minnesota in 1971, Nixon has lectured or conducted seminars at several universities, including Ohio State University and the University of Florida. He spends half of each year abroad, primarily in Latin America, working as a consultant and lecturer.

Since 1950 he has conducted seminars and lectured in universities in 40 foreign countries. He was a member of the Minnesota journalism faculty from 1952 until 1971.

Survey Shows 17-Year-Olds Read Papers

Newspaper front page still attracts young readers but television and radio comedies are highly favored, according to a survey of Minnesota 17-year-olds by the Minnesota department of education.

The survey was included in a questionnaire administered to eleventh graders and 17-year-olds during the first Minnesota educational assessment of reading conducted last year. The results of media reading, listening and viewing habits were released today by the education department's office of statewide educational assessment.

Of a 4,600 sample, 91 per cent said they regularly or sometimes read a newspaper's front page. Other newspaper sections rating highly were entertainment pages (86 per cent); comics (84 per cent); feature columns (67 per cent) and sports pages (60 per cent).

Among the least read sections of the newspaper, the 17-year-olds said they rarely or never read financial pages (87 per cent), editorials (63 per cent), women's pages (63 per cent) and society pages (56 per cent).

The teenagers apparently turn to television and radio for entertainment.

Ninty-four per cent of the 17-year-olds surveyed said they watched or listened to comedies, 88 per cent said they favored detective or mystery shows; 77 per cent listed murder and horror movies or stories; and 74 per cent said they enjoyed music and variety shows.

Other radio or television programs which rated high marks from the 17-year-olds surveyed included westerns (69 per cent), sports (67 per cent); give-away shows (63 per cent); talk shows (55 per cent); and news reports and documentaries (51 per cent).

Asks Allocation Of Petroleum For Asphalt Use

Warning of the inevitable consequences a prolonged shortage of asphalt will have on state and county investments in public roads, executive director Henrik Stafseth of the American association of state highway and transporation officials petitioned the federal energy office for the second time this year to set up a mandatory allocation of petroleum for asphalt production.

The asphalt shortage is said to be a result of the effort to extract additional motor fuel from every barrel of crude oil. Asphaltic materials come from the thick residual oil left behind after lighter fuels and lubricants have been drawn off in the cracking process.

Some 93 per cent of the nation's roads have bituminous surfacing, Stafseth pointed out, and if not maintained regularly with fresh asphaltic materials, they soon deteriorate to a point where they have to be rebuilt entirely. These roads represent a public investment of $93 billion.

About 75 per cent of all low-type bituminous roads and 57 per cent of the high-type become irreparable in six to ten years in the absence of periodic care. High-type bituminous roads have a base and surfacing more than seven and half inches deep, while the low-type are of lesser thicknesses. The effects of even short-term neglect of these roads soon become evident, Stafseth said.

There are about 8,300 miles of high-type bituminous roads and 1,200 miles of the low-type on Minnesota's 12,000-mile trunk highway system. Using Stafseth's figures as a rule of thumb, the bituminous roads on the state trunk highway system alone represent a public investment here of almost $549 million.

Practically all paved county state-aid highways, county roads, township roads and city streets in Minnesota are of bituminous construction.

From a survey of state and county highway departments, Stafseth said, it has been determined that the Minnesota highway department will require an estimated 185,000 tons of asphaltic materials this year, while Minnesota counties will need an estimated 600,000 tons. The estimates do not include prospective demands of municipalities, airports, and private contractors.

Especially hard-hit by the asphalt shortage and consequent rise in its price are county highway departments. Typical of the problems they face were those voiced recently by Ben Beauclair, St. Louis county highway engineer. Beauclair estimates that the road-patching program which cost $280,000 last year will double in cost this year. With the cost of asphalt concrete up from $38 a ton in 1973 to a possible $100 a ton this season, the bituminous overlay program of the county has been cut by 70 per cent.

Art Schellhammer of the Olmsted county highway department said "One of the worst springs ever"—with heavy rains followed by hard freezes—has broken up many of the bituminous roads in the county. The county has no option but to repair them or lose them, Schellhammer said, in explaining $250,000 worth of unscheduled blacktopping and repairs to the county board.

County highway departments are caught in a squeeze between higher materials costs and declining revenues for road work generated by the Minnesota gasoline tax of seven cents a gallon. Counties get 29 per cent of the highway user tax receipts collected by the State Highway User Fund. Despite an increase in road costs of nearly 70 per cent in the last six year, there has been no increase in the state gasoline tax since 1967.

Based on the asphalt requirements of the state and its counties, Stafseth said in his letter that the livelihoods of 34,735 Minnesota wage earners may be affected if sufficient supplies of asphaltic materials are not made available for roads by the Federal energy office on a mandatory allocation basis.

Energy Director Advises Against Switch From Oil

In a recent speech the newly appointed head of the federal energy office, John Sawhill, stated that the trend away from heating oil was a "very short-sighted policy" because it would force large utility price increases.

He pointed out that if more natural gas is used to heat homes, there would be less for industry. Industry in turn would have to switch to oil. This would drive up the price of oil used by utilities to generate electricity.

"And that raises the utility bill, which must be paid by the consumer who switched to gas," Sawhill said. He made his remarks at a recent meeting of the national oil jobbers council.

"We are very pleased that Mr. Sawhill is taking this position on the subject of homeowners' converting from oil heat to natural gas heat," said Jerry Everett, executive director of the Northwest Petroleum associaton. "His comments underline the fact that all energy supplies are currently in short supply and that switching from one to the other does not mean escaping the problem."

Tips For Drivers Caught In Storm

This is the season for storms, with tornados likely to touch down in June and July—in that order of likelihood. It also is the season for severe rainstorms, and they can occur throughout the summer.

If you are driving on the open road and are caught in a severe storm, the Minnesota department of public safety offers these tips for survival:

(1) Park in the open—that is, away from large trees, poles or metal objects such as buildings or guardrails. Lightning is attraced to all of these conductors when wet.

(2) Try to stay away from overhead power lines. Many of these are knocked down during severe storms.

(3) If a wire should hit your car, you are safe inside providing you avoid touching any metal parts. If you must use your horn, depress the button or ring with a piece of wood or plastic.

(4) While parked, keep your low-beam headlamps on so that you are visible to other traffic.

(5) If you are caught in a tornado, leave the car and lie flat in a gully or a ravine.

And finally, keep a cool head. If you follow the above instructions, you will be able to resume your trip in a safe and sound condition.

Highway Dep't. Plan Available For Public View

In final evaluation form, the Minnesota highway department's action plan is available for public review and comment.

In being submitted to the federal highway administration (FHWA) for approval, copies of the plan have been distributed to some 90 cents throughout the state where interested citizens may inspect the document. The action plan is a new FHWA requirement concerning the highway planning process to assure consideration of social, economic and environmental values.

Places where Minnesota's proposed action plan may be reviewed, in addition to the highway department central office in St. Paul, include the nine district offices in Duluth, Bemidji, Brainerd, Detroit Lakes, Golden Valley, Rochester, Mankato, Willmar and Oakdale; at state and community college libraries and libraries of the regional system.

In the process leading to adoption of the acton plan, the document is forwarded to Gov. Wendell R. Anderson for endorsement and to FHWA for approval. A formal notice of availability of the Plan will be published in the federal register inviting public comment for a 30-day period, as a step toward adoption.

In developing its action plan, the Minnesota highway department conducted 20 public meetings throughout the state to obtain "local input." The draft of the proposed action plan was the subject of studies in a series of meetings and analysis of a citizens' task action plan force. Revised to incorporate recommended features, the plan was submitted for review and approval.

Federal policy requires that the action plan be adopted and fully implemented by Nov. 1, 1974.

Black Powder Shoot Held In TRF Sunday

Pennington county's sportsmen's club held its first black powder shooting matches Sunday at the club's facilities north of Thief River Falls. Forty-four shooters registered to compete and an estimated 150 spectators were on hand for the event.

Seven local shooters commpeted in the four competitive events with participants coming from as far as Grafton, Cavalier and Fargo, N.D and Walker, Park Rapids and Moorhead. A large contingent from the muzzle loaders club at Grand Forks was included. The local participants included Terry Solne, Jim Thune, David Hagen, John Barry, Mark Hagen, Marie Sorenson and Dennis Johnson.

The 25 yard off-hand competition was won by Bill Williams of Park Rapids with a score of 50 points and 3X. (Each event consisted of five shots at a target with a maximum score of 50 points. The target included a smaller X ring inside of the 10 point circle and the number of shots scoring in the X ring was used to break ties.) Four shooters tied for secondd place with scores of 50 points and 2X. Included were Tom Larson, Larry Prodhomme, Dennis Johnson, and Alan Moe of Grafton, N.D.

Williams also won the 50 yard off-hand competition with a score of 49 points and 2X. Second place went tto Bob Blattenbauer with a score of 47 points and 2X. Dick Taallerud of Mentor took third with 47 points and 1X.

The 50 yard crossed stick event was won by Clarence Mutscher with a score of 50 points and 2X. Shooters participating in this event use either the knealing or sitting position while steadying their rifles across a pair of sticks, tied together to form a support. Black powder shooters refer to the stick arrangemeent as "buffalo sticks". Second place in this event went to Don Ramberg with 49 points. Three shooters fired scores of 48 in this event. However, Alan Moe had 3X to take third place. Dick Taalerud shot 2X while Jim Thune also scored 48 ponts but without an X.

Pistol competiton was won by Dennis Johnson with 44 points. Second place went to Bill Goble of Cavalier, N.D. with 43 points and 2X. Alan Moe took third with 43 points.

Three shooters tied for first place in aggragate rifle scoring after completion of the three rifle events Bill Williams, Alan Moe and Dick Tjallerud each had three-match totals of 143 points and 6X. A shoot-off was held with each man shooting one shot off-hand at 50 yards. Williams won with a shot in the 10 ring. Moe scored a shot in the nine ring with Taalerd placing his shot outside the six-inch bullseye for eight points.

The over-all aggregate championship (including pistol competition) was won by Allan Moe with 186 points and 6X. Dick Taallerud placed second with 185 points and 6X. Third place went to Dennis Johnson with 182 points and 5X.

Other local shooters recording scores of 40 points or moe in an event include Marie Sorenson with 42 poins in the 25 yard rifle match. Mark Hagen scored 41 poins and 1X in the 50 yard crossed stick match. Jim Thune scored 45 in thee 50 yard off-hand match, in addition to taking third place in the 50 yard crossed stick event. Terry Soine scored 40 points in the 50 yard off-hand event and 47 points with 1X in the crossed stick match.

One event which did not involve competition but did arouse specatator interest was a final "shoot out". The event is a team effort with five shoters attempting to cut off a 2X4 board which has been driven into the ground on the 25 yard target line. The team from Grand Forks has reportedly accomplished this in feat as little as one minute and 30 seconds. However, the shooters were apparently not up to competitive form Sunday and needed more than twice that amount of time to do the job. Other shooters on hand formed an impromptu team which made a creditable showing but could not defeat the veteans from Grand Forks.

Spectators unfamiliar with black poweder shooting and muzzle loades took the opportunity Sunday to visit with competitors, asking questions about the sport and examing the variety of firearms in use. Participants sported both flintlock and percussion pieces including original firearms dating to the pre-civil war era, modern reproductions of original firearms and modern firearms designed to shoot black powder. Several of the shooting pieces in use Sunday were made by the shooters themmselves or custom built for them. At least one 58 caliber rifle had been converted from a single-shot 12 guage shotgun.

The Pennington county sportsmen's club is planning to continue the black poweder match as an annual event and, if enough interest is indicated, another match may be scheduled yet this fall. Prizes for Sunday's match were donated by Coast-to-Coast, Northern Marien and Wilson's Sports Center in Thief River Falls; Grand Forks Army Surplus Outlet and Home of Economy in Grand Forks; Northland Sports at Bagley; and Prior Electric at Roseau.

"BUFFALO STICKS" helped to improve scores at 50 yards during the black poweder matches sponsored by the Pennington county sportsmen's club. Clarence Mutscher (right) took first place in this event with a score of 50 points and 2X, significantly better than his 50 yard off-hand score of 39 points. Don Purpur, president of the Coon and Crockel muzzle loaders club at Grand Forks, is pictured setting up his sticks for the next shot. The unidentified young lady spotting for Purpur and Mutscher also provided the same valuable information for many of the other shooters who did not have their own optics.

BLACK POWDER shooters participating in Sunday's matches at the Pennington county sportsmen's club ended the day's event with a demonstration of the effectiveness of their firearms. The object of the event is to cut off a 2X4 which has been driven into the ground on the 25 yard target linee. This team from Grand Forks has reportedly accomplished the feat in about one and a half minutes.

MPIRG Reports Air Fare Charge May Be Too High

Minnesota public interest research group (MPIRG) reported recently that Minnesota consumers are in danger of being illegally overcharged when buying airplane tickets.

In a survey conducted by students at Carleton college, eight tickets were purchased from the two travel agencies in Northfield - College City Travel service and Dittmann Tours, Inc. Six of the eight tickets were not sold for the lowest possible legal fare; five were too high and one was too low. Both travel agencies sold tickets for a price 15 per cent over the correct fare.

Airplane fares are regulated by the civil aeronautics board (CAB), a federal government regulatory agency. Failure to charge the correct fare is a violation of the law, punishable by a fine as high as $1,000 for each incorrect price.

The report, which was written by Larry H. Slesinger, a sophomore at Carleton college, states that, "MPIRG has no evidence that either travel agency is intentionally defrauding the public. A more likely explanation is that the travel agents don't know the correct fare to charge."

According to Slesinger, "The current fare structure approved by the rules are complicated and because travel agents are not taught well enough how to calculate the correct fare."

MPIRG recommends that consumers who believe they have been overcharged for airplane tickets should send a copy of the ticket receipt to the Civil Aeronautics Board, Washington, D.C., 20428.

All-Time Low In Dairy Processing Plants Noted

Minnesota's dairy industry, the nation's fourth ranked milk producer, has only 302 currently licensed dairy processing plants, an all-time low, reports agriculture commissioner Jon Wefald.

He said the latest license count by the dairy industries division reveals the loss of 38 dairy plants in the state during the previous fiscal year, the second sharpest cut in the past 15 years.

Commissioner Wefald said the decline, along with the earlier reported all-time lows in the number of dairy farms, 38,000, and in milk cow numbers, 894,000 in March, reflects the serious economic struggle of the state's important dairy food industry against skyrocketing production costs, foreign imports and slashing of federal price supports.

Minnesota's 302 dairy processing plants are less than half the 631 total only 12 years ago. Of those, 216 are owned and operated by farmer-cooperatives, and 86 are independently owned. The past year's casualty rate was highest on cooperatives with 36 quitting or merging with larger cooperatives, while only two independents folded.

The only significant gain in dairy product manufacturing during the past year was the establishment of eight new dry whey processing plants. Whey, a cheese by-product that formerly was a waste disposal problem, now is in domestic and international demand as low cost food supplement. Minnesota's agricultural marketing promotions were one of the major pioneers in developing new markets for this product.

Only 65 plants are now manufacturing butter in Minnesota—59 cooperatives and six cooperatives—but they are maintaining this state's national number one ranking for total butter production. Fifteen years ago Minnesota had 479 butter plants.

After gains in 1971 and 1972 on the booming cheese market, Minnesota is back down to only 18 cheese manufacturing plants, two less than a year ago. Milk bottlers are to 47—only 40 of those are Grade A products—a loss of 10 in the past year.

Thought For The Day

A real Christian is an odd number, anyway. He feels supreme love for one whom he has never seen. He talks familiarly everyday to Someone he cannot see; he expects to go to heaven on the virtue of another; he empties himself in order that he might be full; he admits he is wrong so he can be declared right; he goes down in order to get up.

He is strongest when he is the poorest, and happiest when he feels worst. He dies so he can live; forsakes in order to have; gives so he can keep; sees the invisible; hears the inaudible, and knows that which passeth knowledge.

Miracle Of The Dairy Cow

Following is from an article by Phil Porter in "Dairymen's Digest", published by American Milk Producers organization:

A dairy cow is a mobile manufacturing plant which can transport itself to a source of crude raw materials, assemble, store and process the raw materials into the most perfect human food, then transport itself to a receiving station where the finished product is extracted. Once programmed, it does all this automatically.

As for efficiency, good dairy cows yield in their milk, per acre of crops eaten, over 5 times as much energy and nearly 4 times as much protein as is contained in the beef made by steers from the same amount of feed. Today's dairy cow produces over 10 times her own weight in milk each year.

Inside this dairy manufacturing plant is one of the most complex systems of systems ever housed in a single unit. It begins with a raw materials harvesting component consisting of cutting and grinding equipment and a conveyor to temporary storage.

Each unit is capable of immediate and automatic selection of the best raw materials from the ones available. This selection is accomplished by multiple sensing devices including light sensing, gas sensing, chemical sensing, and pressure sensing units (slight, smell, taste, and touch). All are connected to, and controlled by, the master computer (brain).

Unlike most other models of self-contained harvesting units, the dairy cow contains special systems to provide mechanical, biological and chemical processing which allows the unit to manufacture human food from coarse fiberous vegetation.

To supply the factory, the mobile harvesting unit scans possible sources, then selects, cuts, and stores the best raw materials in a large vat with capacity of up to 50 gallons. Here processing and absorbtion actually begins. Even before the material is ground, chemical and biological action begins softening and breaking down the raw materials.

The first compartment also houses an indoor farm where literally millions of tiny plants and animals serve the production machinery of the cow. Each being very specialized in its abilities and duties, sets to work on the crude raw materials and through very complex chemical interchanges, breaks down and consumes the coarse fiber and nitrogenous materials.

The plants and animals which are bacteria and protozoa, live, work, reproduce and, like other domestic animals, are slaughtered and consumed, completing a remarkable cycle inside the factory. This allows the cow to assemble raw materials of fiber and nitrogen inedible for humans, and within the factory manufacture highly refined protein food for humans.

Working in conjunction with the basic processing facility which houses the indoor farm is a reversible conveyor. It will, on signal, gather a small portion of the stored material and return it to the grinding facility where it is mechanically crushed and chopped (chewing the cud) thoroughly and returns it. The conveyor again reverses itself, taking the now pulverized materials back to a sorting area where it is automatically analyzed and returned for further processing in the first vat, or sent to the second in a series of four processing facilities.

Here in the second processing vat called the riticulum (specialized second stomach lined like a honeycomb), further chemical breakdown takes place. Additional chemical processes occur in the next two vats, the first having many layers which extract and absorb the fluids from the chemical slurry. The last vat functions as a simple stomach like that of most other domesticated animals and humans.

Leaving the complicated chemical breakdown and absorbtion we find that the manufacturing plant converts all nutrients taken from the raw materials into a multi-purpose liquid which serves as fuel, milk manufacturing, maintenance and repair, heating, lubrication, cooling, carrier for chemical triggering devices, waste removal and many other uses (blood).

The multi-purpose fluid is pumped to a specialized unit where, by a secret chemical process, milk is made (udder). Here 800 gallons of the multi-purpose fluid, must pass through a highly selective converter which removes certain components to make each one gallon of milk.

This means that when a dairy cow produces 50 pounds of milk daily, the magnificient, flexible pump, or heart, which is also powered by the same multi-purpose fluid, must pump 10 tons of blood through the udder each day.

People say a cow is resting when she is lying in the shade chewing her cud. Most of the time this is not true. The factory is in full operation processing the raw materials she harvested earlier.

Dairy cows were years ahead of mankind as recyclers of materials. For centuries, dairy cows have manufactured the most nearly perfect human food from such waste products as beet pulp, pea hulls, vegetable vines, fodder from all kinds of growing grains, cull fruits and vegetables, yes—even corn cobs and many other waste products. After extracting selected nutritious parts of the products, they process the final wastes into rich fertilizer and return it to the soil where it can help create new plant growth. A well-planned system.

In addition to these unique processes, the dairy cow also has incorporated in this factory a most amazing feature. During the time the factory is manufacturing milk, an auxiliary system makes use of the same raw materials and the same heating and processing facilities and manufactures an additional little manufacturing plant. Imagine—here is a machine that not only creates human food from grass but duplicates itself at the same time.

After she has served several years of productive life efficiently manufacturing many tons of nature's most nearly perfect food and several new little manufacturing plants, this amazing factory is finally slaughtered and eaten by man. Even after she is gone, her outer covering continues to serve man in the form of shoes, purses, and other leather goods.

Does any other natural or manmade machine serve man as well?

Federal Payroll

Following editorial is from the Granite Falls Tribune:

The federal tax burden is going up. Our senators and representatives each year are supplying us with additional services, needed or not, and we have to pay the price tag for all of these new programs. How much the taxpayers can afford is a question that has been troubling this editor for years.

The federal government is the largest employer in the United States. It is not only the largest but generous to a fault when it comes to paying the federal employees. Our representatives and senators bend over backwards to avoid being tagged as in opposition to pay raises for this largest single voting block in the United States. This puts the big bite on us, the non-government employees, for the generosity of Uncle Sam when it comes to federal employee benefits and rewards.

The price tag for federal wages has now reached 60 billion dollars a year. Rewards for being a government employee include generous regular pay ($10,900 annually for blue collar employees and $13,200 for white collar workers). Fringe benefits in each case are above the national average. After 40 years of service, government employees receive a pension of 80 per cent of their salary the last three years. That is four or five times better than social security through the federal employee pay deductions are about the same.

Add the state, county and city employees to the list and you will find that government at some level employs one out of every five jobs in the United States. Government employees earn $150 billion in pay and benefits at a cost of $700 for every man, woman and child in the United States.

There has to be an end to additional government employment. Federal wages should be held to the same rate of increase as those in private enterprise. We cannot afford the number of government jobs we have now and additional jobs are out of the question. There must be a moratorium on additional government employment.

Borrowed Nonsense,

Illinois Fair Employment officials are said to have ordered an employer to cease giving aptitude tests to job applicants, "because this discriminates against those who can't pass the tests."

Interesting Opinions

If we can develop some way in which a man can doze and still keep from making a monkey of himself, we have removed one of the big obstacles to human happiness in modern civilization."

notes from the governor

"Minnesota Crime Watch," our statewide crime prevention program launched last October, has already achieved notable success.

Through the efforts of nearly 200 police and sheriff's departments participating in the program, thousands of people throughout Minnesota have taken certain basic steps to prevent burglaries.

The step most encouraged by Minnesota Crime Watch is enrollment in "Operation Identification." In this program homeowners and businessmen mark valuable articles with a special number and display an Operation Identification sticker as a warning to burglars that their property is marked, easy to trace, and difficult to re-sell if stolen.

Since the start of Crime Watch, the number of homes and businesses enrolled in Operation Identification has more than doubled—to the point where it now represents 154,000 Minnesotans. And, as expected, an evaluation of the program shows that it pays to join. The likelihood of a burglary in one of these enrolled homes or businesses is reduced by 78 per cent.

A vital factor in the success of Minnesota Crime Watch has been the enthusiastic cooperation of local crime prevention officers, the men who implement the program with technical assistance and educational materials provided by the Governor's Commission on Crime Prevention and Control.

Through these officers, crime prevention has taken on a new emphasis in Minnesota. Sixteen police and sheriff's departments have established crime prevention units. There are now more than 20 full time and 180 part-time crime prevention officers in our state. A Minnesota Crime Prevention Officers Association, one of the first such organizations in the nation, was formed in January. It now has 115 members.

Cooperation in the program has not been limited to law enforcement agenices. Hundreds of civic groups have made Crime Watch a priority project. And, without the donated time and space provided by Minnesota newspapers, television and radio stations and outdoor advertising companies, the burglary prevention message brought to so many residents would not have been possible.

It is still too early to assess the long-range impact of Crime Watch. We do know that the burglary rate for the first three months of 1974 declined to 164 per 100,000 population, compared with 201 per 100,000 for the same period of 1973. We do know that the burglary rate for homes not enrolled in Operation Identification is 4.5 time greater than that for enrolled homes.

This outstanding program is off to a fine start, but we can do better. If you have not enrolled, join up now. A telephone call to your local police department or sheriff's office will do the job.

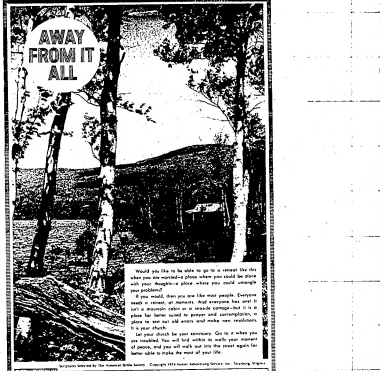
For All Your Drug Needs



Would you like to be able to go to a retreat like this when you are worried—a place where you could be alone with your thoughts—a place where you could untangle your problems?

If you would, then you are like most people. Everyone needs a retreat, at moments. And everyone has one! It isn't a mountain cabin or a seaside cottage—but it is a place far better suited to prayer and contemplation, a place to sort out old errors and make new resolutions. It is your church.

Let your church be your sanctuary. Go to it when you are troubled. You will find within its walls your moment of peace, and you will walk out into the street again far better able to make the most of your life.

Economist Urges Grain Reserves To Protect Price

Sharp price increases for farm products in 1973-74 and the risk of drastic price declines may not be in the best interests of either producers or consumers, according to a report published by the Federal reserve bank of Minneapolis in its "Exponent" series.

The author, Dr. Willard W. Cochrane, professor of agricultural and applied economics, University of Minnesota, calls for a program of grain reserves for the United States and other nations as a means to dampen price volatility and to help assure reliable stocks of grain.

The bank indicated that it neither endorses nor rejects his conclusion but commends his reasoned analysis of forces confronting U.S. agriculture and the economy of the Upper Midwest.

Cochrane reviews how the unpredictable events in 1972-73 triggered sharply increased demand for U.S. grain and oilseed supplies. Events included poor train crops in the Soviet Union and in south and southeast Asia; poor peanut crops in south Asia and parts of Africa; poor fish catch off the Peruvian cost which reduced supplies of high protein fish meal; and the devaluation of the dollar which made the U.S. a cheap place to acquire products, hence increased foreign demand for U.S. commodities.

These unpredictable events could reverse, says Cochrane. "The year 1974 may be an excellent crop year around the world; it could be the first of a series of good crop years. If these events materialize we could easily be in a world grain surplus situation by 1975 with farm product prices tumbling into the sub-basement."

To help insure more stable demand-supply relationships in the future, Cochrane details a system of reserve stocks. He emphasizes, however, that the decision is up to U.S. citizens. The system is not necessary, he says "if consumers are not too unhappy with the food price increases that occurred in 1972-73 and farmers are not concerned about farm prices tumbling into the sub-basement in some future year.

"But if consumers want to avoid rising food prices in the future...and farmers, want to avoid sharply falling prices while the United States continues to be a major supplier of grains, soybeans and protein meals to the world market, then the United States must adopt some variant of the stabilization proposal presented in this report."

Dr. Cochrane's report was originally published by the National Planning association and reprinted in "Exponent" by special permission. The "Exponent" issue is available from the Federal Reserve Bank upon request, at 250 Marquette Avenue, Minneapolis, Minn. 55480.

Minnesota Army Rreserve Unit Receives Award

A Minnesota army reserve unit won a top award this morning at Pentagon ceremonies in which the defense department paid tribute to the best community service projects completed in 1973 by citizen-soldiers of all the Armed Forces.

The 407th Civil Affairs company of Fort Snelling won a defense department citation for its assistance to Polk county (Des Moines), Iowa officials during its members' two weeks of annual training in the summer of 1973. The army reservists helped Polk county government officials in a broad scope of activities, including administration, county ordinance revision, soil testing, equipment evaluation, maintenance, public health, welfare, safety and many other areas.

Seventeen teams of 407th army reservists, including men and women whose military and civilian occupations include accountancy, education, urban planning, banking, law and engineering, were invited by the Polk county officials to apply their military occupational skills to projects designed to improve the quality of life in the county.

Major General J. Milnor Roberts, chief of the army reserve, said the 407th's community service project is among hundreds in communities across the country in which army reservists apply their military skills to the needs of cities, towns and villages in which they live, work and train.

"The army reserve's community service program is one of the largest in the country devoted to improving the quality of life in America," Gen. Roberts said. "It serves the dual function of helping to alleviate the nation's social and economic problems while providing a meaningful way of achieving our primary mission—readiness against any threat to our national security."

Plymouth Valiant.

14 years ago, when we put our first Valiant on display, it got a lot of attention. And why not? It was part of a new breed of small cars that offered good, solid value in a compact size. A small car that was designed for easy handling and parking, nice low price, and good gas mileage on regular fuel.

Back then, the other auto companies came out with new compacts, too. But while their lines have fallen by the wayside, Valiant has kept on going strong. In fact, over 2.3 million Valiants have been sold since 1960.

So we figure we've been doing something right. And naturally, Valiant's good gas mileage is part of it. Small wonder America's No. 1 selling compacts come from Plymouth. Stop in today and see why.

It's our long distance record. Know what I mean?

Marriage vows were exchanged recently at the Grace Lutheran church in Grygla by Miss Marie Thorson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Thorson, Sr., and Bryan Wiseth, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Wiseth of Goodridge.

Rev. Leland Uden officiated at the double ring ceremony. At the organ was Mrs. George Thorson, Jr., sister-in-law of the bride. She played the traditional wedding marches for the processional and recessional and also accompanied the soloists: Sue Vraa and Brenda Jelle, friends of the bride. Miss Vraa sang "The Wedding Song," during the ceremony and following the exchange of the vows, Miss Jelle sang "The Lord's Prayer."

The bride was escorted to the altar by her brother, George Thorson, Jr. She was attired in a floor-length gown of white satin styled with bell sleeves and an A-line skirt. The fitted bodice was enchanced by an overlay of Chantilly lace. Attached at the empire waistline was a chapel-length train. Her full length veil of silk illusion fell from a lace cap embroidered with beeds and yellow roses, white daisies and babies' breath with yellow ribbon streamers.

Miss Jane Mutnansky of Goodridge a close friend, was selected by the bride to serve as her only attendant. She wore a gown of yellow polyester knit with a miniature floral print. The gown was styled with a slightly gathered bodice, short puffy sleeves, and a sash that tied in back. To complete her attire, Miss Mutnansky wore a yellow floppy hat with yellow satin ribbon. She carried an all-white nosegay of daisies and babies' breath.

Susan Clausen of Grygla was the bride's personal attendant.

Attending the groom as best man was his cousin, Vance Wiseth of Goodridge. The ushers were James Thorson of Grygla, brother of the bride, and Lee Nelson of Goodridge, cousin of the groom. They wore burgandy trousers with burgandy and white checked sportcoats and burgandy bow ties. The groom's boutonniere was a single yellow rose taken from the bride's bouquet. The other men wore white carnation boutonniers.

The mother of the bride was attired in a green and white polyester knit dress accented with white accessories. The mother of the groom wore a light orange and white checked skirt and jacket with alight orange blouse. Both wore identical corsages of white daisies and yellow roses.

Special guests were Mrs. Theresa Wiseth and Mrs. Cora Vraa, grandmothers of the groom.

Following the ceremony, the parents of the bride hosted a reception in the church parlors for approximately 175 relaives and friends. Registering the guests was Jody Wiseth, a sister of the groom. Trudy Wiseth, another sister, and Aldon Hyland of Goodridge served the punch.

KITCHEN KARNIVAL

by Ellen M. Spray

Featuring recipes from the Kitchen of

Mrs. Lowell Lindemoen

The grandchildren were playing on the floor with the horses and men of armor when the little four-year-old jumped up and proudly announced, "Look at me. I'm walking like my Dad." Then with head held high and squared shoulders, he strutted across the room. Not to be outdone by his cousin, the five-year-old joined the exhibition by saying, "I can walk like my Dad, too." Then all joined in the game, even the little Princess.

As they paraded around, I thought the two men being impersonated, one had been a father a number of years and the other took on that responsibility just two weeks ago. Those fathers have a great responsibility. Each step and every action is being watched by those little mimics in order that they may more accurately follow in the steps of their fathers.

To you, the fathers of those little ones, let me say, "Being a parent isn't easy. It's a lifetime job, 24 hours a day and much overtime. There are so many problems that require the wisdom of Solomon. As the children grow older, there are decisions that will have to be made, decisions that seem so right today, and yet tomorrow will be all wrong. When that happens, don't be afraid to admit that you were wrong. Your children will think more of you if you admit that you made a mistake than if you stubbornly cling to the original decision. There are times that they will disappoint you by doing things that hurt deeply. Let them know of your disappointment, but don't lock the door. Let them know that they can always turn to you for help and guidance. Since it is impossible to see into the future your guidance from above is an absolute necessity.

Please don't forget to praise for a job well done. Their work may not be perfect, but remember their hands are small. The praise you give will be rewarded by glowing faces, knowing that they have pleased.

And above all, teach them to pray, not only at bedtime, but whenever they are in need. Remember too, that prayers should include "thanks" and not just "give-mes".

My prayer for you on Sunday, Father's day, is that you will follow in His footsteps just as those little mimics are walking in yours."

Several of the area newspapers have recipe columns and today's recipe came from Sugar and Spice and Other Things Nice of the Warren Sheaf and was contributed by Mrs. Lowell Lindemoen. The recipe sounded interesting, I tried it and we and several friends also enjoyed it. Thanks Mrs. Lindemoen for sharing your recipe with Warren and now Thief River Falls.

Lunch Meat

2 tablespoons quick cure salt
¼ teaspoon garlic salt
½ teaspoon garlic salt
⅛ cup water
7 or 8 drops liquid smoke

Method: Mix all the ingredients together. Shape into two firm rolls and wrap in that thin plastic film used for covering foods. Refrigerate overnight. In the morning boil one hour, leaving the loafs wrapped. (I used the boiling bags and that worked perfectly.) Cool before slicing.

Mrs. Lindemoen sometimes adds a small amount of mustard seed to the mixture.

ASCS Director Airs Provisions Of Disaster

Wallace Sparby, Pennington county executive director of the ASCS office, stated today that several inquiries have been received in regard to the disaster provisions of the wheat and feed grain program.

Disaster payments are computed on allotment acres only, Sparby said. "For example: Suppose you have a 20 acre wheat allotment and your program yield is 34 bushels per acre, the payment rate for wheat is 68 cents per bushel times your projected yield which equals $23.12 per acre in this case," Sparby added.

Barley and corn are computed the same way with barley having a per bushel payment of 38 cents and corn 46 cents. ($15.58 barley average—$23.46 average per acre on corn).

"These above mentioned provisions will not apply if you do not comply with some restrictions," the director advised. "For instance, if you plant oats or flax acreage equivalent to your wheat allotment, you are then automatically cancelled out. The same holds true for barley and corn allotments.

"Another case would be where you could have a 20-acre wheat allotment and may have planted 10 acres to wheat. In this case, we would have to wait until harvesting to see how many bushels are harvested. If 53 per cent of the projected yield production is received from the 10 acres the disaster payment would also be cancelled," Sparby explained.

"There are several variables involved and we would like to have you contact our office if you have a situation where you feel you are eligible.

"In any event, it is important that you certify to your crop acreages before July 15 and also that any disaster payment requests be filed before that date," he concluded.

Pennington DFL Urges Action By Gov. On Disaster

Pennington Co. DFL Calls For Governor's Action

Pennington county DFL at its unit meeting on Thursday passed the following resolution and forwarded it to Gov. Anderson on Friday:

"Be it resolved: That due to excessive rainfall in this area, we urge the governor to use his influence in having Pennington county declared a disaster area." Farmers from the eastern part of Pennington county, indicated that they had been especially hard hit, and felt it essential that they be made automatically eligible for federal payments on grains lost or unplanted and federal disaster loans.

It was announced that a senatorial district convention will be held at a central location before July 10. All delegates elected at precinct caucuses to county conventions in this district are also delegates to the Senate District 1 convention. Its purpose is to endorse candidates for legislative districts IA and IB. All interested candidates should be prepared to present themselves to this group of delegates for screening and endorsement procedures.

Plans were discussed for this county's participation in the "Democratic national telethon scheduled for June 29 and 30. The "Dollars for Democrats" drive will begin June 17 by more than 50 volunteers soliciting contributions through personal contacts in Pennington county. All pledges that are made through the local county before June 29 will be credited to county and state DFL organizations through the one-third local, one-third state and one-third national formula ratio. A central city telephone bank will be established and announced over CBS TV affiliates and local news media.

HECC Changes Rules In State Scholarships

Minnesota higher education coordinating commission has awarded $1,476,199 to 21 private colleges in the state for the 1973-74 academic year under the private college contract program.

Under the program, authorized by the Legislature in 1971, the commission contracts with approved private colleges and universities for services rendered to the state through the education, in approved programs, of additional residents of the state.

The contractual arrangement provides a maximum payment of $500 to each participating four-year institution for each Minnesota resident enrolled as a full-time student in excess of the number in the fall of 1970. In addition, a $500 payment for each state grant-in-aid recipient who is enrolled is awarded to the institution.

Each two-year college receives a maximum payment of $400 for each Minnesota resident enrolled as a full-time student in excess of the number in the fall of 1970 and $400 for each state grant-in-aid recipient enrolled.

"The program assists private colleges by paying part of the cost of educating larger numbers of Minnesota residents while at the same time assisting residents by giving them the opportunity to attend the institution of their choice," said HECC executive director Richard C. Hawk. "The program benefits the taxpayer by providing a mechanism for meeting the needs of some residents at a low cost to the state."

A combination of significant increases in new resident enrollments at participating institutions, increased grant-in-aid recipients and a limited legislative appropriation made it impossible to award the maximum payments this year.

As a result, the Commission proportionately reduced the rate of payment while maintaining the same ratio in the law. Payment was $396.87 per student for four-year institutions and $317.50 per student for two-year institutions.

"The number of Minnesota residents being educated by private institutions is larger than the expected number of students upon which the appropriation was based," Hawk said.

Hawk said the Commission is reviewing the program and will consider proposing changes for the 1975 Legislature.

Official Defends Role Of OSHA To Businessmen

"The problem facing small business today isn't the occupational safety and health administration (OSHA). Rather, OSHA is part of the solution. The problem is job injuries and illness."

So, said John H. Stender, assistant secretary of labor, at a conference in Washington, D.C.

Countering criticism that OSHA "poses a problem" for small busines, Stender remarked:

"Oddly enough, the so-called shoe string operations with 50 or fewer employees tend to have lower injury rates than larger companies."

"Medium-sized businesses engaged in manufacturing—those employing 100 to 249—are the most injry-prone, with an injury rate 30 per cent higher than the overall rate for manufacturing and almost double the rate for large companies with 1,000 or more employees, Stender said.

Safeguarding the health and safety of employees appears to become a problem when a small business grows to a size whereby the operator no longer has the flexibility and informality of a smaller operation, he added.

"The medium-size businessman isn't large enough to justify a full-time safety program like the big companies, so he's caught in the middle. And so, unfortunately, are many of his employees.

"But OSHA is part of the solution to his problem. OSHA can help tackle the problem of job injuries and illnesses; OSHA can help reduce work stoppages, lost time, workmen's compensation costs and other expenses that result from job injuries and illnesses," Stender said.

SLOW DOWN AND LIVE!

Still Time To Plant Gardens, Agent Reports

There is still time to plant most of the common vegetables for this area and expect good results, according to county agent Terry Courneya. Many people are expressing concern about the Chamber of Commerce garden plots which have been very difficult to till this spring. Courneya suggests that most vegetables can still be planted and harvested before the average first frost in early September.

One important consideration on heavy soil types like those at the garden plot area is to select large seeded varieties like snap beans, sweet corn, beets and Swiss chard. The seed bed does not have to be as mellow because the larger seeds can be planted deeper (two to three inches).

Transplants such as tomatoes, cabbage, cauliflower, broccoli and Brussels sprouts will do very well up until about June 15 planting. They are very productive and nutritious and do not require as mellow soil conditions because they are set three to four inches deep.

The agent points out that squash, melons and pumpkins would probably be damaged by frost in early September and peas require cool weather to develop well. Sweet corn varieties that mature in 70 days or less can be planted until about June 15.

One final tip is to avoid working the garden or planting when the soil is wet enough to stick to your tools.

Men To Canoe Mississippi In MS Promotion

Tom Davis and Dennis Anderson of Circle Pines are going to canoe the entire length of the Mississippi river for pledges to the Multiple Sclerosis society of Minnesota.

They will leave from the headwaters of the Mississippi in Itasca state park north of Park Rapids on June 15 and hope to terminate the trip 2,400 miles down river at New Orleans, about 80 days later.

Asked why they were doing it, Davis said, "It's the challenge, and then too we can help the multiple sclerosis patient. You might say we are 'paddling multiple sclerosis and the Mississippi'."

Anderson said, "It'll certainly be a challenge all right but one well worth the effort if pledges to back our effort are made by those interested. We plan to paddle by day and camp out on the river bank by night wherever we find ourselves."

Pledge blanks can be acquired through the MS office at 4306 West 36½ Street, Minneapolis 55416 or by calling (612) 927-7396.

Bridge Program In Minnesota Now Underway

Attending the St. Paul technical and vocational institute recently in preparation for an expanded use of electrical arc welding in the maintenance of steel bridges were 16 Minnesota highway department employees from all nine regional highway districts.

Their training in an accelerated method of steel bridge maintenance coincides with the launching of the most extensive bridge repair program in Minnesota's history. The program, apart from regular bridge maintenance carried out by the department's own forces, involves some 50 bridges on the state's 12,000-mile trunk highway system.

The repairs, to be carried out by private contractors, range from bridge painting and bridge deck resurfacing to the replacement of two bridges built more than 50 years ago in Swift county. The cost of the 1974 bridge improvement program, limited to the tunk highway system, will be about $4.3 million.

The program, based on stricter federal inspection standards following the Silver Bridge disaster on the Ohio river several years ago, got its impetus from an act of the 1969 Legislature. The state law not only anticipated the new federal safety standards, but surpassed them in requiring the inspection of every bridge in Minnesota.

According to a statewide inventory made by the Minnesota highway department, there are nearly 20,000 bridges—structures at least ten feet in length—on our roads, streets, and highways. About 54 per cent of them with a span of 20 feet or more were built before the turn of the century, or the date of their construction is unknown. Most of them are on township roads or county state-aid highways.

Minnesota highway department is responsible only for the maintenance of the 3,100 bridges on the 12,000-mile state trunk highway system, which includes Interstate freeways. More than 1,100 of them date from the "Model T" epoch, prior to 1940. Well-suited to the traffic of their times, most of them are now structurally obsolete and must be either reconstructed or replaced to meet the new standards established by law.

Slated to receive the special attention of the 16 regional maintenance men trained at the St. Paul Institute are steel bridges on the trunk highway system whose structures have been eroded by the elements and chemicals used in snow and ice control. While the search for coatings to bar that kind of deterioration goes on, the accelerated welding technique learned in St. Paul promises to stem advances already made by such corrosion.

Summer Theatre To Hold Try-Out

World-famous March family—featuring sisters Meg, Jo, Beth and Amy—Laurie, the boy next door; Marmie; Aunt March; Father March and a host of other memorable characters, will come to life at the Northland Summer theatre on July 12 and 13 when the theatre company presents John Ravold's dramatization of Louisa May Alcott's immortal "Little Women".

According to publishers of the play, "It is a story that can never grow old because it deals with the increase of human emotions, a mother's love for her children and their appreciation of it and her. Who can forget wild, romping, tomboy Jo and the desire to be the "man of the family"?

She sacrificed her glorious hair to help finance her mother's trip to Washington, when the telegram arrived saying her father was dying. She wrote "The Christmas Play", rehearsing Amy in the fainting scene and then in the playing of the drama that fateful night everything went wrong and all ended on a heap on the floor. Her beautiful scenes with Little Beth when they both knew the Angel of Death was hovering near will be portrayed, as well as her comic courtship and ultimate marriage to Professor Baher.

On Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, June 18, 19 and 20, director Michael L. Tillmann, will hold tryouts for this play and second Northland production, Paul Zindel's "The Effect of Gamma Rays on Man-In-The-Moon Marigolds" (scheduled to be presented on July 29 and 30). All interested residents of all age groups are invited to attend and to try out for one or both of the plays.

Tryouts will run from 7 to 9 p.m. at the Northland community college theatre. Technical workers are invited to call 681-2181 to sign up for lighting, costuming, make-up, set and publicity work. They will be called by the director during the week of June 24 to set up meeting times and crew schedules.

Northland summer theatre is in its second year of providing drama opportunities and entertainment for the theatre actors, technicians and audiences of the Thief River Falls area. Last summer about 30 area residents involved themselves in play production and hundreds attended "You're A Good Man Charlie Brown", "Barefoot In The Park", and "The Glass Menagerie". It is anticipated that company and audience participation will increase this year.

As director Tillmann put it, "You're never too young or too old to participate in the theatre. The theatre is life...it is the art form which encompasses all art forms. Thus, it should not be limited to school students and professionals only. The theatre should be a community and area-wide activity. This is what the Northland summer theatre project seeks to achieve."

Tickets for the summer productions will sell for $1.50 for adults and 50 cents for students under 12. Announcement of the sale will be printed in later Thief River Falls Times editions.

Suggests Tips In Purchasing New Furniture

Spring means mud, dandelions and the start of another season of outdoor living. If you're considering investing in outdoor furniture for patio or porch, keep a few consumer tips in mind, says Linda Reese, extension interior design and furnishings specialist at the University of Minnesota.

First, don't limit your thinking the outdoor use alone, she says. Many styles look as much at home in the family room or dining room as they do outside, and this versatility may mean year-round use from your investment.

All-weather furniture can take rougher treatment than fine wood or upholstered furniture, and this may be an important plus for families that move often. Lightweight folding pieces are easy to transport and store if you foresee a move to smaller quarters.

Some of the most popular materials for outdoor furniture and things to look for when purchasing include:

(1) Redwood—This strong, decay-resistant wood should be deep red with the color penetrating into the wood. Seats should be free of knots and all edges should be rounded or sanded smooth. Table tops in higher quality redwood sets will be screwed onto the legs.

(2) Wrought iron—Look for smooth welds at joints and at places where decorations are secured. Good quality wrought iron is quaranteed against rust, and many are available with touch-up kits to repair nicks or scratches.

(3) Metal—This lightweight, portable furniture is made of either square or rounded tubing. Tubing that has been rolled from sheets should be securely welded along seams. Stress points on chairs may be reinforced with an extra piece of tubing to insure strength and rigidity.

Credit Rating Is Problem For Younger Worker

"You're 19, not long out of high school and you're now a full-time worker," hypothesizes Virginia Knauer, U.S. consumer affairs director." You're also a full-time consumer. You're spending and—I hope—saving your own money. Are you learning about borrowing it, too?

When you borrow, we say they are "using credit." For young consumes, credit is not easy to come by," she said. Reasons include the following:

When you borrow cash—or buy something and say, "Charge it"—you promise to pay later. The "paying [illegible] is very important, of course to the stores, banks and other lenders that give credit to consumers. They ask where you earn, where you have savings accouns, charge accounts and credit cards. They are checking on two things: (1) whether you earn enough to pay later; and (2) your past record for repaying.

Naturally, as a new worker, you don't have much of an earning or a repaying record to report in your first credit application. This makes it difficult to prove your ability to pay later.

Here are suggestions from experts on how you can establish your credit in the beginning:

Apply to local department stores for a charge account; this should be your first move.

Try to find a store that is looking for young customers. Talk with credit mangers or credit interviewers at several stores, and ask for their advice. If you are offered a special account with limited credit, by all mans, accept it. Use it only for small items until you know how well you can handle the monthly payments.

Apply for a small loan.

Even if you do not need the money right now—even if you put it right in a savings account to draw interest—borrowing and repaying promptly will help you to build a good credit rating. If there is a credit union where you work use it. (Credit union charges for borrowing are usually low, on the other hand, small-loan comapnies usually have high charges.) Another sensible place to apply is a local bank or saving and loan association where you or your family have accounts.

Learn how to shoop for credit and to use only as much credit as you can comfortably afford.

In a recent column on credit, I recommended this booklet "Truth in Lending Takes the Wrap Off Credit." For a free copy, write to Federal Trade Commission, Legal and Public Records, Washington, D.C. 20590.

Make all payments promptly.

Wherever you borrow no matter how much or how little you borrow—paying promptly is the best way of maintaining a good credit rating.

Look to the future when you may be wanting to buy a home, the biggest purchase that most consumers make. When you apply for that mortgage on your first house, your good credit rating will really stand you in good stead.

Mehrkens, Inc., Has Top Dairy Herd For April

Jerry Hamre, supervisor of the Pennington county Dairy Herd Improvement association, reports the following herds as the top in the association of the month of April with daily average pounds of milk and butterfat listed respectivelly:

Mehrkens Farm, Inc., 56.0 and 1.92; Warren & Lowell Hamrick, 54.2 and 2.02; Darrow Lundeen & Sons, 52.1 and 1.74; Albert Chruszch, 50.5 and 1.72; Knute Nesland, 49.5 and 1.78; Duane Krohn, 46.8 and 1.66; Duane Vatsaas, 46.3 and 1.67; Martin Hanson, 43.9 and 1.60; Gene Nelson, 43.7 and 1.88 and Orlan Stolaas, 41.2 and 1.62.

Duane Vatsaas had one cow that milked 113.0 pounds of milk for one day with a 3.4 test. Hamre said that this is one of the highest testing cows that he ever had on test.

Herd averages are affected by the number of dry cows in the herd since amount of milk or butterfat produced is averaged out over all the cows. This gives the farmer a record of the earning power of the herd for the month.

If many dry cows are included in the herd, the average for the month may be low, even though the cows which are milking are high producers.

There were 39 herds with 1,559 cows on test in April in the Pennington association.

Three cows finished with over 600 pounds of butterfat during the testing year in a 305-day or less lactation. They were from the following herds: Gene Nelson, 666; Marlan Augustine, 629; and Mylo Carlson 702.

Spannaus Will Seek Reelection

Attorney General Warren Spannaus has announced today that he intends to be a candidate for reelection this year. He said he will seek the endorsement of the DFL party at its convention June 14 to 16.

"It is my hope that the upcoming campaign will focus on the record of the attorney general's office over the past 3-½ years," Spannaus said at a press conference in his Capitol office in St. Paul, "because I believe it is a good record of hard work for the people of Minnesota."

Spannaus said the efforts of his office in the Legislature and in court "have benefited all citizens—from consumers and small businessmen to law enforcement officers, farmers, homeowners, trading stamp savers and conservationists."

The attorney general said he is proudest of the efforts of his office to make government more accessible to the citizens of the state. "I have met with citizens throughout Minnesota and make myself available to every citizen who wants to talk with me," Spannaus said. "This office has handled complaints and provided information for many thousands of citizens." He said thousands of Minnesotans write, telephone or visit the attorney general's office every month.

Kindergarten At Washington Wins Dental Contest

Mrs. Art Bredeson's afternoon kindergarten class won the pink dental card contest among the five public grade schools in District 564, according to Mrs. Margaret Race, school nurse.

At the close of the school year, the afternoon kindergarten had indicated O.K. teeth in 19 of 24 children, or a high of 79 per cent at Washington.

"Even the best class with 79 per cent is disappointing, when educators and health professionals advise all children to have a dental check-up every year", Mrs. Race said.

"Comparing Mrs. Bredeson's class with the all-school average of 42 per cent, these little folks did very well, with their 79 per cent," she added.

Best classes in the other four participating schools were: Knox, Patrick Klemisch's fourth grade with 71 per cent; Mark Twin, Mrs. E. Hanson's third grade with 70 per cent; Northrop, Mrs. D. Hanson's kindergarten with 67 per cent; and St. Hilaire, Mrs. Cameron's fourth grade with 54 per cent.

On June 24, 1954, Secretary of the Air Force, Harold Talbott, announced that the permanent location for the Air Force Academy would be a 15,000-acre tract six miles north of Colorado Springs, Colo.

Thought For The Day

We are living in a world of loneliness. Many people there are, who are constantly in a crowd and yet they feel all alone. They wonder if anyone notices them, cares for them or loves them.

This depression of loneliness comes to the Christian as well as to the non-Christian. Think of how Christ's disciples must have reacted when their Lord told them He was going to leave them. Some of them stopped following Him and went back to their former occupations, after His death, as they felt they would not see their Lord again.

Christ's disciples had no true reason for becoming lonely, even with Christ's departure, for before He left He said to them, "It is best for you that I go away, for if I don't, the Comforter (the Holy Spirit) won't come. If I do, He will—for I will send Him to you." John 16:7.

The Holy Spirit is God's agent in the world today. He gives new life to those who are spiritually dead in sin (Titus 3:5) and He empowers the Christian to live a life of victory and usefulness (Acts 1:8). Why not let the Holy Spirit be your Comforter, the One God has sent to be with you and to guide and empower you?

Happy Anniversary!

It seems incredible that 25 years have flown by since the nation's first dairy day was held in Thief River Falls, but its originators may reflect with a great deal of pride the happenings of those 25 years. Joining in the pride should be hundreds of others who took park in the event, as organizers or participants, since Dairy Day began.

Particularly for Stuart McLeod, who has devoted countless hours and days to promotion and continuation of Northwest Dairy day during his 24 years as president, the 25th annual Dairy Day Tuesday must be a most significant event. When McLeod finally convinced the Northwest Dairy Improvement association board he would not accept reelection again, he was appropriately elected president emeritus of the organization. His is the kind of service which can be rewarded only in his personal satisfaction at a job well done.

There have been other individuals, many of them, who have given unselfishly and abundantly of their time and talent and resources to make Dairy Day what it is over the years. One need only witness the thrills which young exhibitors display in winning or watch the development of exhibitors over the years to realize that a splendid work is being done here. Thanks may be in order but none are needed or expected by Dairy Day volunteers. They also take their rewards in doing a tough task well.

Weather permitting, Dairy Day will come back downtown this year to the parking lot on Knight avenue between Second and Third streets. There will be the same enthusiasm, rugged competition, human interest and quality livesotck as previous years. But there will be new faces in the show ring as well as familiar ones, and new eyes and ears to watch and listen and eager minds to absorb and learn. Youngsters growing with Dairy Day is one of the things which makes it great.

Perhaps we are a little partial to dairy people and particularly dairy farm youngsters. A psychiatric analysis would probably tie that to our own childhood where dairy chores were a way of life. But in the years we have worked with Dairy Day we have never been disappointed in the cooperation we have received from the dairy people involved. They have been patient and appreciative and made hectic days for us extremely gratifying.

We hope as many people as possible will take in at least a few minutes of the event on Tuesday. It will be history in the making as 25 years of effort will be culminated. Hats off to you, Northwest Dairy Day, and happy anniversary!

It Gets The Job Done

George S. Odiorne, dean of the college of business, University of Utah, is quoted as follows in a Standard Oil company of California publication: "The elephant that lives in Ceylon is a great big beast. It's got those beady eyes. Very thick-skinned. Very hard to attack. Not sensitive at all, or doesn't seem that way. But it gets a lot of work done that everybody has to have done. The work couldn't possibly be done by anyone else. But you don't love it. The only time it draws attention is once in awhile when it steps on somebody. Squish. Immediately everybody says, 'Let's put chains on it!' Or, 'Let's shoot the rogue elephant! But if they do, they discover that they can't get the work done. So, they bring it back. The corporation is a lot like that elephant. Big. Thick-skinned. Lumbering. You don't cuddle it. It's not cute like a kitten. It's hard to identify with an elephant. You can't expect it to dance the 'Waltz of the Flowers.' But it does get work done that everybody has to have done."

Traffic Thoughts

A couple of weeks ago the Thief River Falls city council approved installation of traffic lights at the intersection of Main avenue and Eighth street—or perhaps more properly the intersection of highway 32 and highway 1. We mention the state highways because it seems they are the primary reason the lights are to be placed there. The state will pay the bulk of the cost.

We don't fault the council for taking advantage of state funds and it is possible that traffic control lights at Eighth and Main are desirable or even necessary. Installation of such a light system is quite costly, with $50,000 mentioned for the Eighth and Main project, so it isn't practical to locate signal lights on every corner in town.

But we wonder if the council in this case didn't let cost-sharing fiscal sharpness dull its overall vision. There can't be an intersection in town that needs traffic control worse than First and LaBree, the Northwestern hospital corner. It has been suggested—albeit facetiously—that the selective service office should be located in the hopsital so that male children born there can register for the draft while waiting to cross First street.

While the cost of installation of lights may be high, there are off-setting financial considerations. Not the least of these are the property damage and personal injury accidents which could likely be significantly diminished. It is speculative, of course, but how long would it take to pay for the cost of lights in reduced property damage or personal injury losses?

According to information which we requested from the city police department, the Eighth and Main intersection has had 11 intersection and related accidents with one personal injury since June of 1971. The First and LaBree intersection has had 25 intersection and related accidents with three personal injuries during the same time. Those figures should tell us something.

And call it far-out if you will, but what about the time loss, mental anguish and frustration caused by excessively long waits at the LaBree avenue stop signs on First street? In our driving experience at any hour of the day we have never had the problem at Eighth and Main that we have had at First and LaBree.

Even with cost-sharing funds available, it seems that need should come into greater consideration in determining city traffic light placement. Forgive the analogy, but it seems to us the council in this matter has acted like the little boy who dropped a quarter on the sidewalk and then chose to look for it around the corner where the light was better.

More "Protection"

Following editorial is from the New Prague Times:

. . .The increasing tendency of appointive bureaucracy to encroach upon legislative, enforcement and judicial powers should serve as a warning signal to be on guard. By legislative enactment, various agencies, commissions, departments or by whatever name gain the authority to adopt regulations, police these rules and act as judges of alleged violations.

To cite a current instance: ccording to information available to this newspaper, the Minnesota Department of Consumer Services has prepared drastic proposals for policing advertising and selling practices. Among the proposals are stipulations requiring that where the word "free" is used in printed media, an explanation of conditions if any must appear in half the size of the type of the word free; and restrictions were also placed upon the use of the word sale.

It has long been the practice for stores, banks, auto dealers, and others to advertise free gifts contingent upon some purchase, deposit or other consideration and consumers are entirely able to form their own judgement on whether or not to accept the transaction. All reputable businesses and newspapers abide by the recognized canons of business ethics and customers do not need to be spoonfed by their servants in St. Paul.

Imagine the horde of examiners, inspectors, enforcers and whatnot which would be required to police these proposed regulations throughout the state of Minnesota. From this observance point, it looks like the heights of the ridiculous.

Consumer protection is a laudable, invaluable and necessary endeavor—but, it should not be used to shackle honest, customer-trusted business enterprise.

The whole idea behind athletic competition and sportsmanship was exemplified at the close of the 1974 region eight baseball tournament championship game played between long time rivals Bemidji and Thief River Falls on the Red Lake Falls diamond.

Defending state champion Bemidji had just won its unprecedented seventh straight region eight title by beating Thief River Falls 4-1 when Bemidji stars John Buckanaga and Andy Kannenberg approached Thief River Falls coach Ralph Skay who stood alone, kind of blurry-eyed, near the Prowler bench as he checked for any left-behind equipment for the last time after announcing his retirement from his head coaching position he's held for the past 22 years.

"Mr. Skay," addressed Buckanaga, "we understand you're retiring." "Yes I am," answered Skay. "You must have coached for a long time," questioned Buckanaga. "Yes, it has been a long time; 34 years," said Skay. "Well, we would like to present you with the game ball as kind of a memento," offered Buckanaga.

It was, perhaps, just a small incident, but it did show that athletic competition is more than just trying to defeat an opponent, but just as important, it teaches people to have respect for each other.

Bemidji is rated a heavy favorite to win a second straight state baseball title when the 1974 tournament begins Wednesday at Midway Stadium in St. Paul.

Wednesday's first round games will match Willmar of region one against Grand Rapids of region five at 1 p.m.; Jasper of region two against Morris of region six at 3 p.m., Harding of region four against Bemidji of region eight at 7 p.m.; and Owatonna of region one against Glencoe of region three at 9 p.m.

Wednesday's winners play at 7 and 9 p.m. Thursday. The 1974 tournament championship game will be played Friday at 7:30 p.m.

Al Adams, coach of the Northland community college golf team that won the MJCAA state and NJCAA region XIII tournaments this spring, cited heat as the main reason his talented squad wasn't able to meet its pre-tournament expectations in last week's national junior college golf tournament in Florida.

"The heat was really bad," explained Adams. "It was between 90 to 100 degrees all the time. The kids said they were able to play three or four holes real well, then the heat would get to them and they wouldn't be able to chip and putt very well."

"The greens on the Mirror Lakes course were huge and they were a lot different than what we're used to," pointed out Adams. "We just weren't able to play them very well and you have to play good golf around the greens to win. You have to be able to putt well, and I guess we didn't. We just never adjusted to their greens."

"The heat, through, was the biggest thing going against us." Northland's veteran coach noted. "In fact, there wasn't any golfer from the north that was able to do very well down there. The kids from the north just weren't used to it."

"This is unbelievable," said Grand Rapids high school principal James Keranen recently after the school won its fifth region seven championship of the 1973-74 school year.

The Indians won region titles in hockey, gymnastics, track and baseball. "You hope to win one regional title in a year, and here we win five. It's been a great year," said Keranen.

Crookston Reds Top TRF Ball Club 11-2

Crookston Reds erupted for six unearned runs in the seventh inning Sunday night to beat Thief River Falls 11-2 in the opening game of the 1974 Norman-Polk amateur baseball league.

The Crookston squad benefited by six Thief River Falls errors to score nine unearned runs in the game. Three tainted Crookston runs scored in the second inning to start the scoring on the Thief River Falls fairgrounds baseball diamond. Crookston added single runs in the fourth and sixth innings for a 5-0 lead before pushing six runs across in the seventh.

Thief River Falls scored its only two runs in the bottom of the seventh when Larry Coltom doubled and scored on a single by Rob Almquist, with Almquist later scoring on a fielder's choice.

Both teams totaled eight base hits in the chilly game, but Thief River Falls committed six of the game's eight errors. Kyle Pearson picked up the win for Crookston while Pete Sullivan suffered the loss. Bruce Johnson replaced Sullivan on the mound in the seventh. Johnson was the only Thief River Falls player with two base hits.

"We have to tighten our defense," pointed out Thief River Falls coach Howard Dalager. "Our hitting wasn't too bad for the first time out, but our defense does need work."

Thief River Falls will be back in action Wednesday when the team travels to Ada for a 7:30 p.m. ball game.

Region Eight Golfer Wins State Title

A region eight golfer, Miles Prestemoen of Bagley, won first place medalist honors in the 1974 Minnesota state golf tournament conducted Friday on the University of Minnesota golf course in Minneapolis.

Prestemon, the region eight medalist, shot a record tying 140 to edge defending champion Brad Cook of Northfield for the prestigious medal. Prestemon shot evenly matched rounds of 69-71 while Cook went 73-69.

All 36 tournament holes were played Friday after three inches of rain fell just prior to Thursday's scheduled meet start.

Austin won the state team title.

Two Thief River Falls golfers competed in this year's state classic, with Prowler sophomore Mike Jury turning in a strong 157 and senior Bruce Restad shooting a 165.

Jury shot rounds of 78-79 to record the second lowest score ever turned in by a Jack Boyer coached Prolwer golfer in state meet competition. Ron Solheim placed second in the 1960 meet with a 153. Restad posted rounds of 82-83.

"I think Jury and Restad did a real fine job," said Boyer after the tournament. "In fact, the whole region eight group did very well down there."

Following Prestemon and Cook in the individual standings was Bemidji's Bill Israelson who placed third with a 145 on rounds of 73-79.

Other region eight golfers turning in strong performances in the field of about 150 included Murray Odegaard of Roseau who tied for 13th with a 77-74-151; Ira Cota of Red Lake Falls tied for 24th with a 75-79-154; Jury tied for 34th; Dick Howe of Bemidji tied for 54th with an 80-81-161; Jack Schwartz of Bemidji tied for 67th with an 81-82-163; and Restad tied for 75th along with Don Hedlund of Roseau who shot an 84-81-165.

"Jury, as a sophomore did just a tremendous job down there," commented Boyer. "Bruce did a fine job too, but he did have a little trouble with his hook that kept him from placing higher. I was real pleased with both of their performances."

Northland Golfers Take Part In National Meet

Northland community college golfers returned to Thief River Falls Sunday afternoon after participating in the 1974 national junior college tournament on the Mirror Lakes country club golf course near Ft. Myers, Florida.

Coach Al Adams' Northland squad, winner of the MJCAA state and NJCAA region XIII tournaments, didn't quite match their pre-tournament ambitions at the national meet, but according to Adams, "Enjoyed a really good experience with many memories."

Jim Strandemo, Dick Penning, Jay Moum, Mark Metusalem and Lee Sorensen represented Northland as a team at the national tournament.

First day scores Tuesday found Strandemo shooting a 77, Moum 78, Metusalem 81, Penning 85 and Sorensen 88. Second round scores Wednesday found Strandemo turning in a 75 for a 152, Sorensen 82-170, Moum 82-160, Penning 83-168 and Metusalem 84-165.

Northland didn't make the team cut after the second round, but Strandemo qualified to compete as an individual in Thursday's third round. Entering Thursday's play Strandemo, a freshman from Mahnomen, sat in 36th place—"In very good position to qualify for All-America status with some outstanding golfing on his part," according to Adams. But he struggled to an 80 during Thursday's play and withdrew from further competition, even though he could have continued playing. Strandemo was in 65th place with a 232 stroke total after Thursday's round, but felt he should withdraw and allow his team to leave Friday morning instead of spending more time in the southwestern Florida community.

"The kids were all disappointed in themselves," said Adams who had hoped to be among the top place finishers in the tournament. "They all thought they should have done a lot better, and that we should have scored better than we did. We're disappointed, of course, but the experience was great. Everything about the tournament was outstanding."
